ORPHANS QUIT THE CITIZENS

Refuse to Longer Keep Company With Leaders of Bigelow Machine.

ALL PLEDGES BROKEN

Say Present Managers of Citizens Party Is Not Worthy of People's Confidence.

INTEND TO KEEP UP THE FIGHT

Fourteen members of Pittsburgh common council and Controller John B. Larkin, known in local politics as the political "Orphans," have decided to withdraw from the present county contest and separate themselves from the leadership of the men who have abandoned the principles and pledges of the Citizens party.

The action was agreed upon at a The public is apprised of it in a meeting of the "Orphans" last night. The public is apprised of it in a lengthy statement printed in full below. These men declare that the present Citizens leaders have broken every pledge made by the party and are no longer worthy of the confidence and support of the people.

While the "Orphans" have quit company with the Bigelow machine, and will give it no assistance in the election next Tuesday, they do not decide to refrain from voting. They also give notice that they will be heard from in the future. This means the organization of a new party for the councilmanic contests of February with an eye on the controllership election of 1905. All of the 15 "Orphans" attended the meeting last night and signed this statement, which will be the last utterance of the "Orphans" prior to the approaching election:

"Orphans" Give Reasons.

Councilmen, having proper regard for themselves and a pride in the community they represent, are justified in banding together for the purpose of insisting on the carrying out of the promises and pledges made by the political party whose successful candidates they were, and for the purpose of advising their constituents of any evasion of duty, or any attempted betrayal of the confidence of the people on the part of the men in whom the political party has entrusted the leadership; hence, as public servants and members of the Citizens party, and in view of recent unpardonable actions and attempted betrayals on the part of the prominent leaders of the Citizens party, we deem it expedient to say:

It was the moral and political duty of the present Citizens leaders, controlling, as they did, every branch of the city government, to aid councils in the passage of promised reform measures and in the carrying out of councilmanic campaign pledges. Instead, however, it became the selfish ambition of these men to address themselves to that class of legislation which they thought would inure to their personal, political advantage and most likely bring to them substantial returns.

Forced to Do Something.

It is a matter of record that the only redeemed pledges of the Citizens party are those which were literally wrung from the leaders by a determined band of independent councilmen. The assistance given by the leaders in the passage of the linear tax ordinance was only given so that public wrath might for a moment be appeased, but even that condescension could not have been wrested from these leaders had they succeeded this last summer in betraying the people through intrigue with the obnoxious "old ring" whose sores were fresh from the assaults of an enraged people. Out in the open field, in full view of an offended public, these trusted leaders of the Citizens party offered to sacrifice their party for personal gain and played political trap with the corporals of a bankrupt political organization for the old shoes of its allayed retired commander and such other campaign equipage as the ring had left.

The proposition to deal at all with men branded as political outlaws was an insult to the people, to the Citizens party, and to the Democrats allied with it. The attempted deal was visible proof that at any time, under any circumstances these leaders of the Citizens party are ready to trade it, bag, baggage and record, for any apparent political advantage.

The leaders of the Citizens party have not only failed to keep their promises in respect to ordinances demanded by the people, but they have prevented enactments intended to reasonably tax corporations and to that extent lift the burden from the home.

Acts of Bosses Unpardonable.

The encouragement and aid given by the leaders to councilmen to break their solemn written pledges and to uphold and countenance "pimp committees" of select council are against the policy of the Citizens party and unpardonable.

The Railroad Ordinances.

The violation of parliamentary rules and procedure in forcing the P. R. R. Duquesne way ordinance through common council last summer is still fresh in the minds of a disappointed, disgusted people, and only shows to what extent these leaders will go. It is seriously contended by many that the city's property should not be given at all to the P. R. R. Company for the contemplated improvement, but under no circumstances should the franchise be granted until arrangements are made for the joint use thereof with other railroads, and until a fair compensation to the city is assured. We have waited long and patiently in the hopes that the leaders would realize the utter folly of further antagonizing this city by refusing to take some action looking to the proper disposition of the P. R. R. Duquesne way ordinance, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad ordinances and other ordinances now tied up in select council. The delay in acting upon the Baltimore & Ohio railroad ordinances is due to the efforts of one of the leaders who has boasted of his having done so.

While we have an abiding faith in the integrity of the great masses composing the Citizens party, and believe in and adhere to the grand principles of that party as expressed in the platform adopted at the open meeting in Old City hall February 1, 1902, yet we have no further confidence in the political integrity, desires or intentions of the leaders of that once glorious Citizens party, and publicly charge them with aiding in the destruction of an offensive, corrupt political ring in the concealed hope that they might build upon its ruins a new ring, clothed with new power, to revive forbidden political methods and promote political practices upon which the seal of public condemnation has been stamped.

Organize a New Party.

We firmly believe that soon after the coming election the ungrateful, intriguing leaders will perfect the plan of uniting the objectionable element of the Citizens party with the dregs of the "old ring" for further selfish political motives and practices which the people have so strongly denounced. The people, however, are not idle, nor have they forgotten the sincere appeals made in the past months for promised reform legislation, nor are they so dull of comprehension as to mistake timeworn and meaningless promises for worthy efforts and practical accomplishments. There is an indomitable determination on the part of the people to have a government of their own liking

CHANCES GOOD IN JONES' CITY

Golden Rule Mayor of Toledo Lukewarm in Johnson Cause.

A VIGOROUS APPEAL

Senator Hanna Tells Workingmen What They May Expect If Cleveland Mayor Wins.

DONE NOTHING FOR LABOR

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Toledo, O., Oct. 27.—Under conditions sufficient to stir them to their best efforts, Senator Hanna and Col. Herrick tonight delivered two of the most forceful and significant speeches they have yet made in this campaign.

The meeting was one of especial importance, because the result in Toledo and Lucas county will, to a large degree, determine the complexion of the next legislature and have bearing upon the election of United States senator. Until recently this has been considered most doubtful ground. The Republican managers now express themselves as confident of carrying both the city and Lucas county by a comfortable majority. This increased hope of success is due in the main to the refusal of Toledo's Golden Rule Mayor Jones to support the Johnson fusion ticket with the cordiality he was expected to show and the consequent effect this has had upon his followers.

At the opening of the campaign Democratic and Independent tickets were both placed in nomination here in opposition to the Republican. Later these were fused into one known as the non-partisan and upon it were placed four Democratic and one free silver Republican legislative nominees. It was immediately given the support of the Johnson Democracy and Jones was expected to follow. While doing this to the extent of making two speeches, he has refused to take any active part and his attitude has been of a character to injure rather than help. This, added to the open opposition of many well known old line Democrats, has so changed the situation as to make Republican success a seeming certainty.

Senator Hanna's Speech.

The meeting was held in Memorial hall and an audience of fully 5,000 attended. Senator Hanna referred directly to Johnson's purpose in the campaign. "Johnson," he said, "has no idea of being elected governor. The whole purpose of his campaign is to secure a majority in the legislature.

"I am not so egotistical as to think that my personality is the cause of this antagonism. It is the desire to capture sufficient votes that he may be my successor. Johnson is making a desperate attempt to fool the people into believing that the governorship is the chief thing he is after. But that is not it. While directing attention to the governorship he hopes to slip into the close legislative districts and outwit the Republicans. He will be fooled. The voters of Ohio are not to be caught that way."

In speaking particularly to the workingmen the senator said: "Johnson claims to be the friend of the workingmen. I have known him for 25 years and I know nothing he has done. You know by experience you have had with which party your interests lie. If you are guided by that I know you will not go far wrong."

Col. Herrick's talk was of a plain and business-like character. He reviewed the administration of state affairs for the past 12 years. Under Republican rule has come the payment of the public debt, the reduction of the tax rates, the expenditure of $6,000,000 for the betterment of charitable institutions and the accumulation of a balance in the treasury of $3,000,000.

Another Democratic Document.

The recent agitation in England of Joseph Chamberlain for the adoption of a protective tariff and the recommendation of a commission that China place itself upon a gold basis, were referred to as a vindication of Republican principles.

Another Democratic document today made its way into the campaign. It is issued by Chairman Salen of the state committee and is an appeal to the Jewish voters to oppose Senator Hanna. It condemns the senator's record on the immigration bill, claiming he was especially antagonistic to the admission of foreign Jews. The only reference he made to it was to say, "When they will find by my vote that I have taken the position of opposing the immigration of any nation I will retire from congress."

ELKINS IS WEAKER.

Life of the Big Philadelphia Financier Is Now Ebbing Rapidly.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—The attending physicians tonight announced that William L. Elkins, who is at the point of death at his country home near this city, was resting comfortably, though sinking spells are frequent. He is fast growing weaker.

His physicians say a weakened heart and impaired circulation are the chief foes with which they are now battling.

CONVICTED MAN WORKING TO PAY FOR WIFE'S BURIAL

NEW CASTLE, PA., Oct. 27.—(Special.)—Attorney B. A. Winternitz today petitioned Judge Wallace to respite until the December term of court, the imposing of sentence on George Cramer, convicted of manslaughter for killing Erasmus Martin, of Mahonington. Cramer's wife and child died recently, and he is working at the Pennsylvania roundhouse here, earning money to pay their burial expenses. Judge Wallace postponed the sentence.

ASSASSIN SHOT FIVE TIMES AT THE MEXICAN PRESIDENT

Bullets Failed to Take Effect and Culprit Who Has a Bad Record Was Hustled Off to Prison.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Guanajuato, Mexico, Oct. 27.—A bold attempt to assassinate President Diaz was made here today by Elis Toscano, during the progress of the festivities. Toscano, who is a man of the lowest class, was seized and sent to prison. Although the president escaped injury great excitement prevails.

The president, his staff and guests were passing by the Cantagor garden in a street car, when Toscano approached the car shouting, and fired five shots from a revolver. None of the shots took effect. Pablo Escandon, of the president's staff, rushed out of the car and caught the man, wrenching the revolver from his grasp and the police took Toscano to prison.

The president remained perfectly cool and was acclaimed by the crowd of citizens who showed their joy at his escape. He also received the congratulations of the diplomatic corps and many of the leading citizens who are here for the festival.

Toscano is a man with a bad criminal record and was but recently released from prison where he served a term for homicide. His evil record renders the theory of a deliberate plan of assassination probable, and a searching inquiry is now in progress.

An attempt was made on the life of President Diaz on December 16, 1897, during the public celebrations in the City of Mexico of the anniversary of Mexican independence. A man rushed toward him and attempted to kill him. President Diaz was not hurt. This attempted murder created much excitement and subsequently the assassin was dragged from prison by a mob and lynched.

BOWLES RECEIVED NO PAY FOR HIS SERVICES

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The sudden fashion in which Rear Admiral Francis T. Bowles resigned as chief constructor of the navy and the use of his name in the testimony given in the Shipbuilding case in New York, involving the receipt by him of large sums of money and stock, are still the cause of comment in Washington.

Admiral Bowles today said: "I have never received any cash or stocks from the company. I was offered a place in the company but I declined it. If I had accepted the proposition I probably would have gotten what they say I was to get.

"In the latter part of 1899 Col. J. J. McCook asked Secretary Long if I could do some work for some of his clients who were Alexander Orr & Son of New York, the lawyers in the first shipbuilding combination. Secretary Long consented and I did the work. I took it on a contingent fee and as nothing came of the concern I got no compensation.

"As to the new shipbuilding concern I did no work for it and I do not know how it could have utilized the report I made for Alexander Green in 1899."

A SHINING EXAMPLE.

LEVEE CONVENTION HONORS ANDERSON

Pittsburgh Representative and Col. Vance Plead for Ohio Valley River Interests.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 2.—Pittsburgh's delegate to the great levee convention, George H. Anderson, secretary of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce, was honored with being appointed on committees on permanent organization and resolutions.

Mr. Anderson and Colonel John L. Vance, chairman of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, are casting a strong influence over the convention to bring about a bond of unity between the Ohio and Mississippi valley interests and to pledge them to work together before congress. In an eloquent speech Colonel Vance carried the convention by storm when he pleaded for the Ohio valley saying that this association had 15,000,000 constituents.

Mr. Anderson said tonight that he was a lone fisherman from Pennsylvania. "We owe much to southern congressmen," he declared. "In the freeing of the Monongahela river it was votes for southern congressmen that defeated President Cleveland and opened that stream. We have not forgotten. The Mississippi river has devasted millions of acres of rich land and the time has come when the federal government must take control of the levees."

DEPOSITS INSURED.

Bankers Asked to Join Association to Prevent Losses to Creditors.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—Samuel D. Archer of Saratoga, N. Y., is calling on local bankers to interest them in a National Bankers' Mutual Fidelity association, the purpose of which is to guarantee all creditors and depositors against loss. The plan contemplates a great national association in which all the national banks will have membership, being entitled to one vote for each $25,000 deposited in the central organization.

Mr. Archer says his plan has already been submitted to the comptroller of the currency. In 86 years prior to 1888, Mr. Archer says only 195 banks failed, and the losses to creditors of these banks was less than $15,000,000. In his proposed association each bank is to have on deposit one-half of 1 per cent of its total deposits. If all the national banks in the country joined in membership of the central body over $15,000,000 and more would be in the central treasury, according to the arrangement proposed by Mr. Archer.

NEW SUN SPOTS.

Important Discovery Made by a Fifteen-Year-Old Boy at Denver Observatory.

DENVER, COL., Oct. 27.—Herbert S. Howe, the 15-year-old son of Prof. Herbert A. Howe, instructor in astronomy at Denver university, is said to have discovered at the upper edge of the sun's disc a new group of sun spots as great in magnitude and importance, it is said, as the group discovered by the scientists of the Washington observatory two weeks ago.

The boy made his observations with a six-inch telescope in the observatory at University park in this city.

Prof. John A. Brashear, acting chancellor of the Western University of Pennsylvania, stated last night that the spots on the sun seen at the Denver observatory and at Washington were the same spots which he noticed on the opposite side of the sun's body a little over two weeks ago, which he fully described at the time for The Gazette. Prof. Brashear stated that the sun turned on its axis about every 25½ days. He said the spots had altered some since his observations of a couple of weeks ago, that the eastern end of the great spot is now shaped like the letter "Y," with two small umbra at two upper points and dark umbra near the center.

He said the great eastern spot was covered with faculae, making a light much brighter than even the sun itself and showing a tremendous heat at the center. Prof. Brashear stated that he had taken three photographs of the sun's spots with a spectral heliograph. He said at the time of the first observation, a couple of weeks ago, other astronomers in the vicinity noticed a great aurora, or northern lights, over the northern part of the hemisphere.

HEIRESS BURNED TO DEATH.

Little Catherine O'Day of St. Louis Would Have Inherited $100,000.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—Had little Catherine O'Day, who was burned to death at her home here, lived until she was 18 years old, she would have inherited more than $100,000. Catherine was the daughter of John O'Day, the Springfield millionaire, who, at his death two years ago, left an estate valued at more than $500,000.

How the accident that ended the child's life occurred, no one exactly knows. Mrs. O'Day and the nurse were upstairs dressing for dinner. Little Catherine with Lawrence Stone, the son of a neighbor, and John, her little brother, were out in the back yard making a bonfire. In some way the dress of the little girl caught fire.

HATCHET IS BURIED AFTER LENGTHY STRIFE

The Window Glass Workers of America Have Voted to Unite With L. A. 300.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

ANDERSON, IND., Oct. 27.—President John Phillips, Jr., of the Window Glass Workers' Association of America, tonight announced that the referendum vote recently taken on the question of the amalgamation of his organization with that of the old Local Assembly No. 300, of which Simon Burns is president, has been counted and was overwhelmingly in favor of the amalgamation.

This ends the fight which has rent the glass workers' union for several years. The formal resolutions adopted Saturday in a meeting at Cleveland provide for an executive board of the two associations acting as a temporary commission to serve until a convention is called to elect permanent officers and arrange all the details resulting from the combination of the opposing forces. This commission will hold a meeting soon, probably at Buffalo, to name temporary officers, adjust a scale and to attend to other business which necessarily comes up for consideration.

Under the agreement reached when a permanent organization is effected neither of the two presidents of the old organization will be eligible to the presidency of the new body.

TURKISH MINISTER'S SON IS PAINFULLY INJURED

SAYVILLE, L. I., Oct. 27.—(Special.)—The 10-year-old son of Chekib Bey, the Turkish minister, went shooting yesterday, using an old-fashion shotgun having a ramrod. The lad shot the ramrod through the palm of one hand and partly through the other, making a painful but not serious wound. The family of Chekib Bey are closing their Sayville home preparatory to returning to Washington.

TWENTY HOUSES BURNED LAST NIGHT IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Twenty houses, including stores and private residences, were destroyed tonight in a fire that swept over two city blocks in Kings Bridge, at the upper end of Manhattan island. Two firemen and a member of the Kings Bridge military company were severely burned. The total property damage was about $150,000.

KRUPP SECRET IS DISCOVERED

Midvale Steel Company Supposed to Have Acquired It.

ARMOR GUARANTEED

They Will Put Up Bond of $250,000 to Fulfill Specifications of the Government.

OTHER CONCERNS GUESSING

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 76, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.

There is a growing opinion that the secret process for the manufacture of Krupp armor plate is a secret no longer and that the methods by which the great German ironmaster excelled in making protective plates will be used by the Midvale Steel Company in carrying out the contract awarded it yesterday by the navy department.

Ever since the Harveyized armor was superseded by the Krupp brand, the Carnegie and Bethlehem Steel Company have paid to the Krupp concern a royalty of $32.07 a ton for the right to manufacture it in this country. This sum, while paid by the manufacturing companies, was charged to the government and came out of the public treasury, in the aggregate it has amounted to several million of dollars.

When the bids were opened recently and it was found that the Midvale company had agreed to furnish the government with nearly 17,000 tons of armor according to the specifications of the department and at a price far below the price offered by the Carnegie and Bethlehem concern, it was also observed that in addition to the price quoted by the latter companies, the government would be obliged to pay the royalties, while the Midvale company's bid said nothing about royalties. The only conclusion to be reached from this was that they expected of pay no royalties on the plate they made, as if they did, they could have charged it to the government and still have kept their bid far enough below their competitors to have landed the contract so far as price was concerned.

Midvale Concern Non-Committal.

The question then raised was how the Midvale company intended to make armor that would come up to the specifications without using the Krupp process which was supposed to be a secret and controlled exclusively in this country by the Carnegie and Bethlehem companies. In reply the Midvale company merely pointed to their works to show their capacity for open hearth steel, to their capital and financial resources to demonstrate their ability to build and equip an armor plant, and to the $250,000 bond that accompanied their bid as evidence of their good faith.

Doubts that were previously entertained by the navy officials as to the ability of the Midvale company to carry out its contract have been quite generally satisfied. A statement issued by the department today says:

"In making this decision the department took cognizance of the fact that while the Carnegie and Bethlehem companies were experienced manufacturers, they have yet to deliver, in the aggregate, some 25,000 tons of armor on outstanding contracts, before they can commence to deliver on new ones, and that while it had not a complete armor plant, it had many of the most essential features of one, and the improvements now in progress and others projected gave assurance that the company would within the time allowed supply the quantity of armor awarded to it.

The Law on the Subject.

"Each of the bidders bid on the entire lot of 16,000 tons, and in making the awards the department has sought to do justice to the respective bidders, having in view the best interests of the government and the statute which provides 'that no contract for the purchase of gun steel or armor of the navy shall hereafter be made until the subject matter of the same shall have been submitted to public competition by the department by advertisement.'

"All armor heretofore contracted for amounting to about 83,000 tons has been purchased from the Carnegie Steel Company and the Bethlehem Steel Company."

Admiral O'Neil, chief of the bureau of ordnance, who recently inspected the plant of the Midvale company, said to The Gazette correspondent today:

"I found that the Midvale people have a very complete and up-to-date plant and their facilities for making open hearth steel are first-class. They now have some very heavy presses and are building one that can be used in the manufacture of heavy armor plates. Of course they will have to get a great deal new machinery, but I understand that they have already ordered some of it. The fact is that they are in much better condition to enter upon the manufacture of armor than the Carnegie Steel Company was when it entered the field."

"Do you think they will use the Krupp process?"

"I know nothing about the process they will use," he said. "We are not interested in that just so the armor comes up to the specifications."

The Midvale company will be obliged to give a bond equivalent to 10 per cent of the amount of the contract, which in this case will be nearly $250,000, guaranteeing faithful performance of the contract.

BETTING AT EVEN MONEY ON NEW YORK ELECTION

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—Most of the election bets in Wall street today were at even money and in a few cases odds of 10 to 9 and 10 to 8 were demanded on McClellan, though no bets were recorded at these figures. All the large bets made today on the curb were at even money.

SARTORIS SAYS CANADA IS OURS

Fighting Blood of Civil War Hero's Grandson Is Stirred.

WE SHOULD TAKE HER

The Former Army Officer Flings Some Unpalatable Facts in Teeth of Canadians.

HE QUOTES HIS UNCLE JESSE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Coburg, Ontario, Oct. 27.—Algernon Sartoris, late captain in the United States army, grandson of Gen. U. S. Grant, is in favor of the immediate annexation of Canada by the United States. He claims, in fact, that Canada is of right and always has been a part of the United States. Canada's present position as a colonial power, he says, is only through the sufferance of the United States, which at any time could take the country.

Sartoris' candid expression of his views was the result of a controversy he had entered into with a Toronto paper over Canadian criticism of the Alaskan boundary award and a letter he had written the paper. Capt. Sartoris, who is visiting his mother in this city, said today:

"Yes, I wrote the letter to the press and I have nothing to apologize for. I only regret that it was made to appear that I was still a member of the United States army. I have resigned my commission. Of course had I been an officer of the army such remarks possibly would have provoked a court-martial. I believe and have always been taught that Canada was by right a part of the United States and would be some day by force or favor. I still think so.

"Why, my uncle, Jesse Grant, son of the general, had studied the situation on the Pacific coast carefully has been over much of the ground, and I had heard him say that there should be no arbitration; that if necessary a few hundred American troops should be thrown in there to hold the country by force if necessary.

"I did not say it was merely the favor of the United States that gave Canada its present lease of life as a nation. The United States must have the dominion some day and it might as well take it now. Could the United States take it? Well, now, what are you fellows about? Of course it could. I have heard the question discussed ardently among the army officers of the republic."

MIDVALE COMPANY TO BUILD $2,000,000 PLANT

New Armor Mill Will Be Constructed at Once and Employ Hundreds of Men.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—Six thousand tons of steel armor plate for the 13,000-ton battleships Idaho and Mississippi will be supplied by the Midvale steel works. This marks the introduction of Philadelphia's big steel plant in commercial competition with the Bethlehem and Carnegie companies. The bid of the Midvale plant was $700,000 lower than its rivals, but the lack of a suitable plate for the manufacture caused the Midvale company to stipulate that the delivery of the plate could not begin until 26 months after signing the contract.

An official of the Midvale company said tonight: "The company all along thought at least part of the contract would be given it. The making of armor plate will, of course, be a new venture for us, but we feel sure of success. It will give employment to hundreds of men and will allow us to continually compete with the Bethlehem and Carnegie companies."

RAILS FOR COREA.

Homestead Mills Will Go to Work on New Contract for 5,000 Tons.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—The United States Steel Corporation, through its newly organized United States Steel Products Company, which is to take care of all foreign business of the corporation, has just secured some substantial contracts for rails to be shipped to the far east and Australia. The Carnegie mills at Homestead will turn out about 5,000 tons of rails for the Fusan-Chemulpo railroad, Corea. The contract price is $25.00 f. o. b., New York. Delivery is to be made in January and February next year. Another contract calls for 2,000 tons for export to Australia.

The Steel Corporation is figuring on large lots of bridge material and a further lot of rails for the Fusan-Chemulpo road. J. K. Robinson of Iquique, Peru, who represents the Westinghouse company and the Standard Underground Cable Company of Pittsburgh in Peru, Chili, Bolivia and Ecuador, has left here for Pittsburgh for the purpose of placing some large-sized contracts.

SCHWAB GOES TO LORETTO.

Former Steel President Called Home by Serious Illness of His Wife.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—Charles M. Schwab left Philadelphia this morning for his home at Loretto, where he has been called by the serious illness of his wife. Prior to his departure Mr. Schwab said that his wife has been ill for nearly a year, and that a change for the worse made it necessary for him to be with her.

He expects to remain in Loretto for some time. Mr. Schwab declined to make any statement of his further plans or to discuss the affairs of the United States Shipbuilding Company.

QUARANTINE IS ORDERED

State Board of Health Begins Campaign Against Allegheny Smallpox.

WARNINGS SENT OUT

Banks, Express Companies, Railways, Postoffices and Others Notified.

THE CITY TO BE GUARDED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Press Building.
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.

Orders to protect the outside world from smallpox contagion in the city of Allegheny, were issued today by Dr. W. H. Batt, quarantine officer-at-large of the state board of health.

Dr. Batt arrived here this morning from Pittsburgh. He was in consultation most of the day with administration officials at Harrisburg, by telephone, and at 5 o'clock this afternoon he left for Washington, D. C., where he will meet Dr. Benjamin Lee, secretary and executive officer of the state board of health. Dr. Batt will leave Washington in the morning, over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at 1 o'clock and expects to arrive in Pittsburgh about 9 o'clock.

"The state board of health," said Dr. Batt to The Gazette correspondent this afternoon, "on October 15 decided to quarantine Allegheny city unless the laws regulating the control of contagious diseases were enforced by the Allegheny bureau of health. A letter to this effect, outlining the necessary restrictions, was mailed October 19, to Superintendent McLaughlin. He was informed that if the order was not complied with within five days, quarantine would be declared without further notice.

State Board Has No Alternative.

"The time limit expired last Saturday. The municipal government of Allegheny, at its council meeting Monday, evidenced its inability to control the situation, and there is left the state board of health no alternative except interpretation and enforcement of the law.

"The quarantine would have been instituted last Saturday had it not been for the appeals made by prominent citizens of the city—among them Mr. Frank J. Torrance, R. H. Boggs, Mr. Davidson and others. At their instance the time limit was extended, but without result. Orders have been issued today from this office, the headquarters of the state board of health, regulating the transmission of mail, money by banks, parcels, packages and baggage. Superintendent Bradley of the railway mail service, whose headquarters are in New York city, has been ordered to confer with the distribution of all mail matter outbound from the city of Allegheny. The express companies have been directed not to carry any baggage from within the limits of Allegheny, and notices have been and are being prepared, which will be sent to every bank in the commonwealth, instructing them to not receive from the banks of the city of Allegheny any money which has not been fumigated.

Penalties Are Severe.

"The penalty for violation of these orders is $1,000 fine, or imprisonment for one year, or both, within the discretion of the court. Should a bank disobey this order it will be subject to an order from the treasury department. Should an express company violate the order, it will suffer the full penalty of the law, and no public carrier, in my opinion, is willing to pay $1,000 fine for the privilege of carrying a trunk or crate. So far as interference of the mails is concerned, there will be no difficulty for the reason that the government is always ready and anxious to enforce legal requirements of this character."

Dr. Batt was asked by The Gazette correspondent if a quarantine would be established preventing the people of Allegheny city from entering contiguous cities, boroughs and townships.

"That will be done as I return to Pittsburgh. It is a matter of last resort, and one that the state board of health is reluctant to enforce, because of the great hardship which it will inflict upon the people of Allegheny. Personally I do not see how such an order can be avoided. When I reach Pittsburgh tomorrow, I will immediately secure a sufficient force of guards who will be stationed at all necessary points to prevent intercourse and travel between the city of Allegheny and adjacent territory.

Hot Shot at Solicitor Porter.

"I observe by the morning papers that City Solicitor Porter of Allegheny, claims that the state board of health has not adequate power, under the act of 1903, to enforce the regulations it has submitted to the officials of the city of Allegheny. Full power was given the board of health by the act of 1885, which created the board, to care for the welfare of the people of the commonwealth, under conditions like those which now exist in the city of Allegheny. The act of 1903 merely increases and enlarges the powers of the officers of the state board of health.

"Mr. Porter says that he would be pleased to take this matter into a court of equity. I wish to assure Mr. Porter that he could do nothing more pleasing to the state board of health, for the reason that, while our legal status is not a matter in question, it would be possible for us, in such a court, to secure reliable information bearing upon the health of the city of Allegheny, illuminating its incompetency, which we have thus far been unable to obtain."

It is quite within the range of possibility, that, within the next few days, a meeting of the state board of health may be convened in Pittsburgh or Allegheny. Upon the highest authority, I am informed that an investigation of the Allegheny bureau of health will be made, and it will be made regardless of the establishment of a quarantine against that city. CHESTER D. POTTER.

LAWSON MAKES OFFER.

Agrees to Pay $250,000 Commission for Settlement of Amalgamated Copper Suit.

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—Thomas W. Lawson, one of the large stockholders in the Amalgamated Copper Company, wired to Butte, Mont., today an offer to pay the miners' union a commission of $250,000 for at once satisfactorily arranging an arbitration of the question of the price to be paid Mr. Heinze for his mining property in that city. Mr. Lawson states he offered Heinze $5,000,000 for his property, but that the latter held out for $7,000,000. Lawson suggests that the difference between the offering and asking price be left to arbitration in the belief that such action will result in immediate resumption of business.

MINERS LEAVE BUTTE.

Believe the Amalgamated Copper Company's Shutdown Will Be Extended.

BUTTE, MONT., Oct. 27.—There was a lull today in the Amalgamated-Heinze copper war. As a result of the decision of Mr. Scallon to reject all the terms made by Mr. Heinze, many of the miners are leaving the city for Wyoming and Britton Columbia.

Scallon's announcement is interpreted to mean that the shutdown is to be of long duration. This afternoon he issued another lengthy statement to the public. The statement severely criticises the course of Mr. Heinze and John MacGinniss.

FACE TO FACE WITH TROUBLE

Alleghenians Learn That State Health Board Means Business.

MANY ARE AFFECTED

Annoyance and Inconvenience Will Be Wide-Spread and the Injury Great.

OFFICIALS STILL STUBBORN

"The governor of Pennsylvania ought to put in jail the Allegheny city officials whom the state board of health charges with refusing to take action to abate the smallpox epidemic," declared J. M. Davidson, president of the Second National bank of Allegheny last night when informed of the fact that the state authorities had finally decided to establish a quarantine against the North Side.

"These people claim that there is politics in this matter, but it will soon be time for the people of Allegheny to put some politics into it themselves. I don't think the order to keep the people inside the city will last 24 hours. The people will not stand for it. That is infringing upon their personal liberties.

"The embargo against money from Allegheny will not work hardship to any banking institution, firm or person on this side of the river. The banks can send their checks to the clearing house in Pittsburgh, every day, and there will be no trouble in cashing them. All checks, of course, will have to be fumigated. There will be no trouble about fumigating the mails, but the quarantine against the express companies will fall hard upon the merchants, particularly one large firm over here which does an extensive express business.

"I do not think that any part of this quarantine will last more than 24 hours. The people will take the matter into their own hands. I have not given the matter sufficient thought to say just what steps might be taken."

Postmaster Grier on Fumigation.

Postmaster James A. Grier of Allegheny, when informed last night of the situation as outlined by The Gazette's special correspondent in Philadelphia, said: "I shall be glad to be rapped by the authorities that the mail going out of Allegheny is under quarantine. I do not care to say anything on the subject. Of course nearly everybody knows what is done in cases where the mail is ordered fumigated. All mail matter has to pass through a disinfecting process that requires the piercing of all mail matter with wires and a thorough fumigation, the piercing being done so that all parts may be permeated by the fumigating process. This is what we did recently with the mail coming out of the Charles street district. Anybody who receives one of these letters can see by the letter itself that it has been fumigated."

"To forbid taking out of Allegheny express packages and baggage and removing of household goods out of the city will interfere with our business seriously," said Joseph Ford, manager of the Excelsior Express and Standard Cab Company. "Some months ago we gave up the package business, but we haul a great deal of baggage out of Allegheny, take many passengers to Pittsburgh from there and do much moving of household goods. It will cause us a financial loss, but the most serious aspect is the inconvenience the traveling public and families wishing to move from Allegheny will suffer. Personally, I do not believe that there is as much smallpox in Allegheny as in Pittsburgh, and I am sure that it is not spreading in Allegheny." Mr. Ford lives in Allegheny.

Serious for Express Companies.

"It will be a serious step to stop all merchandise traffic between Allegheny and Pittsburgh," said S. E. Donaldson, manager of the Allegheny Transfer Company, "for there is an enormous traffic in both merchandise and baggage. It means a serious financial loss to our company, but look at the loss to business men generally, and the inconvenience, annoyance and cost to the traveling public. If, in addition to forbidding traffic in merchandise, the state board of health also quarantines the people in Allegheny, I don't know what we shall do. We stable in Allegheny 150 horses that are driven over to Pittsburgh in the morning, are worked there all day and brought back to Allegheny in the evening. If Allegheny itself is quarantined, I suppose our drivers will not be allowed to go over to Pittsburgh."

"I understood that Allegheny's select council decided at a special meeting held Monday that smallpox was prevalent in the city and that the bureau of health's quarantine of smallpox suspects was all that could be desired, and I am surprised that the town is to be quarantined," said W. Teets, manager of the Allegheny Express Company. It was explained to Mr. Teets that the state board of health thinks different, and that because the Allegheny bureau of health is not enforcing the law, and is not co-operating with the state board, it has been decided to quarantine the city and bring the North Side health authorities to their senses.

Only One Thing for City to Do.

"I don't know which side is wrong or which side is right," said Mr. Teets, "but as there seems to be no doubt that the state board, whether legally empowered or not, has it in its power to injure the city by enforcing a strict quarantine on business, and even on the people living here, therefore it is not the time for the Allegheny authorities to stand on their dignity. Let them do what the state quarantine officer asks them to do; let them co-operate with the state board of health and avoid trouble. What good will it do even if the local health authorities are in the right on this question, when in the meantime the city is quarantined and that fact has gone abroad?"

None of the passengers had yet received notice of the quarantine. They will probably get it today.

Through The Gazette officials of all the steam railroads entering Allegheny, received last evening the first intimation they had that the health bureau of the state board of health's quarantine order, which so greatly affects their traffic.

Railroads are Interested.

General Superintendent W. C. Loree of the Baltimore & Ohio, operating the old Pittsburgh & Western, said that he had had no word as yet and that until this was received no official statement as to the railroad's course could be given. He said there was nothing to be done in any event, however, but to obey the legal authorities.

Supt. E. T. Whiter of the eastern division of the Ft. Wayne (Pennsylvania), made a similar statement as to the issuance of the order being a surprise. Supt. Frank F. Robb of the West Penn division, had also not heard of the order being sent out. Up to 6 o'clock, when he left the office, no intimation of it had reached the West Penn.

All of the officials take a most lively interest in the matter and are eager for fuller information. They expect to hear this morning from Dr. Batt in person, upon his arrival here, and are expected to co-operate with him to the fullest extent in efforts to take the proper precautions against the spread of the disease.

Dr. J. H. McClelland, the local member of the state board of health, said yesterday: "I have advised Dr. Batt to put the matter before our executive officer, and suggested that a special meeting of the state board of health be held in Pittsburgh to discuss the situation and arrive at some plan of action. It is a serious thing, the condition discovered and stir up trouble, but something must be done to protect the people outside of Allegheny. When the disease is spreading to the surrounding communities from that city, as it is being spread at present, we have to do something to prevent it. We do not care officially for the condition of Allegheny. It is the surrounding boroughs and townships that we want to look after.

Hopes for Amicable Settlement.

"The first thing to do will be to disinfect the mail, and the postal authorities have agreed to let us do that. The more strict the quarantine is in Allegheny the less stringent will be the measures against the city, and we want to impress the people with the need of stringent quarantine regulations within the city on the minds of the officials. If the Allegheny health bureau officials understand this perfectly, and carry out that idea, we will probably be able to make some satisfactory agreement with them. We want to settle the matter now before the cold weather brings on a more widespread epidemic."

Dr. Stanley M. Rinehart, the county quarantine officer, who is co-operating with the state board of health in districts outside the cities, yesterday denied that politics had anything to do with quarantining Allegheny. He said:

"The state board's action is free from politics. The situation has not been exaggerated by the board. The figures given by the state board for the first 20 days of this month were correct. Some of the patients died at the hospital in the last few days, and, of course, others were discharged as convalescent. The number of running cases may, therefore, have been as stated by the city officials at the council meeting yesterday, something under 30. It is a fact, though, that while the meeting was in progress the number of new cases for the day was made at the bureau of health, and they were six in number. No mention was made of those cases by the officials."

McLaughlin Still Stubborn.

Maj. James W. McLaughlin, superintendent of the Allegheny bureau of health, said last night: "If the state board of health wants to quarantine the mails or the entire city, let them try it. That is their business. I see no cause for any such action as that contemplated by the state authorities. I question their power to quarantine mails, express offices, or anything else. Believe we do. Our legal department will institute proceedings to protect the interests of the city against any such action. But if this thing is done, the wrath of the people will be on the state board of health, not on the local authorities."

An admission of the looseness of the methods employed in the Allegheny bureau of health was made yesterday by Director Thomas B. Scandrett of the department of public safety. With some political workers Scandrett spends his Newell's. A discussion arose between him and some politicians over the management of the health bureau.

"I'll bet you $500 that you don't quarantine smallpox properly," said an Allegheny man.

"Yes we do," replied Scandrett. "We always put guards on infected houses."

"Well, I'll bet you that same amount of money the guards don't stay where they are put. They wander about from place to place, at will, and I can prove what I say."

"I don't know anything about that," said Scandrett. "We put the guards on, and if they don't stay there I can't help it."

Four new cases of smallpox were reported by the Allegheny bureau of health yesterday, as follows: Otto Weisinger, 402 Hemlock street; T. Williamson, 2234 Spring Garden avenue; Rufus Gleggs, colored, no home, and Mary Jane O'Neal of 1237 Warner street, recently employed as an orderly at the Pittsburgh Municipal hospital.

Porter Talks Some More.

City Solicitor Stephen G. Porter said: "You can say for me that if the state board of health attempts to take any action in this matter that will be detrimental to the business interests of the city, I shall immediately proceed, in a legal way, to protect the city. I don't know why this should be done, but if it is I shall not hesitate to have the courts prevent it. I am positive of my legal status in this, and I have no doubt an injunction will be granted by the courts to restrain the state board of health from doing what they contemplate."

Widespread alarm was caused in Allegheny yesterday by the report that the state board of health intended doing the thing it is now reported has been decided upon, and the employes at city hall were kept answering telephone calls as to whether the city was quarantined. The clerks of a number of the principal hotels of Pittsburgh were among those who called up and inquired as to the truth of the report, stating that their guests wanted to leave on trains going out of Allegheny today. They were told the city was not quarantined.

Pittsburgh's Smallpox Cases.

Smallpox cases reported by the Pittsburgh board of health yesterday were as follows: Leona, 8 mard and Emma Smerker, 429 Cedar street; Bridget Waldren, 2211 Tustin street; Mary Berkland, 2205 Tustin street; Anco Cassero, 708 Reynolds street; Laura Bond, 107 Wrights alley; Mary Latimer, 12 Conning street; Samuel James, 218 South Twenty-fourth street; Lincoln Carr, corner of Fulton street, Eighth ward; Robert Risar, 5187 Butler street; Coleman Connelly, 2852 Forbes street, and Frank Robinson, 2842 Bedford avenue.

Closes October 31st.

Fall issue of P. & A. Telephone Directory closes October 31. No one can afford to be without one. To secure the advantage of such, contracts must be in by that time.

B. & O. MAKES CASH OFFERS TO PITTSBURGH

Wants to Build a Handsome Depot—Possible Prosperity for Thirty-Third Ward.

In view of the evident misunderstanding as to the conditions of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad station ordinance, the above plan and following facts are presented, viz:

There are three pieces of ground involved:

No. 1, the middle piece containing 43,595 square feet, occupied for passenger station and office purposes, is covered by ordinances of June 26, 1879, and December 27, 1886, at a rental of $3,000 per annum.

No. 2, the second piece, comprising 40,900 square feet, and covering property between the present station and train shed and Water street, was leased from the city by ordinance of September 29, 1888, at rental of $1,000 per annum for freight station purposes and subject to driveway to the river.

There is, therefore, but one piece of ground left for consideration, No. 3, containing 37,900 square feet, being the portion between the present passenger station and train shed and the river, and which piece of property it is the desire of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad to build upon, filling in to a depth of between 35 and 40 feet, supporting its train shed with steel columns and the passenger station with stone walls, as shown on general plan; thus leaving the ground level with Water street, and the city for wharfage purposes and at the same time providing room in times of flood for the free flow of water.

The arrangements for the protection of the river rights have received the approval of the rivermen to whom the plans were submitted, and in no way interfere with the rental of $300 per annum which the city is reported as receiving for the use of the wharf.

Summing up, the ordinance submitted by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad gives the city, in addition to the $4,000 rental per annum for the property now under lease, $6,000 per annum for the privilege of changing its present wharfing with the city and the present tenants, but building high in the air to protect the wharf, a piece of city property which otherwise in the natural order of things would be comparatively useless to the city.

In consideration of the above facts it must also be remembered that the city does not own the property, and consequently is unable to give any title whatsoever to the same.

Attention is also called to the fact that there is nothing that the city can do to prevent the B. & O. railroad from occupying that section of the wharf between its present train shed and Water street with a freight station, as provided for by ordinance of September 29, 1898, and the only effect that the refusal of councils to ratify the present ordinance will be to deprive the city of a handsome passenger station and the additional rental of $6,000 per annum.

The twelve streets and alleys affected by the ordinance for the vacation of the streets and alleys at Glenwood, Twenty-third ward, are in a pocket between the present B. & O. railroad main tracks and the Monongahela river. There is no public wharf at this point and the top of the bank, or river, is far above the surface of the water.

The vacation of the streets and alleys in no way interferes with travel through Hazelwood and Glenwood. Second avenue being some squares north of the B. & O. tracks and projected improvements.

The B. & O. railroad, having purchased all the property involved, as well as making all improvements at its own cost, there is no question of damages to abutting properties, but, when the matter was considered in common council, the company was first asked to give bond, which it agreed to do, legal objection, however, to such a bond, and instead an agreement was demanded and filed by the B. & O. railroad by which it agreed to protect all sewers and water pipes, give the city the right to maintain and have access to the wharf, and furthermore, the railroad company agrees to protect the city from any and all damages by reason of the vacation of the streets and alleys. This agreement under date of June 16, 1903, is on file with the ordinance.

The improvements consist of the building of a new round house, enlargement of the present shops and construction of additional yard room at approximate cost of $1,500,000.

There are now employed at Glenwood some 2,000 men, and it is anticipated that it will take 1,200 additional men to man the improvements, increasing the Glenwood payrolls approximately $1,000,000 per annum.

SANTO DOMINGO PORT BLOCKADED

United States Mail Steamer Is Refused a Landing at Puerto Plata.

THE GOVERNMENT SEEMS LOST

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]
(Copyright, 1903, by New York Herald Co.)

PUERTO PLATA, SANTO DOMINGO, Oct. 27.—In its efforts to crush the revolution that threatens the fall of the Wos-y-Gil administration, the Dominican government has declared this port blockaded. The government cruiser Independence appeared off Puerto Plata this morning and proceeded to vigorously enforce the order.

The first vessel halted was the Cuban mail steamer Maria Herrera, bound for Puerto Rico, which calls regularly at this port. The commander of the Independence informed the captain of the Maria Herrera that he could not land his passengers, mail or merchandise at Puerto Plata. Expostulations were in vain. The Cuban refused to accept the suggestion that he land the passengers and mails at some other Dominican port, and after a few minutes turned to sea, and proceeded to San Juan, Porto Rico.

As the Maria Herrera disappeared another steamer hove in sight from the westward. It proved to be the American mail steamer Cherokee, coming form Monte Cristo. The warship steamed out to meet the American and the Cherokee proceeded on to the capital.

Notwithstanding the success of the government in blockading the port, the revolution, which is led by Gen. Morales in the interest of former President Jiminez, is rapidly spreading and the rebels seem well supplied with arms and ammunition. It is not believed here that the blockade will do more than inconvenience the local merchants and annoy shippers. The rebels, it is stated, by their leaders, are not in need of supplies, and it is the general opinion that the government of President Wos-y-Gil is lost.

For several months the plotters against the government have secretly planned to overthrow President Gil. The capture of Puerto Plata by the rebels was accompanied with practically no resistance, as the vast majority was in sympathy with the government. Even those who did not participate in the revolt were dissatisfied with the corrupt Sunday president Gil and secretly approved of the scheme to overthrow the government.

ARMENIAN PEACE MAKER MURDERED IN ENGLAND

The Assassination Has the Appearance of Political Character.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Sagatel Sagouni, president of the Armenian Revolutionary society in London, was murdered in the suburb of Nunhead yesterday. The crime has created a sensation, as it has every appearance of being of a political character.

Sagouni, who only returned to London yesterday after settling up the affairs of an associate in Switzerland, who was recently assassinated by stabbing, was entering his residence when a man rushed across the road and fired four shots at Sagouni in quick succession, the last bullet entering the region of the heart.

The murderer, who appeared to be a foreigner, fled. The only clues to the man in possession of the authorities are a felt hat and a silver-plated revolver, both made in New York, which he dropped in his flight.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—News of the murder of Sagatel Sagouni, in London, was received yith expressions of satisfaction by Armenians seen here today. One Armenian leader said:

"Sagouni was killed by an Armenian, probably from the United States. He is known to Armenians as a fomenter of trouble and a Russian emissary. He has gone/intended to work for the Armenians while in reality he has been in the employ of the Russian czar. Much of the slaughter of Armenians is due directly to Sagouni and Armenians living in the U.K. Two of these have lately been killed and now Sagouni has suffered a similar fate. While we feel the means are extreme yet it seems to us that under the circumstances they are justified."

BURGLARS WITH A WAGON.

They Were Ready to Load Up When They Were Frightened Away.

Burglars are still active in the city. Early yesterday morning an attempt was made to rob the store of Herman Sroiovitz at No. 805 Fifth avenue. The thieves had taken over $1,000 worth of clothing out of the store and were about to load it in a wagon when they were frightened away. The matter was reported to Supt. of Police McClusky, but after the special officers had worked on the case all day they were unable to get any trace of the men.

The burglars drove a wagon into State alley just above Sroiovitz's store. They went to the rear of the store, and opening the window passed out a lot of ladies' coats, skirts and other articles of clothing.

Albert Friedman, who lives in the rear of No. 806 Fifth avenue, went home about 2 o'clock. When he went up State alley he saw the wagon. He looked in Sroiovitz's yard and saw the men piling up the clothing. He walked away, thinking he had not been seen, to get an officer. Friedman found two policemen at Wylie avenue and Chatham street. When he returned the burglars had disappeared with their wagon, leaving their plunder behind.

The shoe store of Kamin & Friedman at No. 807 Fifth avenue was broken into. Nothing was taken, however, and it is suspected the same men entered in this place. This is the 20th robbery that has been attempted in this city during the last two weeks.

Hanna Was Too Ardent.

Mrs. Ellen Jennings, Mrs. Kate Seibert and James Jennings of Ellsi street and Charles Hanna, who declared he was homeless, were locked up in the Oakland police station yesterday charged with disorderly conduct. Hanna it is said, insisted on paying his attentions to Mrs. Seibert and his being driven out of the house for some time. Yesterday a fight was started by the presence in the house and the arrests followed.

Unveiling Date Fixed.

The committee of Allegheny councils appointed to select a site and arrange details in connection with the erection and unveiling of the Col. Jacob Ammen monument met last night and decided that the unveiling shall take place next May.

RECEIVER SMITH ARRAIGNS MORGAN

Says He Dominated Schwab in Promotion of Shipbuilding Company.

THEIR CONDUCT CRITICIZED

Morgan and Schwab Report Says, Received $20,000,000 of Preferred and Common Stock for Which They Rendered Absolutely no Equivalent.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—J. Pierpoint Morgan, Charles M. Schwab, Col. J. J. McCook and others are arraigned severely by Receiver James Smith, Jr., in his report on the United States Shipbuilding Company's affairs which was completed tonight for filing with United States Circuit Judge Kirkpatrick in Trenton tomorrow.

Receiver Smith states that Charles M. Schwab, J. Pierpoint Morgan, Herbert Satterlee, Morgan's son-in-law, and several vendors or controlling owners of constituent companies, received bonds and stock for which no equivalent was ever paid the United States Shipbuilding company. His report charges Schwab and Morgan alone received $20,000,000 preferred and common stock, for which they rendered absolutely no equivalent. He strongly recommends that all such holdings be assessed at a fair estimate on their face or market value.

He also characterizes as reprehensible the Morgan-Schwab-Harris-Gates & Co., agreement by which the $20,000,000 of Morgan and Schwab preferred and common shipbuilding stock was to be marketed in advance of other securities. Receiver Smith goes so far as to intimate strongly that Charles M. Schwab was acting simply as an agent for the steel corporation when he paid $7,200,000 for the Bethlehem plant.

Morgan Dominated Schwab.

The receivership report specially italicizes the manner in which J. Pierpoint Morgan dominated C. M. Schwab as well as others in the shipyard promotion in forcing the purchase of the Bethlehem plant for $10,000,000 first mortgage gold bonds—a lien on the Bethlehem plant—and $20,000,000 preferred and common United States Shipbuilding stock. Says the report on this point:

"There can be no question as to the dominance of a certain financial force (J. P. Morgan) in instructing Charles M. Schwab to raise his price of $10,000,000 in bonds to what previously had been raised from $9,000,000 to $10,000,000 for the property which said C. M. Schwab had recently purchased at $7,200,000. It is reasonable to suppose that the original owner or owners of the Bethlehem Steel Company appraised the plant at a fair value when it was sold to United States Steel interests. So that more than $20,000,000 of the purchase price paid such interests of the United States Shipbuilding Company must be regarded as fictitious.

"In order to secure $2,000,000 additional working capital, the advocates of the Sheldon reorganization plan—its authors being Chairman George R. Sheldon, Charles S. Fairchild, John E. Borne, Max Farr and Charles H. Wetmore—made the astonishing proposition that the $10,000,000 first mortgage bond issue be converted into preferred and common stock.

Shareholders Deprived of a Vote.

"This was to be done under a voting trust that would for seven years deprive the shareholders of the shipbuilding company of any voice in the management, policy, selection of directors or officers or any power to protest if dissatisfied with the management so proposed. This management was to be absolutely under control of Charles M. Schwab and allied interests.

"With more than $20,000,000 indebtedness already incurred it is reasonable to suppose that a falling off in business would have wiped out the interest on the bonds as completed and it is legitimate to infer that such would be the case with autocratic power placed in control of one who insisted upon such palpably unfair terms as proposed by the said Sheldon reorganization committee.

"The report further states the courts it was clearly brought out that notwithstanding the complete ownership of the United States Shipbuilding Company of the entire 300,000 shares of the Bethlehem Steel Company, the latter company did not permit its quota to constitute its quota of earnings to the parent company. Our investigation convinces us that the situation of the company is such as to entitle us to the payment of the July interest on the first mortgage bonds if the proffer be made to the company are properly and honestly applied."

Bond Issue Should Be Annulled.

Receiver Smith will further recommend the United States circuit court to annul by regular court proceedings and declare void the $10,000,000 issue held by Charles M Schwab. This recommendation will be made upon grounds that $20,000,000 preferred and common stock which went to Charles M. Schwab and J. Pierpont Morgan was in fair return to pay for the Bethlehem Steel Company. In view of representations made by the Bethlehem Steel Company the report of the receiver strongly recommends that a receiver be appointed for that concern. Receiver Smith based his recommendation upon his belief that the Bethlehem steel works have been grossly over-estimated as to their value as represented by the $30,000,000 purchase price at which the company went into the United States shipyards.

Receiver Smith, when asked if he had any comments to make further than those set forth in his report, said that the document embodied about all that he had to say about shipbuilding affairs.

The report closes with an urgent appeal for court order assessing the vendors or other parties who may have received shipbuilding securities without paying a proper equivalent a sum up to a fair estimated value of their holdings. The report will be printed tomorrow night and filed Thursday morning.

Scrofula

It is commonly inherited.

Few are entirely free from it.

Pale, weak, puny children are afflicted with it in nine cases out of ten, and many adults suffer from it.

Common indications are bunches in the neck, abscesses, cutaneous eruptions, inflamed eyelids, sore ears, rickets, catarrh, wasting, and general debility.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Eradicate it, positively and absolutely. This statement is based on the thousands of permanent cures these medicines have wrought.

"My daughter had scrofula, with eleven sores on her neck and about her ears. Hood's Sarsaparilla was highly recommended and she took it and was cured. She is now in good health." Mrs. J. H. JONES, Parker City, Ind.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

GIRL'S MURDER IS A MYSTERY

Her Body Was Found in an Alley Near Her Home With the Head Crushed.

HAD STORMY LOVE AFFAIRS

Was Carriage Riding During the Day With One of Her Suitors, Whom the Police Are Searching For—Suspects Are Released.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ALLENTOWN, PA., Oct. 27.—A murder which is strikingly similar to the noted Boschleiter tragedy in Paterson, N. J., two years ago, has caused a big sensation in this city and aroused the police.

The girl's love affairs were of the stormiest kind. She stood between rival lovers and it is on this line of investigation that the police are working. The victim, Ilke Jennie Boschleiser, was a pretty silk mill girl, Mabel Bechtel, 21 years of age, who lived with her widowed mother, Mrs. George Bechtel at No. 627 Cedar street in the extreme northern section of the city. The girl was found dead in the alleyway of their home by the mother at 7 o'clock this morning. The fore part of the skull was crushed. The girl was engaged to be married to Alfred Eckstein, a furniture polisher. But she had another admirer in David Wiesenberg, a traveling salesman. Yesterday, it is alleged, Wiesenberg took Miss Bechtel out carriage riding. The members of the family never saw her alive after that.

Mrs. Bechtel was aroused this morning after 1 o'clock by the barking of dogs. Upon looking out of her bedroom window she saw two men carrying an object from a carriage and place it in the underground alley near the bechtel house. She made no investigations then, upon arising this morning she found her daughter's shoes, hat and coat in the dining room. Later the body of Miss Bechtel was found in the areaway.

The police are mystified. That it is a case of homicide is undoubted, but who did it, and when and why, are still unsolved questions. Eckstein, whose engagement ring was found in her pockets today, proved that he had not seen the girl since Monday evening. Wiesenberg was questioned for hours all movements. Members of the Bechtel household, especially the girl's four brothers, were also under suspicion, but they have cleared themselves to the satisfaction of the authorities.

Paul Weisenberg, of Newark, N. J., this morning, his parents say, and thither the detectives have gone. Weisenberg was in a theater in this city until 10:30 last night and then left for his home. The girl was not with him at the time.

From the appearance of the body and the clothing the girl had been assaulted and had been choked when the assault was made. Some of her clothing had been placed about her, the remainder having been placed in the alleyway room when the body was placed in the underground alley.

Big Republican Meetings Held There and Turtle Creek.

Four hundred Republicans of Whitaker met last night in the volunteer fire engine house and listened to speeches by Dr. A. J. Barnhfeld, Charles A. O'Brien, Maj. Robert M. Stewart, Dr. J. McM. Stewart and Frank T. Redman.

The Republicans held an enthusiastic meeting in Semmes hall, Turtle Creek, last night. An audience of 800 packed the building. Dr. William J. Hunter was chairman. E. E. Edwards of Pittsburgh arraigned the Citizens party as the personal property of the Bigelows. Stewart M. Cunningham of Turtle Creek defended the Republican party as the party of the people.

A Sure Cure for Fits.

The Worst Chronic Cases Yield Readily.

That epilepsy is not readily cured by the many "specifics" of to-day is admitted by the physicians themselves. That all kinds of fits from mild ones to the most severe forms and the worst chronic cases declared hopeless by specialists have been cured by Wheeler's Nerve Vitaliser is proven by hundreds of authentic testimonials. Many doctors prescribe it now.

"For eight years I was troubled with epilepsy. I was so bad that I would bite my tongue and lips until they bled when in a spasm. Wheeler's Nerve Vitaliser cured me." Mrs. D. J. Coppersmith, Latrobe, Pa.

"My son was taken with fits at the age of eight years. I employed one physician for eight months and he grew worse under his treatment. Then I employed a New York specialist and afterward a famous Philadelphia specialist. Neither of them helped him. Then I tried Wheeler's Nerve Vitaliser and cured him. That was six years ago and he has never had a fit since." H. Beebe, St. Louis, Mich.

Wheeler's Nerve Vitaliser is for sale by all druggists at $1.00 a bottle, or sent, express paid, on receipt of price. F. W. Brant Co., Ltd., Albion, Mich.

VERNER AGAIN STOPS MEETING

Order from Citizens Leader Prevents Action on Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Bills.

OTHER MEASURES BLOCKED

Moore Angry Because Hold-Up Game Retards Needed Improvements at the Municipal Hospital—Situation Is Similar to Bigelow's Fight.

County Chairman Verner's order for "No quorum" held good yesterday, and the Citizens party leaders again prevented a meeting of select council to consider the Baltimore & Ohio railroad ordinances. Only eight members responded to the roll call, or 12 short of a quorum; 20 members absent, all of whom, with one or two exceptions, are Citizens or members of the combine.

The members present were practically the same as those who attended the day before. They were, President John S. Lambie, John A. Murphy, R. H. Douglas, James W. Flatt, Frederick Flemel, W. J. Zahniser, Joseph H. Schiernitzauer and John Costello. They constituted less than one-fourth the membership of the body.

President Lambie called the eight members to order, and after the roll call announced that no quorum was present. Mr. Murphy realized that it was useless to make another attempt to get a meeting to act on the railroad ordinances, and a motion to adjourn was carried. There will not be another meeting of councils until November 9, nearly a week after the election.

For the third time in two weeks the public safety committee of select council failed to meet yesterday to transact important business. The committee has ordinances for essential improvements for the Municipal hospital. The hospital is badly in need of a new sewerage system, new water pipes and tanks and other things which Director Harry Moore states must be had at once, as the health authorities are sorely handicapped in treating smallpox.

Director Moore was at the city hall yesterday afternoon to urge the passage of the ordinances in the committee, which failed to meet, because the members of the committee stayed away to aid County Chairman Verner in breaking up a quorum. Mr. Moore stated that unless speedy action was taken serious results might follow to the inmates of the hospital.

The action of Verner yesterday and today in blocking a meeting of select council was a forcible reminder of a few months ago when Director E. M. Bigelow employed the same tactics to prevent the passage of the ordinance to purchase the site for the Carnegie technical school.

John Benz, a prominent Verner follower and member of the "airtight" committee, boldly declares at the last meeting of select council that the passage of the Walsh ordinance a year previous was a "mistake" from the viewpoint of the "airtight," and that the committee did not propose to let the Baltimore & Ohio ordinances be forced out of its hands by mere demands on the part of the people, no matter how insistent those demands might be.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL SITE BEING SEARCHED FOR

Committee Appointed by Central Board of Education Has Started on Its Work.

The special committee of the central board of education appointed to select a site for a new high school building in the East End has begun its work. The committee met on Monday at the Hotel Schenley and then went out to the East End district and looked over the property in the Friendship park district which the board purchased for high school purposes several years ago, agreed that it is not the best place for a high school, and then inspected other property that might be available.

The central board has been unfortunate in its selection of sites for a high school. One was originally purchased in South Negley avenue, but was later not considered available for high school purposes, so another one was bought in the Friendship park district. A big price was paid for it and the South Negley avenue site was thrown in to boot. The board has decided that the latest acquired site is not the best, and therefore the special committee was appointed.

Members of the committee said yesterday that it was the general opinion that the Friendship park site could be disposed of at a profit. They would not tell what other sites seemed likely ones to them on their Monday trip of inspection, if a new site is chosen it will be done quietly, so that the price may not be raised before options have been secured.

The committee consists of Samuel C. Jamison, chairman; D. L. Gillespie, T. C. Bebie, George W. Gosser, John F. O'Toole and John T. Fox, president of the central board.

INVITATIONS ISSUED.

Those who will be favored with the opportunity to attend the Founder's day exercises at the Carnegie institute on November 5 will know of that fact this morning, when they will receive the handsome invitation. Altogether, about 1,800 of these were mailed yesterday, the list being made up from the men most prominent in the city's social, literary, professional, industrial and governmental life.

With each invitation goes a red exchange ticket, which will be good for a reserved seat when presented as directed. If the reserved seat is not secured the holder of the ticket will be allowed to have any seat that is vacant after 2 o'clock.

The speakers are to be President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton university and Judge Peter S. Grosscup of Chicago, whose subject will be "The Moral Side of Our Present Corporation Policy."

Expects No Trouble Getting the Croatians Now in England.

Superintendent of Detectives McQuaide says he has secured the necessary evidence against the two Croatians under arrest in London suspected of having killed Contractor Samuel T. Ferguson at West Middletown, Washington county, on September 25, and last night he left for Harrisburg with the extradition papers and the affidavits to have them signed by Gov. Pennypacker. When the extradition proceedings are passed on by Gov. Pennypacker, McQuaide will go to Washington, D. C., and there confer with Solicitor Van Dyne of the state department. If there is sufficient evidence against the Croatians the papers will be signed by the president.

Detective Richard Kelly and Superintendent McQuaide expect to leave for London on November 3.

HUGH WARD HOME FROM FIVE YEARS IN AUSTRALIA

Some Personal Reminiscences from an Actor Who Still Calls Pittsburgh "Home."

To one who knew Hugh Ward five years ago, when, as comedian of the Grand opera house stock company, he was a sort of matinee idol, his present appearance does not indicate that time has dealt unkindly with him. He does not look a day older and is the same kindly, courteous gentleman off the stage that made him so great a favorite socially in Pittsburgh.

Ward is a characteristically modest fellow, though he is an actor, a combination that one doesn't look for generally. Ward has a host of followers among the old patrons of the Grand, in the days when his impersonations had on them the stamp of genius and which foretold what has come to pass, that the young actor is one of the best-known actors in Australia, commanding prominent position with the leading dramatic organizations of that country, and has just recently picked up the position of leading comedian in the forthcoming Drury Lane pantomime in London. Chatting pleasantly with the young actor yesterday he recalled many pleasant incidents of his career in Pittsburgh, and work of the stock company.

"I am a Philadelphian by birth," said Ward, "and never thought I would ever amount to much as an actor, but always had a longing to try. My few years in the stock company here were in the nature of an education for me. Then stock work served to bring out an actor's peculiar talent. If a member of a company had special gifts for certain lines of work, whether comedy, romance, tragedy, or even humorous parts, when a play came along for production in which one or another of these roles was prominent, the man who could do the work best was cast for the role. By this means an actor's talent was always given an opportunity to display itself under favorable circumstances."

In speaking of his experiences in Australia, Mr. Ward said they had been of the most delightful kind.

"I was connected with the management of Mr. J. C. Williamson, who is himself a Pennsylvanian, and a manager of fine resources and admirable spirit. The merely technical side of the business, on and off the stage, was conducted with great liberality and good nature. There were few jars to disturb the even flow of our lives, either personally or professionally, and I regard my stay in Australia as among the most pleasant experiences of my life.

"On my trip homeward, by the way of London, we stopped off on the island of Ceylon, in the Indian ocean, just off India. To gratify my long cherished zad for collecting curios I made quite an excursion into the interior and one day ran across a big, burly native, clad in all the negligee for which the interior natives in that warm climate are famous.

"Thinking that I was up against a raw savage I began to try some disjointed guttural on him in the way of language. I grunted and gurgled at him for quite a while, when, finally, I noticed quite a peculiar gleam in his shrewd eyes. I paused long enough to catch my breath when the oily old savage said very gravely: 'I think if you would talk English we would manage to get on a bit.' I collapsed completely."

In speaking of the role of Baron Chevrial, with which Mr. Ward will open his brief engagement at the Grand, the actor said:

"I have never seen Mansfield do the part and am, therefore, not able to say how far my conception may differ. I studied the part thoroughly, both from a physical and dramatic standpoint, and built up my portrayal independently, in a measure. Of course, all character work of so broad a type as the baron must have points in common, but, so far as my work in the role is concerned, I have had no particular standard which I have tried to imitate.

"I shall go immediately to London and begin work rehearsing for the Drury Lane pantomime at the conclusion of my Pittsburgh engagement, which is all too short a time for me to renew many pleasant social and friendly ties."

TINPLATE MEN MEET.

Want Limit of Output Removed and Reduction to Meet Competition.

A special meeting of the Independent Sheet and Tin Plate Manufacturers' association was held yesterday in the Hotel Henry, presided over by James A. Campbell of Youngstown, O.

Three subjects are under consideration. One is in regard to the Shaw Rolling Mills Company of Canton, O., which is said to have violated the Amalgamated association wage agreement, resulting in the workmen coming out on strike. Another is the matter of having the Amalgamated association remove the limit of output, and the third proposition is to have the Amalgamated association accept a reduction on plates should any foreign orders be secured.

Handsome Silks and Satins for November Brides.

We like occasionally to call attention to our Wedding Silks and Satins, and we are quite sure that women like to read of them—they are so rich in texture, those that are plain so quietly elegant, those that are woven in many different designs so elaborately handsome. In all this great city we are free to say there is not such another variety of beautiful silks and satins, especially for the making of wedding gowns. So far as the grades of material go, that is left with the prospective bride or her advisers. Every grade of wedding silk that we carry is a good grade. For reference the following list—

Crepe de Chines—24 inches wide—85c a yard and on to $1.50.

Satin Meteore—24 inches wide—$1.25 a yard and on to $1.50.

Crepe Marquisette—44 inches wide—$2.25 a yard.

Peau Minerva, Peau Cleo, Merveilleux de Sole, each with the soft finish of satin, $1.00 and $1.25 a yard.

Claire de Lun—44 inches wide—$3.00 a yard.

Crepe de Chine—44 inches wide—$1.50 and up to $5.00.

Crepe Meteore—44 inches wide—$3.50 a yard and on to $5.00.

Fancy Crepe and Gauze effects—44 inches wide—$4.00 a yard and on to $10.00.

We leave the foregoing wedding silks and go at once to several lines of silks on which the prices have been reduced.

Table of Fancy Silks containing novelties of a very high grade that formerly sold for $3.50 to $5.00 a yard, now reduced to the low price of $1.50 a yard.

Black Peau de Sole, famous for its soft finish and rich black, the correct material for coats and suits—36 inches wide—$1.50 grade for $1.10 a yard.

Black Taffeta of a very high luster, an excellent black, guaranteed for service—36 inches wide—$1.25 grade for 85c a yard.

Fancy Louisines in small neat effects—22 inches wide—stylish for waists and full suits, $1.50 grade for $1.25 a yard.

Of Richest Velvets and Velutinas, of their diversity, of their beauty of weave, of their charm of coloring, of the entire novelty of the many designs, too much cannot be said. Our most fervent words would not do them justice. The mere enumeration of the kinds and prices would fail utterly in initiating you into the mystery of their beauties. You must see these velvets to appreciate them. Not otherwise can you form any true conception of their variety and elegance.

But follow us, please, and note what we can do in the way of low prices—

24-inch black Mantilla Velvet—a superb quality for coats and wraps—$2.75 goods for $2.25 a yard.

30-inch Velour du Nord—a beautiful material, perfect in weave, and possessing a rich silky luster. Correct for Coats and Evening Wraps, $2.00 goods for $1.85 a yard.

Velvets and Velveteens, boar, gun metal and matte effects—the material par excellence for shirtwaists and shirtwaist suits, 75c and 85c qualities for 58c a yard.

More New Silk Waists.

Constantly receiving new invoices of Silk Waists—but they don't stay with us long—seem to find new owners as fast as we put them on display. Ample reason for the great demand. You'll say so, too, when you see how charmingly they're fashioned, how each one possesses an individuality and originality all its own. You'll like the way they're priced also.

Here are three numbers for popular prices:

At $5.00. Silk Waists in the new gun metal shade—tucked to waist line, back also tucked—full sleeves and fancy stock. A very stylish waist for $5.00.

At $7.50. Box-pleated Waists—welt stitched in front and back—the sleeves are made to harmonize with the body of the garment—the stock finished with French knots.

At $10.00. Figured silk is employed—the front tucked and further ornamented with three large steel buttons down the center pleat—the stock is stitched and piped with red silk.

Rarity in Oriental Rugs.

There are never too many Oriental Rugs here, for the very good reason that our specimens from the Far East are so perfect, their intrinsic value so important, that connoisseurs and those who are not, seek our Rug Department for that which represents only true Oriental Art.

We never dwell on immense stocks, for that is an understood fact. It would be just as consistent to speak of immense invoices of paintings by noted masters, or a great lot of subjects from famous sculptors. The finest Oriental Rugs are works of art, and the true rugs of the Asiatic countries have to be sought out. We have wonderful specimens, of which there are none in existence save those we exhibit.

Take the Berghamos Rug of the Orient. There is none in this country except those in our collection. Dealers in rare specimens in other cities, as well as individual collectors, know this. Only yesterday we received a letter from a gentleman, living near Philadelphia, inquiring about these Berghamos. Take another class of Oriental Rugs, the Bokhara, they are very scarce, and we have only a few specimens, yet every dealer claims to have Bokharas a-plenty. They have, with this difference, one is a paste diamond, the other the real gem.

The fact is that to purchase an Oriental Rug intelligently it is important to go where the stock is select and the entire construction of color and design understood.

Our Oriental Rug Department now occupies spacious quarters on the fourth floor of the East Store, where ample natural light allows the visitor or the customer to judge Oriental Rugs to best advantage.

There are Oriental Rugs here for $2.50 and there are Oriental Rugs for $2,500.00. In between many different prices and many different specimens.

Boys' Overcoats and Reefers.

Especially Buster Brown Overcoats.

Most everyone has laughed over the effervescent mischief of Buster Brown and Tige, and we have all grown to love the boy and his dog. It was to have been expected that in time there would be Buster Brown Suits and Buster Brown Overcoats, and it was to have been expected that the firm that brought out the original Buster Brown boys' attire would be followed by imitators. We have the genuine.

Buster Brown Overcoats at $5.00 and up to $14.00.

These are boys' handsome topcoats, coming in mixtures and such plain colors as brown, tan, royal blue and cadet gray, in Scotch cheviots, kerseys, meltons, friezes, beavers and chinchillas. For the little boy there is nothing so nobby.

In the other lines of Reefers and Overcoats choice is from the most ample assortments—

Medium weight Reefers, in rough effects of Scotch tweeds and in fancy weaves and solid colors, $5.00 and up to $10.00.

Boys' double-breasted Overcoats, of wool serge—blue, brown, oxford gray, maroon, all lined with silk, $5.00 and up to $15.00.

Wednesday, October 28, 1903.

Joseph Chamberlain, former secretary for the colonies in the British cabinet, is having a considerable measure of success with his tariff propaganda before the English people. Last evening he spoke under the auspices of the Workingmen's Conservative society to 5,000 workmen and was cheered to the echo. In the presentation of practical aspects of the tariff question Mr. Chamberlain is a novice, but there can be no question that a large number of Englishmen are mentally ripe for receiving protective doctrine. Workmen and capitalists cheer the abstract proposition regardless of Mr. Chamberlain's impracticaf details.

In the letting the latest armor plate contracts the navy department has admitted the Midvale company for a little more than one-third of of the total quantity. It is understood the Midvale people have a new process for hardening plates in which they have much confidence. If it proves good under the ballistic test it will be a distinct gain to the country, while if it fails nothing will be lost. It will simply entail an apportionment of the Midvale allotment between the Carnegie and Bethlehem companies. The firing test will settle the matter and in any event the American navy will have the best armor that can be produced.

In its eagerness to prove that a majority of the jury voted for acquittal in the case against Mayor Hays, the Leader quotes a juryman as saying that politics entered largely into the consideration in the jury room; that eight members of the jury were Democrats, and that those eight Democrats did not stay "out all night battling for conviction." If all the Leader says is true it is conclusive on the point that a majority of the jury voted for acquittal, but it is mighty hard on that majority. Jurymen who have no higher conception of their duty than to consider a case on its political merits instead of the facts and the evidence ought not to be allowed to serve, and when they do take the oath are liable to prosecution for perjury. In the Leader's ethics, however, falsehood is an evidence of wit and perjury is no crime when committed on the Leader's side. At the same time we doubt the accuracy of its account of the jury.

The question whether or not Mr. Bryan's connection with the Bennett will case would figure in politics is answered by Mr. Bryan himself. He himself has brought politics into the case by attributing to the gold Democrats the opposition he is encountering in his efforts to qualify as executor to distribute the estate in accordance with the will drawn by himself, which makes his family beneficiaries to the extent of over $80,000. Mr. Bryan, both in letters written to Mrs. Bennett and in his testimony in court, has set forth his belief that political reasons are behind the contest of his right to the fortune bequeathed by the will for preparing which in his own favor he received $300. The widow's counsel contend that politics has nothing to do with the case, but that when a lawyer draws a will in which he obtains a benefaction, he must show that the influence which he exerted was not undue. Whether or not politics has entered the case, the case has undoubtedly entered politics and will probably have considerable effect upon Mr. Bryan's influence in the next Democratic national convention.

President Roosevelt was 45 years old yesterday. He is the most youthful president the country has ever had. His rise has been almost Napoleonic in rapidity, for although previously a man of note, his rise in national politics dates from the Spanish war. An anecdote has been told of him that while still known simply as a New York author and reform politician, he remarked that in about 10 years more he would be only a middle-aged man of letters. But the approach of middle age finds him president of the United States, enjoying popular confidence and favor to an extent that makes him really stronger than his party. The problems confronting his administration are such as will require all his youthful vigor to cope with, and a great deal of history will have been made before he fills out his presidential career, and even then he will be barely at the age at which a national career usually begins. He could hardly be expected to go into retirement as an ex-president when in the full vigor of his powers, so that there is reason to expect another career like that of John Quincy Adams, who became famous in congress after leaving the White House.

A Declaration of Independence.

Instead of another manifesto from the "Orphans" making vain appeals for adoption, we have now from the remaining adherents of the original purpose of the Citizens party a ringing and rousing Declaration of Independence. The treachery of the leaders of that organization is denounced with unsparing vigor, and these councilmen who are true to their pledges now announce their withdrawal from the Citizens organization in order to separate themselves "from the leadership of men who have shamefully abandoned the principles and pledges of the Citizens party."

The indictment now drawn of the Citizens organization confirms the opinion expressed by The Gazette at the time the Citizens party passed under proprietary control. The Gazette supported the Citizens party so long as its success seemed calculated to promote the objects of the Citizens movement. When it became apparent that the control had passed into hands which proposed to perpetuate for its own purposes the system against which the people had revolted, The Gazette denounced the betrayal of the cause. The signers of this municipal Declaration of Independence are doing now what The Gazette did then.

With their departure from the Citizens party no trace remains in that organization of the original Citizens movement. The practical question that remains to be answered is through what organization shall the work of the Citizens movement be now carried on? Mere denunciation without an organization of some kind to make it effective is the mark of political impotence. There is a political contest now pending whose result will either help or hurt the schemes of the leaders whose conduct is so justly denounced. To give practical effect to the principles of the declaration every means should be employed to chastise the faithless leaders at the polls, and the only way of doing this at the present juncture is to elect the Republican ticket. One of the counts of the indictment is the attempt made by the leaders of the new organization to trade with the Republican party, but the offers made were rejected and the efforts made to bring the Republican party under control of the new organization leaders were frustrated. Whether or not the Republican party in the future will deserve the support of Councilmen Stevenson and his associates will depend upon the course it shall pursue and the character of the candidates it shall present, but there can be no doubt that at the present time it is entitled to the support of every citizen who desires to promote the cause of good government. Before the next municipal election we hope that the Republican party, purged of the corrupt elements now in collusion with the Citizens organization, will embrace the reform element which has at last separated itself from an organization which was using it and betraying it.

The Allegheny Situation.

The attitude of defiance which the Allegheny municipal administration has assumed toward the state board of health is having serious consequences, which the residents of that city will have to endure and which they may properly charge to the account of the administration from which they suffer. While the Allegheny city officials may be able to run things as they please within their own jurisdiction, it will be a bad business for the city if a quarantine is laid against it, as Dr. Wilmer R. Batt declares will be done upon his arrival today. If the right of the state board of health to take such action is questioned in court that will involve an investigation of the situation, despite the action of Allegheny select council in defeating by a tie vote a resolution in favor of an investigation. To ignore the statements made by officials of the state board of health or to set them down as a partisan scheme when the state board is not interested in Allegheny politics is not a sensible proceeding. If they are exaggerated and convey false ideas as to the prevalence of smallpox, investigation affords the means of refuting them. The very grounds upon which investigation was refused afford good reasons why an investigation should take place. If, as Councilman Einstein contended, the bureau of health is doing efficient work and smallpox is being rapidly stamped out, the proper way to meet averments to the contrary is to produce the evidence. The refusal to investigate will be construed as evidence that the situation will not bear exposure. Dr. Batt's reply to the Allegheny official pretense is of unfortunate rigor for the city of Allegheny, since the quarantine ordered by the state board will cause the people great inconvenience and some loss, all of which might have been avoided had the Allegheny authorities taken the notice of October 19 in public spirit instead of deciding to conceal actual conditions and to play the matter for possible political advantage by injecting politics into the subject.

Two Miles a Minute.

The experiments which have resulted in accomplishing such astonishing rates of travel as 125 miles an hour have been carried on by a Berlin corporation organized in 1899 for that special purpose, and including in its members leading bankers, machine builders and electrical companies. The Prussian railway administration put at the disposal of the corporation a stretch of straight, nearly level track, 14 miles long. The actual tests have been going on since October, 1901, and it has been demonstrated that high velocities of travel can be maintained without unpleasant effects upon passengers. The secret of the superiority of electric power over steam as a means for obtaining high rates of speed is in the facility with which force can be concentrated. The motor cars which attained the astonishing speed of 125 miles an hour, take energy from three parallel lines of heavy copper trolley wire. Each car has four motors, with an aggregate energy of 1,000 horsepower. Such a concentration of force upon the propulsion of a single car hurls it along the track like a projectile, and the practical difficulties of the problem appear to be connected chiefly with ability of rails and roadbed to meet the strain. That such difficulties will be overcome cannot be doubted.

It is obvious that the realization of such speeds in ordinary practice will have great effect upon living conditions. The redistribution of population, which has been such a marked result of the introduction of trolley roads, will take a much wider range. The suburban zone of every business center will be reckoned as being at least 100 miles in breadth. Country and town will be practically in immediate contact. The transportation of the mails and of parcels will also be enormously facilitated, and in general the economic results of such enormously rapid transit will be inestimably great. The electrical age may witness social transformations even greater than those produced by the age of steam.

The People's Victory.

The surface activity of the state campaign in Pennsylvania has been confined in the main on the Republican side to an occasional few remarks from State Chairman Penrose for publication, and there has not been much more evidence of a strenuous political life on the part of the Democrats. Senator Penrose has, however, been in correspondence with Republican chairmen and leaders throughout the state, and while the campaign has not been one of idleness. All along the line the men who are accustomed to the work of getting out the vote are keyed to the importance of making a good showing on Tuesday, and the known undercurrents indicate that they will not have much hard labor to perform. The reports to the state chairman are highly satisfactory. In this campaign it has not been necessary to use effort to stimulate the rank and file. Enthusiasm has proceeded upward from the people, communicating itself to the captains of tens, the captains of hundreds and the captains of thousands, convincing the state chairman and the headquarters staff that the Republican majority of this year in Pennsylvania will be so large as to carry confidence into other states for the uses of the national campaign.

State Chairman Penrose is quoted as having said: "I have received reports from the Republican county chairmen of every county in the commonwealth. Individually and collectively they with unanimity promise an increased Republican majority on election day." The Republican county chairmen, it may be said, have their authority from the people themselves to make this promise to the chairman of the state committee. It is the promise of the people rather than the promise of the chairmen. The chairmen are merely the media through which it is officially made known, and it is no idle declaration that they make to Senator Penrose. They know whereof they speak.

As the Republican state chairman observed some weeks ago, the state elections of 1903 are the skirmish line of the presidential battle of 1904. The issues of the presidential year are, therefore, vital issues now, and the people are aware of the fact and alive to consequences. They do not need to be reminded of the importance of a large majority next Tuesday, for they are moved by a common impulse to make the majority all that it ought to be. They will vote on Tuesday for a continuance of the prosperity they have experienced since the election of McKinley, and if the slowing of the wheels in any direction has had influence with them it has been to increase their interest in making Pennsylvania's message to the nation one that cannot be misunderstood.

We believe that the reports which Senator Penrose has received convincing him that there will be "an increased Republican majority on election day," are not mere perfunctory expressions of confidence, but the assertions of men who prophesy because they know. It will be the people's victory.

Justice Brewer's Indictment.

Some time ago Justice David J. Brewer of the supreme court of the United States suggested the taking away of the right of appeal as one means of checking the lynching spirit. The suggestion provoked severe criticism, to which Justice Brewer replies by an article in the Independent, which is a severe indictment of our whole system of jurisprudence. The article is written with the gravity and learning befitting a jurist of his rank, but it directs public attention to a state of the law which is the real seat of the disease of which the lynching spirit is only the symptom.

Justice Brewer cites a number of decisions of the supreme court to show that the right of appeal is neither a constitutional nor a natural right, but is simply a statutory privilege, which the state may give or take away as public policy may dictate. The learned jurist then goes on to show that the right of appeal is systematically abused in this country, both in civil and criminal cases, until it amounts to a denial of justice. Such a state of affairs exhibits lynch law as private justice called into being in default of public justice. Justice Brewer asks: "Is it strange that a community incensed by some atrocious offense, aware of the common experience of criminal proceedings, takes the law into its own hands and summarily punishes the offender?"

Not only does the right of appeal tend to prevent the punishment of crime, but it tends to become the agency of injustice to suitors. Justice Brewer says it is becoming the practice to send into the trial courts young men of little experience, with instructions to object to everything offered by the other side, to offer all possible testimony and to except to all adverse rulings. The case is transferred at the will of the defeated party to the appellate court and then the real contest begins. As a result appellate courts are kept swamped with business. Justice Brewer says he was assured by one in a position to know that in a single state a great railroad corporation by appealing every judgment made enough in compromising judgments rendered against it to pay the entire cost of its legal department. Justice Brewer holds that the right of appeal should be abolished, and that the judgment of a trial court should stand unless the appellate court should decide to review the case, in the exercise of a sound discretion upon fixed rules.

Justice Brewer's proposals should lead to a thorough discussion of the whole subject. There are signs of rottenness in American jurisprudence. Why should the state of Pennsylvania, for instance, need more judges than all England with its immense interests? It is time to overhaul the entire system of the administration of justice.

It is understood that the Pittsburgh police force is expected to make the campaign so hot that its members will be able to get along without overcoats until after the election. Then, however, they will probably need them.

Senator Scott of West Virginia wants Roosevelt to be nominated in Pittsburgh for the presidency. Not the slightest objection, senator. But he will be nominated and elected sure as fate.

Inasmuch as the jury in the case of the old soldier against Mayor Hays disagreed, it will be necessary to try again. The mayor cannot escape his trials, much as he would like to do so.

It looks as if the voters were about to see to it that there will be no quorum for the candidates of the Democratic-Citizens quorum breakers next Tuesday.

IN THE EYE OF FAME.

M. Cartier, vice-president of the Belgian Council of Industry has been appointed by his Government commissioner to the St. Louis Exposition.

Evelyn Wrench, of London, who is responsible for the great craze for the picture postcard, started business with a capital of $250 and now is earning $100,000 a year.

The real name of Gabriele D'Annunzio is Gaetano Rapagnetto. The dramatist is the son of the Duchess Maria Gallese de Rona. He is a musician as well as a play wright, and has a son who has a certain celebrity as a mandolinist.

Austen Chamberlain, the new chancellor of the exchequer in the British cabinet, is the youngest man but one, over a long course of years, who has been head of the English treasury. His age is 40. Lord Randolph Churchill was three years short of that figure when he took the post.

John Brown of Lake City, Iowa, who claims the distinction of being the shortest United States soldier living today, is a Scotchman, and came to this country in 1850. Mr. Brown, whose height is four feet six inches, has in his possession an affidavit which proves that he is two and one-half inches shorter than any other United States soldier who served in the Civil war.

Indian Territory and Statehood.

The chances are that there are 450,000 people in the Indian territory today. Its natural resources are especially rich. Agriculturally, no other spot in the country offers better attractions than does the Indian territory. Its mineral deposits, which have virtually been untouched, are particularly extensive and varied. Manifest destiny decrees that the Indian territory and Oklahoma shall be united and admitted as a single state. Combined, they have a population now in the neighborhood of 1,000,000, and if admitted this winter they will be entitled to five members of the popular branch of congress. In the interval between now and union with Oklahoma, however, the Indian territory ought to be allowed a delegate in congress like the other territories.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Not Dependent on Wall Street.

Wall street is no longer a terror to the public. It used to be regarded as the heart to regulate the industrial and financial pulse of the country, and more than once in the past secretaries have rushed to its relief. It has demonstrated not once, but half a dozen times during the present year, that it can go all to pieces and pull itself together without government aid, and, far more important, it has been demonstrated that it can have as many crisis as it pleases without affecting the business or industries of the country.—Baltimore American.

THE FAMILY GENIUS.

'Twill do more in a minute than steam does in half an hour.
It keeps on runnin' day an' night, you couldn't keep it still.
It doesn't go as yet, but Uncle Jim he says it will.
It's only fair that such a benefactor to the race
Should sort o' take things easy an' be boss around the place.
And though he doesn't work himself, we view with minds serene
The help posterity will get from Uncle Jim's machine.

There's lots of money in it when he gits it in control,
We lie awake o' night for fear them millions will be stole.
An' every time we put another mortgage on the place
He says it's jes' a trifle, an' he keeps a smilin' face.
It's a mighty slight o' comfort an' it helps you to endure
The worries of the present when your future is secure.
An' we're very grateful to him fur relievin' all our fears,
Though he hasn't earned ten dollars any week in several years.

The Quiet Observer.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

This is a great country.

And we are a great set; and not such a bad set, taken as a whole.

In fact, when you come to think it over, the wonder is that we are as a whole, half as decent, peaceable, and good as we are.

Some think we are not as good as we appear to be.

How is it with you?

As you very well know, the deepest, pecks and morals of the country are not the people making them, and you are one of the people.

Of course you are only one, and you might say, as did the grain of sand, that such a small particle could not play a very important part in making up so great a whole. And yet the seashore, and the mountains are made up of individual grains of sand; and the nation is made of individual people.

Were each grain of sand to refuse to take its proper place, or to show proper respect for the laws made and provided for the upbuilding of mountains, setting meter and bounds to the waters, and spreading the plains far and wide, where would this earth of ours be?

And so, were each of us to refuse to observe the laws made and provided for the upbuilding of the home, or society, and of the state, where would our country be?

* * * * *

What do you know about this country of ours anyway?

Can you traverse it in your mind from end to end, and side to side, and find yourself at home, or at least on speaking terms with the people in the various sections?

Do you know how the people in the various sections live, what particular business they are engaged in, and what are their peculiar characteristics?

Do you know how many states there are, where they are located, and what their politics?

According to geographies studied in our schools, every boy and girl that finishes the common school course is supposed not only to know all this about our own country, but about every country on the face of the earth.

Thus you see that geography is a big thing, a mighty big thing—too big, don't you think?

You may have studied Mitchell's geography in your school days, and maybe injured your sight trying to find on the maps insignificant rivers, capes, bays, and lakes in China, Russia, India or Africa. Of course you found them—you had to find them, or get marked down.

How many of these can you name now? How many could you name the next day? And yet geography was, and is, held to be one of the essential branches of study in our common schools.

It may be essential to the prosperity of book publishers, but hardly to the children.

* * * * *

There are people right here in our own town who know more about the geography of England, Ireland, Scotland, France, and Germany, than they do of their own country, or maybe of their own state, and possibly of their own county.

How is it with you?

Are you well enough hocked up in United States geography to give a foreigner a fairly good idea as to the law of the land, the principal water courses, the extent of farming lands, the locations and sizes of the states, the various resources of the country—well, to answer just such questions as a fairly intelligent foreigner might be expected to ask of a fairly intelligent person traveling abroad?

Think you could do it?

Could you tell him how many counties there are in your own state, its population, and the populations of the principal cities?

Just for a starter: What is the population of your own county, of your own town, of your own school district?

Can you do it?

Of course you have studied geography, for it is one of the important, the essential features of our common school, high school, private school courses.

And, no doubt, you studied physical geography and can tell where timber, coal, limestone, iron ore, potters' clay, glass sand, grind-stones, "nigger-heads," and such are to be found, for it is all in our physical geographies.

* * * * *

Possibly you don't know what a big thing this country of yours is?

Just run your eyes over the following facts and figures, and then feel proud that you are a part of the United States of America and have a voice in its management, that is if you feel that it is your country, and that you are doing your part as a joint owner of it:

Its population exceeds 76,000,000.

The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland numbers about 38,000,000—just half as many.

The German empire, not counting its African colonies, numbers about 57,000,000 people—less than two-thirds of our population.

Austria-Hungary has nearly 42,000,000 inhabitants—only 4,000,000 more than half our count.

Russia proper, excluding the non-Russian peoples of Asia that are under her flag, has a population of about 84,000,000—10,000,000 more than that of the United States.

But our population is growing at the rate of 13,000,000 every 10 years. So that the American babies of today when they arrive at adult age will see an American nation numbering 102,000,000 people.

As all European populations are stationary or nearly so, the excess of their births over deaths being lost by emigration, mostly to this country—it is reasonable anticipation that the year 1920 will find the United States inhabited by three times as many people as Great Britain and Ireland, one and a half times as many as the combined populations of the British Isles and France, more than twice as many as Germany and about 10,000,000 more than Russia proper.

Furthermore, this country already leads all others in total and per capita wealth; it produces one-third of the world's total annual product of gold and silver; it leads all nations as a producer and consumer of coal, iron and steel, and it also leads them all in the production and export of foodstuffs.

There will be no larger "world-power" in the twentieth century than this great, free American nation, even if it should just stay at home and naturally grow and leave Asia to the Asiatics.

* * * * *

This is a great country and no mistake, and don't you forget it.

The other nations on the face of the earth recognize the fact, and don't forget it.

Even the poets down in little Argentina are geting onto the greatness of U. S. A.:

Met a feller t'other mornin'—
Most amusin' sort o' cuss;
Had a cur'ous style about him,
Cert'nly couldn't well be wuss.
I says: "Whur you hail f'm pardner?"
An' he smiled in a knowin' way,
An' replied in forren lingo:
"Porto Rico, U. S. A."

Seen a feller down on Broadway,
With a shockin' head of hair,
An' a lot o' tropic garments,
An' a most outlandish air.
"Whur's he from?" a feller shouted;
An' before we'd time to say,
This yere heathen turned an' snarled:
"Honeyuler, U. S. A."

Met a feller here on Sansome,
With a somber-e-ro on,
Had a lot o' shaggy whiskers,
Nearly all his clothes wuz gone.
Stopped an' ast me fur a quarter;
Says: "My home is fur away,"
"Whur you from?" The varmint answered:
"Santiago, U. S. A."

Seen a feller down the Southern,
With a heavy iron box,
Overcoat was lined with bearskin,
Wore a dozen pair o' sox.
Sized him up to be sr minor,
Judgin' by his awkward way;
Seen him write in big copar-ac-ters:
"Circle City, U. S. A."

Seen a saddle-colored heathen,
Wearin' earrings in his ears,
Linen cuffs around his ankles,
Most indecent kind o' clothes.
"Whur d'this heathen guy hire spring?
I inquired in a lofty way;
An' he had the nerve to answer:
"From Manila, U. S. A."

Hully ges! I never heard of
These yere cannibals before,
Ah' these heathen also voters?
Will we jes' for ever more
An' when next you ask a feller
Whur he's from, say he's bound to say,
With a lordy kind o' flourish:
"All creation, U. S. A."

Talked of in New York

GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—When winter comes to New York then starving men come into evidence. It is usually men, unattached, from a family point of view, who drop over on the sidewalk or are found on park benches, exhausted from exposure and want of nourishment. Two such cases are on the police records today. There is nothing sensational in either case, unless there can be said to be a sensation in a man starving to death in the richest city in the world, which boasts of charitable institutions of some kind in nearly every square mile. Through the summer and beautiful weather of spring and fall one may see hundreds of waifs sitting on park benches or wandering aimlessly about the streets. No one knows how they live and no one seems to care. Once in a while a few of them are rounded up by the police as vagrants and run and then one will be arrested for begging. But as a rule they are allowed to go their own way so long as they are orderly. But let there be a touch of frost in the air and a thin veneer of snow in the outlying districts, and some of these tireless people are likely to be found dying or dead on the sidewalk, as happened in West Twenty-eighth street today. This perverse creature, a man who said he was 42 years of age, when the Tenderloin policeman bent over him, died before an ambulance could reach him, and the surgeon said the cause of death was privation and exposure. Another man was found yesterday dying on a park bench. The same causes took him out of this world of misery. In Newark this afternoon a man was sent to jail for three months for the crime of being without food or home and he thanked the magistrate with tears of gratitude when he realized that he would have a warm cell until after the holidays. Somehow, it does seem as if there were a screw loose somewhere in the social economy of this part of the country, doesn't it?

Wished to Lynch a Motorman.

On the Bowery a man was run down and killed by a trolley car this morning. The crowd wanted to lynch the motorman. The police protected him. It did not appear to be the fault of the motorman that his victim was struck, but the willingness of any New York street crowd to lynch the driver of a trolley car when there is a disaster indicates the temper of New York as to street traffic. The certainty of having to face an infuriated mob in case of running down a pedestrian is calculated to make drivers and motormen watchful of other people's rights as well as their own.

Always Material for the Grumbler.

It is the privilege of city residents to grumble. They may not always have the same cause of complaint, but they can always find something to grumble about. In New York the annoyances are so many that legitimate growl is always in order. The open subway, the wild automobile, the trolley cars, the beggars, the thugs, the standing in public conveyances—all have been exploited until we are tired of hearing about them. But now we have something new. It is the dust kicked up by the Pennsylvania railroad in tearing down houses in the big block on the west side of Broadway where the terminus is to be erected. Only a comparatively few persons are complaining. They are the residents of that part of the city, with the occasional explorer from other districts. But they are making noise enough to be heard over all the other petty hostile cries where. It is asserted that the amount of dust caused by the tearing down process may be dignified in description as a downright plague and complaints has been made to the board of health. Meanwhile the railroad company keeps on knocking down houses.

Devery's Opinion of His Opponents.

What Devery thinks of the Fusionists and Tammanyites is suggested by this remark credited to him today: "If I see Cutting about a block further with 10 cents than I would Murphy, and that is not saying much."

Has Scruples About Cigarettes.

Charlie Eisenman is a very well known hotel keeper in the Tenderloin. He has a peculiar method of conducting that branch of his business which deals with cigarettes. He has been in the business for something over 25 years, and until 20 years ago he would not sell a cigarette. Then he found that cigarettes were consumed by a fair percentage of his patrons and that it would be easier to sell cigarettes than to send out for a package or two whenever they might be ordered. "But," said he this evening, "I have never benefited personally by the sale of those things in the whole 20 years, and I never intend to. All the money received from the sale of cigarettes is put back into that glass case in which I keep them. From this money I buy a fresh supply when needed, and the rest I give away. If a Salvation Army girl comes in I just reach for whatever there may be in the case, sometimes $5 or so, and give her half. If a sister of charity enters I give her the whole of it. Cigarettes are a necessary article in the cafe business, but I will never allow myself to spend a penny from the sale of the dirty things. No, sir."

Tammany's Barrel Replenished.

Tammany hall is said by Wilbur F. Wakeman, former appraiser of New York, to have received within 24 hours a check for $50,000 or $55,000 from the "contractor's trust." That means that the sub-contractors of the rapid transit subway have dug into their bank accounts to that amount for the benefit of the Tammany campaign funds. It is declared also that John B. McDonald has supplemented this with his own check for $50,000 for the same use. Common talk is that if Tammany should be successful next Tuesday subway contractors will enjoy many privileges without under the law by the present administration. If this impression gets abroad—and the Citizens Union will see that it does—it is likely to drive another nail into Tammany's coffin. If there is any public issue on which New York business men feel strongly, it is this subway open ditch affair. For the sake of closing it and keeping it closed nearly any man along the route would be willing to change his politics without a moment's hesitation.

Buried Alive 28 Years.

It is curious to think what New York must seem like to a man who used to know it 28 years ago, but had never seen it since until today. Martin Gill, released on a pardon this morning from Sing Sing, where he had been serving a life sentence, found the New York of today very different from what it was when he was carried away in 1875. Among the new features are the elevated railway, trolley cars, electric lights, Brooklyn bridge and skyscrapers. Gill seemed to be in a daze when he got off the train in the Grand Central station and looked about him. It will take several days for him to recover his equilibrium. He is 62 years of age. He was 31 when he was buried alive in the old prison on the Hudson.

Gorman's Race Issue.

The intemperate and vituperative attack which Senator Gorman made on President Roosevelt in his first Maryland campaign speech this year will not be apt to commend itself to the more substantial voters of the state. In assailing the president as a "dictator," an "emperor" or a "czar," and demanding that the people of Maryland shall send the Democratic ticket because Mr. Roosevelt once entertained Booker Washington at lunch, Gorman has departed widely from his former cautious and conservative utterances. The tone of his speech in its lack of dignity and downright demagogy inspires the suspicion that either his mental powers are not they once were or that he regards the Democratic prospects in his own state as so unpromising that he felt impelled to make a desperate appeal to race prejudice.

In either event his words were unworthy of the position which he occupies. From a Democratic viewpoint there are plenty of questions on which the Roosevelt administration is open to criticism. But to drag in Booker Washington as an issue in a state canvass, with the intimation that in some mysterious way his reception by the president threatens white supremacy in Maryland and throughout the nation, is an act which deserves contempt from every man of intelligence.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

+ + + +

Senator Gorman says: "I regret that the race issue has been raised, but it was not raised by the Democratic party." So far as he can make himself so, Mr. Gorman is the Democratic party of Maryland. He dictated its platform. That platform demands white supremacy in Maryland and throughout the nation. In an act which deserves contempt from every man of intelligence.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

In an act which deserves contempt from every man of intelligence.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

+ + + +

When Mr. Gorman stigmatized the president as a "dictator, or a czar, or an emperor," he insulted not only the truth, even as he himself knew the truth, but the loyalty and intelligence of every citizen. If the Maryland senator's ill-mannered and inaccurate harangue be carefully considered it will be perceived that he, and not the president, has been guilty of attempting to give new, greater and more dangerous vitality to the disturbing race question. Because he knows better, Senator Gorman should do better.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

+ + + +

If the justice and decency of the anti-negro legislation and the mode of its enforcement are to be brought into the national campaign, the effect will not be favorable to Democratic success. That policy may aid politicians like Mr. Gorman to control the party machinery in their own states, but it will be received with anything but approval in the north. And the Democratic candidate for president must be elected, if at all, in the north.—New York Times.

+ + + +

Of course the charge that the president has forced the issue is so entirely without foundation that it scarcely deserves serious discussion. The ascription of the origin to the single personal act which Mr. Gorman mentions as the cause is utterly unworthy of a man of his standing. Beyond this, there is no race issue except that of casting in the best way for a race which is here not by its own original volition and for whose protection and elevation we are responsible. There is and can be no issue of "black domination." The extraordinary utterance of Mr. Gorman shows the utter poverty of his grounds of appeal. When he is reduced to charging the president with forcing a race issue, and to denouncing him as a dictator or a czar, he is bereft of all serious arguments.—Philadelphia Press.

+ + + +

Senator Gorman's comparison of President Roosevelt to the czar may have some appositeness in view of the president's disposition to interfere in the local affairs of Maryland and some other states. But when the senator attempts to make the negro question a paramount issue in national politics he makes a great mistake, the effect of which he misjudges greatly. The race question may prove to be a source of serious embarrassment to Democratic as well as Republican national conventions, but its solution must be left to the states which it most concerns. A racial and a sectional question, let us hope, can never be raised again to a national issue.—Philadelphia Record.

Allegheny's "Tolerated Epidemic."

The officers of the state board of health have shown praiseworthy vigor in dealing with the tolerated epidemic of smallpox in Allegheny city. The indifference of local authorities in a case like this not only imperils the community immediately concerned, but is a menace to all who have communication with it. If Allegheny city cannot or will not, take measures for the control of a contagious disease, it becomes necessary to isolate it from the rest of the state by a rigid quarantine.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Says That Mayor Wyman Did Not Account for Contribution Made Last Febuary by Thomas S. Bigelow and the Wabash Railroad Company.

Charles W. Simon, ex-treasurer and ex-organization manager of the Citizens party in Allegheny last night made his first speech for the Republican party in this campaign, and the 600 or more voters from the Fourth ward who were in the building heard some things that have an interesting bearing on recent political events.

Mr. Simon said:

"I consider it my duty to inform you of some of the doings that came under my observation during my brief association with the Citizens party. I wish to call to your attention the achievements of the party of broken pledges, that has as its prophet and overseer, on this side of the river, James G. Wyman, who is representative of those that are trying once more to fool the public into believing their promises. For seven months this city has been in the hands of Wyman and his incompetents, who so far have given us nothing but misrule. Yet the platform they advocated last spring was the fairest ever presented to any public.

"I would like Wyman to tell me what became of the monies sent him during the last campaign for the Citizens party. I have learned that he got money from several sources, for political purposes, that was never given to me as treasurer of the organization. This money was not given him for private uses. He turned not one penny into the political fund.

"What became of the contributions of Thomas S. Bigelow and the Wabash railroad? They are not credited with any gift on the books, although they sent money through Wyman.

"His second reform was the reappointment of James McLaughlin as superintendent of the bureau of health. Although Stephen G. Porter and other orators have told us within the past few weeks of the awful mismanagement in this bureau under the old administration, they evidently forgot that the same man who has been at the head of it for 12 years is yet there.

"Wyman has placed one of his sons in a position that pays $1,800 a year, another in a position that pays $1,566 a year, the third holds a place that pays $900 a year. It is fortunate for those who got jobs that Wyman has not a large family. Recently he took from two women the work of washing the towels used in city hall. Well, he is one of the largest stockholders in a laundry.

"Every councilman elected on the Citizens ticket pledged himself to vote for the abolition of all unnecessary offices, but the majority of them, with the assistance of Wyman, defeated the ordinance to abolish the delinquent tax office."

It is a coincidence that the meeting in the Tenth ward school last night happened just a year, to a day, after a meeting of the Citizens party in the same hall, at which Simon presided, and at which Lee C. Beatty, John F. Cox and John Francies spoke for the Citizens. All these speakers were present last night and urged those present not to have anything to do with the Bigelow machine.

MISSION COUNCIL MEETS.

The Protestant Episcopal Boards Hear Reports on Work Here and Abroad.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The opening service of the missionary council of the Protestant Episcopal church was held here today at Epiphany church. The sermon was preached by the bishop of Albany. The council will continue its sessions throughout the week. The indications point to a large attendance of bishops, clergy and laity.

At the afternoon session of the council, which was presided over by the Rt. Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, bishop of Missouri, the American primate, an address on "The Missionary Record of the Year," by George C. Thomas, of New York, treasurer of the general board of missions, was read. The Rev. Arthur S. Lloyd, secretary of the board, delivered an address on "The General Progress of Achievements in the Field," and William Jay Schiffiln, president of the American Missionary society, read a paper on the "Trustees in Brazil and Cuba." Bishop Doane, in presenting the report of the board of managers, called attention to the completion of the translation of the Bible into Wen Li, the classic language of the Chinese. The total receipts of the treasury for the year ended August 31, the bishop said, were $1,102,317, a handsome increase over the preceding year.

A public meeting of the council was held tonight in Epiphany church at which Justice Brewer of the supreme court delivered an address. Other speakers were the bishop of Honolulu and Bishop Tuttle.

CONFERENCES ENDED.

P. R. R. Trainmen's Grievances Have Been Rejected by Manager Atterbury.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—The committees of Pennsylvania railroad trainmen which formulated grievances and presented them to General Manager Atterbury for adjustment, left this city today for their respective homes. No statement of the results of the conference was made. It is known, however, that the demands for a reduction in hours and the entering into an agreement with the trainmen's organization by the company were not entertained by Mr. Atterbury. It is understood the members of the committee are fairly satisfied with the result of their work.

Mr. Osborne, for the defense made two formal motions to dismiss the indictment but both were overruled by Judge Newburger. The case was then adjourned until tomorrow.

Phone Poles Causing More Trouble.

Councilmen-at-large select council will hold a special meeting this evening for the purpose of considering complaint filed by residents against the Pittsburgh and Allegheny and the Bell Telephone companies. Property owners allege the telephone companies are placing more poles than necessary and in places where they will not be needed for years. It is also alleged that the companies failed to have their plans approved by the city engineer and the street committee.

The murder story is said to have originated among the neighbors.

ST. LOUIS BANKS PAY DEPOSITORS

Rumors of Loss Start Heavy Runs Which Continues Until Closing.

ALL ARE A SOUND AS EVER

Leading Citizens Attempt to Reassure Frightened Depositors, but Their Efforts Are in Vain—Measures Promptly Taken to Protect Interests of Creditors.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

ST. LOUIS, MO., Oct. 27.—Like a clap of thunder from a clear sky came today's runs on the trust companies of St. Louis. While rumors have been comon that certain institutions had lost heavily in investments in Mexican railroad bonds, no well informed person, knowing the strength of the St. Louis financial institutions, would believe that any trouble could occur.

But with the dawning of the day it became apparent that something was in the air. Crowds began to congregate downtown early. The presidents of the trust companies and banks began to hear rumors of a threatened panic. As early as 9 o'clock the receipts of the Mercantile Trust company were warned that a run would be made on their institution, and they immediately began preparations to meet it, securing large sums of gold and silver coin in which most of the depositors who later asked to withdarw their accounts received payment.

By 2 o'clock 7,000 persons were in line before the teller's windows of the Mississippi Valley and the Mercantile Trust companies. Smaller lines, which did not extend out of the buildings, were to be seen at the Commonwealth, Lincoln Trust, Union Trust, Missouri and Germania Trust companies. Tellers were busy counting out coin and currency to anxious depositors, and well known financiers and business men of the city were addressing the excited crowds telling them that no St. Louis institution is insolvent.

Until the hour of closing the run continued. Those who were inside the banking institutions at 3 o'clock and wanted their money were paid after that hour, but the police kept any more from pushing their way into the buildings after 3 o'clock.

Mayor Wells, President Francis of the Exposition company, former Gov. Lon V. Stephens, Archbishop Glennon, Julius Walsh, Breckenridge Jones, Festus Wade and other men whose word carries much weight with every citizen of St. Louis, assured the public through verbal and written statements printed in the local press that the trust companies of St. Louis are absolutely sound and that there was no earthly excuse for runs on the various institutions.

Some of those who came downtown prepared to withdraw their deposits went home satisfied by these statements. Others waited impatiently in line until they could check out every dollar they had on deposit. The great majority of the accounts withdrawn were insignificant in size, varying from $50 to $150. Few exceeded $1,000. The majority of those withdrawing were women.

Fear Is Allayed.

Late this evening the St. Louis Clearing House association met and issued a statement that the trust companies are all sound and do not need assistance and approving a decision reached by all of them this evening to require the legal limit of 30 and 60 days for withdrawals of deposits.

A statement of an agreement between the directors of the Mercantile Trust Company, each pledging his private fortune to uphold the institution if needed, also had much to do with allaying excitement, and it is the general opinion tonight that the run will be ended tomorrow.

BRYAN MAKES ANSWER TO STODDARD'S ATTACK

Says Politics is at the Bottom of the Attempt to Break the Bennett Will.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Oct. 27.—William J. Bryan lashed Judge Henry Stoddard for an hour to a standstill this morning on the hearing for probating the will of Philo S. Bennett, Mr. Bryan's close personal friend.

"From the first time I saw you I was convinced that politics, not law, was at the bottom of the attempt to get thrown out the $50,000 bequest to my family," said Mr. Bryan. He spent an hour driving home this statement.

"I believe," said Mr. Bryan, "that the only purpose was to hold before me the threat that this would be brought before the public if I did not disregard the will of my friend.

"But he seems not to understand that the moment the question was raised in regard to that will that I had more at stake that he or any person connected with this family, and that if I had desired to make a compromise I could not have done so. Why? Because the moment that will is questioned, the moment the connection with it is questioned, I owe to my good name that all the facts in connection with it should be made public.

"This gentleman has no power at his command that is sufficient to make me fear to carry out the will of Philo S. Bennett and to help dispose of his property as he desired it disposed of.

"According to the laws of your own state he had a right to dispose of that property as he pleased, and if my friend here insists that he did something wrong, let him indict the legislators of his state; let him condemn the people who make the laws of Connecticut, for under the laws of Connecticut he had a right to dispose of his property and they cannot question that right."

Mr. Bryan today said that he had postponed his trip to Europe, he having expected to have sailed from New York tomorrow, and would not make any definite plans until after Judge Cleaveland had rendered his decision in the Bennett will case. He further said that the court had stated that possibly a week would elapse before the decision would be made public.

WORKINGMEAN INDORSE CHAMBERLAIN'S POLICY

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 27.—Joseph Chamberlain addressed another monster meeting in the Hippodrome here tonight. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Workingmen's Conservative association and the 5,000 persons present gave the former colonial secretary a tremendous reception. The meeting was organized as an offset to the recent action of representatives of labor unions in various places in denouncing Mr. Chamberlain's tariff and preferential proposals.

Arrived Here Yesterday and Spent the Afternoon Driving—Living in Her Private Car at Union Station—Is Hungry for American Books.

Mme. Melba, the world-famed soprano, whose silver notes have earned her golden coin in a ratio even better than the 16-to-1 standard about which every Populist howls, is in the city fresh from an enphatic triumph in Cleveland, where she sang on Monday evening, and gloriously voiced for her appearance at the Pittsburgh Carnegie Music hall tonight. That she will be welcomed by a large and brilliant audience is beyond a doubt in view of an astonishingly large advance sale of seats.

Mme. Melba is living during her stay in Pittsburgh in her private car Rive, which is at the Union station drawn in under the tunnel-like bridge over which pass all the western trains. This, she says, is because she cannot stand the overheated atmosphere of American hotels.

To see the saloon of this car one would never know that there was a woman traveling in it, unless she accepts as a strictly feminine touch the magnicent rose-colored chrysanthemums which decorate the center table. That might distinguish it from any other private car in which national personages tour the country. It was in this saloon that Mme. Melba received a feminine representative of The Gazette.

Likes Pittsburgh All But the Dirt.

It is unfortunate, but true, that the great prima donna says that Pittsburgh is the dirtiest city she ever saw, and she frankly admits that the flying soot uses up handkerchiefs and gloves entirely too fast for her taste. But she is also immensely interested in the industrial growth of the city and describes Pittsburgh's great factories as wonderful, also quite unlike anything she has ever seen. So Pittsburgh need not be cast down.

She desired to know the population of the city and exclaimed with surprise at its size; and she also gave a bit of flattery by declaring that she was quite sure that Pittsburgh was larger than Chicago. Mme. Melba was out driving all yesterday afternoon in Highland park.

"It is most wonderful the growth Pittsburgh has made since I was last here," she said. "I noticed it at once. Yes, I love to come to America, for you people know the best and demand the best. I should have been here last year, but my father was ill.

"My favorite role? I have none. I will not sing opera I do not like. When I don't like an opera, I chuck it." This with a most fascinating Frenchy little gesture.

"I want to read more of your American books. I have read 'The Virginian,' and I think it is perfectly magnificent. I was wildly enthusiastic about it. I have read some of your Booth Tarkington's stuff.

"You must hear my Mlle. Sassoli, the harpist of my company. She is a wonder, and is having a most wonderful success." And with that, in came Mlle. Sassoli, a very Frenchy jeune fille indeed, and with her was her mother, who does not speak English at all. Mme. Melba introduced them, and translated many of her remarks into French for the benefit of Mme. Sassoli, changing from English to French with an enviable ease.

For the benefit of those who have admired the famous soprano's wonderful stage costumes it may be interesting to know that while traveling she dresses very simply, although everything she wears bears the cachet of the best houses. Yesterday she wore a smart little blouse of black and white shepherd's plaid silk, with a skirt of rough gray cloth and a stock of velvet ribbon, heliotrope in hue.

Photographs Don't Do Justice.

Her manner is gracious and her expression charmingly vivacious, and she has eye lashes which are so long and curled that they might well be the despair of her sisters who are less favored in this respect. She is dark, with dark wavy hair, but her photographs have never caught the delightful charm of her countenance which comes to it as she talks and smiles. In her pictures Melba is statuesquely beautiful, but in herself she has a most expressive and mobile countenance. For the rest, her photographs are too well known to need any further description.

As for Mme. Melba's art, she has long borne the title of the greatest soprano in the world. And isn't it nice that she likes her? For despite the dirt, she says she does. And Pittsburgh likes her, too.

SOCIETY

"THE OAKS," the fine old mansion of Judge and Mrs. John M. Kennedy, was yesterday the scene of an interesting event, the coming out reception of their only daughter, Miss Narcissa Kennedy. Owing to the condition of Mrs. Kennedy's health, her place in the receiving party was filled by her sister, Mrs. Elisa McMillan of Jefferson City, Mo., who, with Mrs. Frank Murdoch and the father of the debutante, received from 4 until 8 o'clock. A number of young girls, who will make their bows to society later in the season, and several of Mrs. Kennedy's friends assisted. They were Miss Mary Kennedy, Miss Mary Gayley, Miss Jeannetta Abbott, Miss Jean McGinley, Miss Georgia Heard, Miss Mary Rolf, Miss Anica Humbird, Miss Alice Schmertz, Miss Alice Guthrie, Miss Katherine Murdoch, Miss Mary Robinson, Miss Emily Lyon, Miss Martha Herron, Miss Adelaide Bindley, Miss Emily Cowan and Mrs. C. S. King, Mrs. L. Sutton, Mrs. A. Hart McKee, Mrs. Lee L. Robens and Mrs. T. R. Sterrett.

Miss Kennedy wore a simple girlish gown of white chiffon, with trimmings of dainty lace and valley lilies in the folds of the bodice nestled a cluster of fragrant violets. Mrs. McMillan appeared in lavender crepe and Mrs. Murdoch was gowned in black lace. In the decorations of the parlor were seen many bouquets received by the debutante, the mantel forming a bank of blossoms, before which the receiving party stood. Palms filled the archway, while outlining it were clusters of roses in various colors and bouquets of chrysanthemums. These feathery blooms were also in evidence on small clusters of lights at one end of the room, while the chandeliers had adornments of pink roses. The mantel decorations were especially effective. Completely covering it were bouquets of roses, sweet peas and lilies of the valley tied with ribbons of different widths and colors, some of Miss Kennedy's bouquets.

Smilax outlined the stairway at the foot of which was a wicker standard of magnificent white chrysanthemums. Palms were placed in the hall and at the head of the stairs. Tiny red blossoms softened the light in the hall. Delicate maidenhair fern banked the dining room mantel, the table with its lace cover over yellow having a centerpiece of yellow chrysanthemums which decorate the center table. This is but a slight distinguish it from any other private car in which national personages tour the country. It was in this saloon that Mme. Melba received a feminine representative of The Gazette.

Robb—Crawford.

Few more elaborate weddings have been seen then that of Miss Mary Evans Robb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Robb of Emsworth, and Earl Hays Crawford yesterday at the home of the bride. It was an evening ceremony. The bride is a daughter of one of the oldest residents of Emsworth and a sister of Assistant District Attorney John S. Robb. Over 200 invitations were sent out. The Rev. W. S. Harper of the Emsworth United Presbyterian church performed the ceremony assisted by his pastor, the Rev. H. Hagle in the drawing room, where the decorations were in yellow and green. Yellow chrysanthemums and smilax were used to form the background, while an arch made of ropes of smilax led to a corner banked with palms, where the minister and his assistant stood. The bride was given away by her father. D. H. Crawford was the best man.

The bride wore a gown of white marquisette over white imperial silk, trimmed in old point lace. The bridesmaids were Miss Grace Robb, a sister of the bride, and Miss Alice Crawford, a sister of the groom. The matron of honor was Mrs. George Russell of New York, a sister of the bride, who was married only two months ago. Miss Elizabeth Foster Robb and Miss Mary Adelia Robb, daughters of Assistant District Attorney J. S. Robb and nieces of the bride, acted as flower girls. They were dressed in white and carried yellow flowers.

Supper was served, after which the bride and bridegroom left for California, where they will spend some time and later will make their home in the Pittsburgh suburbs. Mrs. Crawford is engaged with his brother-in-law in the lumber business. Guests were present at the ceremony from Montana and Boston, Mass.

Tea for a London Visitor.

Mrs. Harry Phillip Davis gave a pretty afternoon tea yesterday in honor of Mrs. L. C. Lehmann of London, England. Mrs. Lehmann is a sister of Mr. Davis and is spending a short time with her brother and his wife prior to her leaving for New York on Friday, whence she will sail on Wednesday of next week. The hostess, in a gown of white crepe and the honor guest in white net, received together, assisted by Mrs. E. E. Keller, Mrs. Arthur V. Davis, who poured tea; Mrs. Harry J. Lawrence, Mrs. John W. Pontefract, Mrs. W. L. Corey, Mrs. C. C. Cyler, Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh, Mrs. William Boyd and Miss Wolf.

Dainty decorations marked the affair. Maidenhair fern banked the parlor mantel, where pink chrysanthemums completed the adornment. Yellow prevailed in the dining room, with chrysanthemums predominating. Asparagus was used extensively on the chandeliers. A number of entertainments have been given for Mrs. Lehmann since her arrival in the city.

In Honor of Miss McComb.

Miss Katherine Kauffman gave a theater party on Monday evening for Miss Louise McComb and her bridesmaids, and on Monday afternoon Miss Katherine Elkins gave a dainty appointed luncheon for the same honor guests. The centerpiece was of yellow chrysanthemums. Last evening at the wedding rehearsal Miss McComb presented her maids with beautiful little gold pins, her fiance, David Miller Watt, presenting the ushers and best man with silver card cases on which were engraved the initials of the recipients and the date. After the rehearsal the wedding party and a few friends were entertained by Mr. David M. Watt of Dittridge street, the mother of the prospective bridegroom. The wedding will take place this evening in Calvary Protestant Episcopal church.

November Wedding in Sewickley.

One of the prettiest of the fall weddings of Sewickley will take place this evening, when Miss Sarah Campbey and Walter Little will be married. The ceremony will take place at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's brother, Benjamin Campbey, and more than 100 guests will be present. Miss Campbey will be attended by her sister, Mrs. Ford Brandon of New Castle, as matron of honor. Dr. Charles Adams of California avenue, Allegheny, will be best man. Little Elizabeth Merlatt and Florence Campbey will be ribbon girls, and Miss Elizabeth L. Quinn will play the wedding march. The Rev. Benjamin J. Hill of the Methodist Episcopal church will perform the ceremony. After a wedding trip the couple will make their home in Sewickley, where they have a home already furnished in Ivy street.

Wedding Rehearsal and Supper.

The rehearsal for the wedding of Miss Helen Bowman Mason and George Reed took place last evening at the home of Miss Mason's brother, Henry Lee Mason, Jr., in North Highland avenue. After the rehearsal the bridal party, with a few other friends, had supper and bridegroom-elect, went to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Mason, Ellsworth avenue and Bidwell street, where an informal supper was served. The wedding will take place this evening, with the Rev. Alfred W. Arundel as officiant. Miss Margaret Reed will be maid of honor, and the best man will be Joseph Reed. The ushers will be Preston Schoyer, George Hallman, George McBride and Robert King.

Last Monday evening the Epworth leaguers of the West End Methodist Episcopal church tendered their pastor, the Rev. David Flanigan, an informal reception in celebration of his having been returned to them by the annual conference for a second year. The exercises, from the entertainment to the cooking and serving of the luncheon, was entirely in charge of the young men. Several piano solos were given by Miss Ethel Cooper, Allegheny, a short speech was made by the Rev. E. R. Donahue, pastor of the West End Presbyterian church, a class song, rendered by the young men of the several committees who were dressed in the uniforms of chefs, waiters and ushers was a feature.

Following the rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. James Stephen Martin of Walnut street last evening entertained informally for Miss Louise Kennard and Samuel Landis Haynes. Tanehill, was sent to the Union Centenary church, Braddock, and he and his wife were given a farewell reception last Friday evening.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Press Club Tea in the Clarke Studio.

The Clarke studio yesterday afternoon was thrown open for the first entertainment ever given there since the Art Students' league secured it, which was not given under its auspices. The occasion was the social meeting of the Women's Press club. As an interesting place for social and informal club entertainments the possibilities of the studio were tested yesterday, and as the league is willing to rent its quarters for such purposes, it is probably the forerunner of many similar enjoyable affairs.

The hours were from 3 o'clock until 7, and 75 of the club women of Pittsburgh were the guests of the Women's Press club. The artistic environment, the great fireplace, with its overhanging mantel and quaint tiles, the massive heavy timbered ceiling of the large studio, the picturesque gallery leading to smaller workshops, contributed to the charm of the place. The ushers as they arrived were received by Mrs. William F. Abel, the president of the club, assisted by the members of the social committee, Miss Marion Bonsall and Miss Blanche Crawford. A very interesting and critical talk on Edgar Allen Poe and his works was given by the Rev. A. J. Bonsall of Rochester, who gave illustrations from both the prose and poetical writings of the author, quoting freely from "The House of Usher," "Annabel Lee," and "The Raven." Anthony H. Euwer gave several readings, including an original rhyme burlesquing the hard luck of the small boy who is told he must not.

Tea was served informally, the committees being assisted by Miss Sarah Barbour, Miss Emily Chaffee and Mrs. Anthony W. Smith, Jr. The guests included representatives of the Woman's club, the Twentieth Century Travelers, New Era Wheelwomen, Tourists, the Colonial Council of Jewish Women, together with several of the officers and members of the Art Students' league.

The Goths and Gothic Art.

The program arranged for the meeting of the Travelers' club yesterday was wholly changed with but two exceptions. Mrs. R. H. Gilliford was the leader in the absence of Mrs. Rutherford Burger. Mrs. James R. Dargagh was not present, but the subject assigned her, "The Goths in Spain," was treated in an open discussion. Mrs. William Norton, though not present, was represented by a paper, entitled "Gothic Art," the Byzantine Influence, which was read by Mrs. James Israel. A short talk on "Mediaeval Architecture in the Universities" was given by Mrs. T. F. Henderson. Instead of discussing current topics, Mrs. Z. T. Miller read a paper on "Biology." The music was contributed by Miss Stannard.

In addition to the regular program, reports were given by the club delegates, Mrs. William Macrum and Mrs. W. P. Price, who were in attendance at the state federation meeting in Carlisle. Mrs. Henry J. Bailey added to the interesting reports of the delegates. The alternates were Mrs. William Norwood and Mrs. Frederick Church, all of them attending the state meeting.

Mrs. Julian Kennedy will be leader at the next meeting of the club on November 10. "The Moors and Their Influence on Spanish Culture and Civilization" will be the topic of study.

The Federation and the Indians.

A number of the clubwomen who were in Carlisle and visited the Industrial Indian school received copies yesterday of "The Red Man and Helper," printed every Friday by the apprentices at the Indian school. There is a weekly newspaper published in connection with the school and many of the students become proficient as printers and go to the west to follow their trade. In "The Red Man and Helper" interesting comments on the federation meeting in Carlisle, Mrs. Henry J. Bailey added to the interesting reports of the delegates. The alternates were Mrs. William Norwood and Mrs. Frederick Church, all of them attending the state meeting.

Mrs. Julian Kennedy will be leader at the next meeting of the club on November 10. "The Moors and Their Influence on Spanish Culture and Civilization" will be the topic of study.

House Warming for New Club House.

The Young Women's Christian association branch at Wilmerding gave a large reception last evening as a house warming for its large and recently remodeled building on Margueriete avenue, adjoining the Westinghouse Athletic building, the home of the Y. M. C. A. branch. The reception was from 8 to 10:30 o'clock and was attended by more than 400 persons, a large delegation being present from the branches in Pittsburgh. Miss Myrtle McAteer of Wilkinsburg and E. A. Craig, tenor, sang a number of songs and duets and incidental music was rendered by a dozen girls of the association. The Y. W. C. A. building has been completely remodeled during the past three months, and quite a large addition has been made, there being a reading hall for entertainments and social affairs, a sewing room, cooking department and a number of classrooms for educational work.

All-Day Sewing for Curtis Home.

The managers of the Curtis home arranged for an all-day sewing yesterday at the home in Breckenridge avenue, near Reed street. The institution was in need of bed linen and clothing, some of that need being relieved by the work of the women yesterday. Mrs. J. M. Foster is superintendent of the home and John P. Goettmann is its treasurer.

Hospital Donation Day.

The annual reception and donation day for the benefit of St. John's General hospital will be observed tomorrow afternoon and evening at the hospital in McClure avenue, Allegheny, from 1 o'clock until 10. The managers ask for donations of money, groceries, linen and any articles of use in a hospital which will be gratefully received.

Wilkinsburg Woman's Club.

The Woman's club of Wilkinsburg held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon. The report of the delegates to the Carlisle convention was an important feature of the program. The club was represented by Mrs. Charles B. Armstrong, Mrs. Rowland Ralph and Mrs. St. John.

NUTT IS CONFIDENT.

Republic Iron and Steel Official Looks Forward to Marked Improvement.

"The prospects are good. We hope to have an unusually busy season this winter. Despite the disappointments in the industry during the summer and fall, we expect that the trade will show a marked improvement from now on," said James H. Nutt, vice president and commissioner of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, yesterday. Mr. Nutt is far from joining with those who are predicting an apparently hopeless future and see nothing but a black sky.

"All of our plants are in operation," he said. "Although not all are running full, if orders continue arriving as rapidly as they are coming now it will not be long before our capacity will be well tied. Many an idle mill will be working before the winter is over."

Installation at McKeesport.

The Rev. William Harrison Decker, who was recently called to the pastorate of the Presbyterian church, McKeesport, to succeed the late Rev. Dr. J. J. McCarrell, will be formally installed this evening at 8 o'clock.

MERCY HOSPITAL ASKS TO RENAME OLD STREET

Historical Societies Object to Abolishing Present Title of Pride Street.

Opposition is promised by members of local historical and patriotic societies to the proposition to change the name of Pride street, in the Sixth and Seventh wards, to Mercy street. The request to change the name of the street is made by the authorities of the Mercy hospital, which fronts on both Pride and Stevenson streets.

Dr. J. P. Shaw of the Sixth ward introduced an ordinance Monday night in common council to make the change. Dr. Shaw explained that he was not taking sides either for or against the change in the name, and that he would abide by the wishes of a majority of the property owners in the street.

The opposition to the change is based upon the fact that the street was named for a man prominent in the early history of Pittsburgh, John Pride, who was a member of select council from 1821 to 1828. Marion street, which runs parallel to Pride street, one block distant, was named for a daughter of Pride.

Dr. Shaw stated that the Mercy hospital authorities wanted the name of the street changed as a guide for visitors to the hospital from outside of the city. He said the hospital was building a large addition which would take up considerable more frontage in Pride street. Pride street extends from Bluff street to Fifth avenue. It is claimed that the street was named before the Sixth ward was annexed to the city.

It is alleged that the city has been too free in dispensing with names of streets rich with historical associations.

Assistant Controller Morrow, who formerly lived in the Sixth ward, said yesterday that Stevenson street, which leads directly to the hospital entrance, was named for a Dr. Stevenson, and he suggested that if the hospital authorities desired to rename a street they should take Stevenson street.

More Mariners Are Needed.

Lieut. J. G. Muir, in charge of the local recruiting station of the United States marine corps, has completed arrangements for establishing sub-stations in McKeesport and Canton and Youngstown, O. Non-commissioned officers and privates will arrive the latter part of the week to take charge of the new stations. The marine corps is in need of men. An exceptionally large percentage of applicants have been rejected of late.

Too Many Candidates.

Because three out of five members constituting the board of revision and appeals which was recently elected by McKeesport councils in joint session want to be chairman, the board is deadlocked. John N. Dersam, chairman of select council, is one of the candidates for the chairmanship of the board. Business will be held up till a chairman is elected and the board organized.

PERSONALS

Maj. Gen. John A. Wiley of Franklin passed through the city last night on his way to Harrisburg. There he will meet the state encampment commission, which has arranged to visit a number of places in order to select a permanent camp. The first site to be visited will be at Mt. Gretna. Those at Somerset and Erie will also be visited. At the last session of the legislature a bill was passed appropriating $80,000 for a permanent camp site for the National Guard of Pennsylvania. The commission has found that the amount is not sufficient to properly equip a camp site. The intention of the commission is to select a site and then make an estimate of what it will cost to put it into suitable condition. Another bill will be presented at the next legislature asking for the amount needed. The commission consists of the auditor general, attorney general and adjutant general. Those accompanying them will be the staff and brigade officers.

At the Colonial hotel last night was registered H. E. Wilbur of Latrobe. He said: "It is 20 years since I visited Pittsburgh. The last time I was in the city I met with an accident. I was crossing Wood street near Fifth avenue, when I fell. Just as I fell a team of horses came along and one of them stumped on me. I was hurt, but was able to walk. When I arrived home that night my side pained me terribly and I called in a doctor. He told me three of my ribs were broken. It was fully six months before I recovered from the accident. During my sickness I made a vow not to come to Pittsburgh unless important business demanded it. Legal matters compelled me to spend today in the city. Although only 10 years away, yet the changes made in that time are wonderful."

J. H. Jones of Philadelphia was a passenger on the Pennsylvania Limited last night. The train was late, and in making up lost time made Mr. Jones very nervous. Said he: "We were held up east of Greensburg. After starting again the train made a speed which I shall never forget. The train rocked like a cradle. The conductor informed me we were only going 68 miles an hour, but it appeared to me to be 100 miles an hour. I admit I was very nervous."

Dan Patch Lowers Two World's Pacing Records at Memphis

DAN PATCH BREAKS WORLD'S RECORDS

Beats Prince Alert's Record for Half and Covers Mile to Wagon in 1:57¼ at Memphis.

FEATS DONE IN SUCCESSION

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

MEMPHIS, TENN., Oct. 27.—Dan Patch (1.58¼) within 45 minutes elapsed time this afternoon smashed two world's records in succession on the track of the Memphis Trotting association.

First he went against the world's half mile pacing record of 57¼ seconds, held by Prince Alert, and clipped a second and a half from the record, making the distance in 56 seconds flat. Next he hung out a new world's record for a mile pacing to wagon, making the mile in 1:57¼, two seconds better than the time of 1:59¼, which he made at the recent meeting on the Lexington, Ky., track, which stood as the world's record until this afternoon. Mat. Delmar, E. E. Smathers' 5 minute trotter, was sent to lower his own record, and he accomplished the feat. He cut a quarter of a second from the 2-minute mark, making the mile in 1:58¾. The first quarter was made in 30 seconds, the half in 1 minute and the three-quarters in 1:29¾.

In making the half-mile pace against time, Driver Myron McHenry started from the wire and pressed Dan Patch around to within a short distance of the half-mile pole, where two runners to sulkies were picked up, the forward sulky carrying the customary canvas dust strip. The three horses swept by the pole and McHenry gave the signal that the trial was a go.

Starter Newton dropped the red flag and the watches of the timers were set in motion to catch the new record for a half mile. The quarter was made in 29½ seconds and the half dashed under the wire with the hands of the watches pointing on the mark of 56 seconds. The demonstration from the grand stand was quite as enthusiastic as those given Dan Patch when he set the mile pacing record of 1:59¼ and 1:59 flat. When she trotted a mile in 1:58¾, but it and the other noisy acclamations of the new champion were all eclipsed by the enthusiasm of the spectators when Dan Patch came on the track to set a new wagon mark for the mile.

The start was made with two runners as pacers. The quarter was in :29½; the half in 59¾, and the three-quarters in 1:28. Under the whip, Dan Patch was dashed in 1:57¼, showing little effort from having smashed two records in a single afternoon. The pacer was driven by Mr. McHenry in the wagon trial.

The afternoon's programme was the finest of the meeting. The Transylvania Secretary Howe's annual farcical event, caused much merriment. Summaries:

ALLEGHENY PREPS WIN FROM UNBEATEN PEQUOTS

Officials Display Incompetency, and Pretty Contest is Marred. Fleming's Fine Runs.

The Allegheny Preparatory school eleven won from the Pequot Athletic club yesterday afternoon at the Colosseum, 6 to 5. The Preps got their touchdown in the first half after a hard resistance, but the Pequots secured theirs without any opposition which was due to a big kick, and the school boys refusing to line up.

The game, as long as the teams played football, was one of the best this season locally, for the youngsters. Both teams are evenly matched in weight at 170 pounds. The Pequots have not been beaten this year prior to yesterday, and the Preps, have never lost to a team their weight. The work of the officials, however, was very unsatisfactory and did much to detract from the interest of the game. They showed an ignorance of the rules and half of the time was consumed in consulting the book of rules.

The Preps scored a touchdown in the first half through a 20-yard run by Capt. Fleming, after which goal was kicked by Reiter. In the second half the Preps booted the ball to the Pequot's two-yard line, where it was carried back ten. From this place the Pequots began to hammer away at the Preps' line, making slow but sure gains. End runs did not net them anything of consequence. On its journey down the field Fleming and Reiter legged up as stars by their fierce tackling, getting their men from behind the good interference of the Pequots.

On the six-yard line Mix was sent around the line, but was tackled hard by Reiter. When the mass was separated Reiter had the ball. The Pequots claimed the ball was stolen. After a long dispute the ball was given the Preps. Then the Preps lined up and on the pass to the quarterback the three center men of the Pequots threw down Mayer, and securing the ball claimed possession of it. Umpire Ross called off side, but the referee was coaxed into allowing the play, which was the same as the one that secured a few minutes previous. The Preps refused to accept the ruling and allowed the Pequots to send Mark over for a touchdown. The trial at goal was missed.

Both teams played good football and had it not been for the unpleasant features the contest would have been enjoyed the more. For the Preps, Reiter and Fleming showed to the better advantage, although both the Preps ends did well. Reiter was the most consistent ground gainer, while Fleming tackled like a player of college experience. The Pequots had nice team work and made their gains against the line.

Fleming scored on a trick play, getting away from the bunch by himself. The Pequots carried the ball down the field and had it on the three-yard line when time was called for the close of the first half. Lineup:

EAST LIBERTY ELEVEN IS DISBANDED FOR SEASON

Players Get in Squable With the Faculty Because No Holiday Was Granted Monday.

The East Liberty academy football team was yesterday disbanded for the season by orders of Capt. Bunton and Manager Alexander McCracken. A squabble with the faculty was the cause. The players allege "ill treatment," and the faculty, it is asserted, say the players became insolent.

Because the faculty refused to grant a holiday Monday after the Kiski game the players thought they were being imposed on and demanded what they termed redress. It came yesterday morning when about 18 students, most of whom were players, were sent home. Certain players on the team were suspended for one week, while two drew a two weeks' suspension. Capt. Bunton declared the team disbanded after the Kiski game and Manager McCracken said he was through.

However, the team may again be organized, but it will be two weeks before it will be on the field. Coach Hill was notified yesterday that there would be no practice and that the season for the team was at an end.

The Geneva College Reserve team was yesterday secured to play the Pittsburgh High school Friday afternoon at Recreation park. Washington High school had the date, but demanded a guarantee that the local High school management refused to give.

William "Whittie" Colvin of the East End, who is captain and quarterback of the second team at Kiski, came home yesterday with a broken collar bone sustained in a game last Saturday.

BOTH ARE WILLING

Walcott and Gans May Come Together Soon.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—Joe Walcott, the welterweight champion, is willing to fight Joe Gans, the champion lightweight, if the latter will consent to allow him to weigh in at 140 pounds at 5 p. m. on the afternoon of the battle. Matchmaker Murray of the Criterion Athletic club of Boston will offer the men a big purse for a 15-round bout if they can come to terms.

Gans has said he would gladly take on Walcott if the latter would not demand too much weight.

PATCHING UP PEACE.

McGraw Is Talking the Giants Into Line.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—It is probable that the dissatisfaction in the ranks of the Giants which threatened the team for next year will be wiped out by the management offering inducements to several of the players who are thinking of leaving the team.

Manager McGraw has had a talk with McGinnity and it is said that he has been won over.

Wash.-Jeff. in Good Shape.

WASHINGTON, PA., Oct. 27.—(Special.)—With all the players in the lineup, the W. & J. varsity had a hard practice today. A short game was played with the scrub eleven and the varsity scored repeated touchdowns. The coaches are well pleased with the work and will keep the men at it all week. Frowitt at full back was given practice against the scrub at kicking goals, and dropped several from field. It is believed he will develop into a good kicker.

Sutton Won Final Game.

Sutton, the handless billiard expert, won his last exhibition game in Pittsburgh last night at the Star billiard parlors, East End. His opponent was Marshall, one of the best local amateurs in the East Liberty district. Sutton played 200 to Mr. Marshall's 180 and the score at the finish stood, Sutton, 200; Marshall, 116.

YALE COACHES ARE GETTING DESPERATE

Hold Secret Practice at Which All Players Are Ordered on Field Except Bloomer.

PRINCETON'S WEAK SHOWING

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Oct. 27.—Made desperate by the anxiety over the Columbia game, the Yale football coaches this afternoon had every player out for practice with the single exception of Bloomer. The gates were closed for over an hour and during this time the team was put through one of the hardest drills of the season.

"Phil" Sullivan, "Stim" Brown, George Adee, "Brink" Thorne, Sherman Coy, Howard Knapp and Charles Chadwick were all out to assist Capt. Rafferty and Field Coach George B. Chadwick. That there was something doing behind the closed gates was evident from the great amount of secrecy displayed. Even Bloomer was not out to the field to watch the plays. It was admitted that the coaches tried some new plays.

Kinney was in the line-up for the first time in ten days. Morton was again at left guard, with Borsbach at center and Miller at right guard. The open practice was also half an hour longer than usual. The only varsity players in the line-up in the open practice were Kinney and Owsley. The scrubs gave the varsity a lot of trouble, and the veterans were only able to get one touchdown. This score was made by Mitchell, who dropped a goal from the scrubs' 30-yard line.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 27.—(Special.)—A woeful tale came from the closed doors behind which the Tigers held football practice today. Men closely connected with the team said that without exception the players made the weakest showing of any during the season. Although playing with the wind at their backs and retained possession of the ball the greater part of the time and advanced with it the greater distance.

CAMBRIDGE MASS., Oct. 27.—(Special.)—Harvard had a long practice this afternoon, the scrimmage between the varsity and the second team lasting 35 minutes, which is the longest time on which the latter has been used. The varsity scored on the second team three times, but were themselves scored on. The second team got the ball on the varsity's 20-yard line on a fumble, and, aided by two penalties for offside play by the varsity and a couple of fierce line plunges, they carried the ball over the line.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—Fast football with little variation characterized the work of the University of Pennsylvania eleven today on Franklin field. With the exception of Kase, the varsity men were all out. Davis, sub half, has left for the west. "Mike" Bendell took his place with perfect satisfaction. The game with the scrub team lasted an hour and the fatal fault, fumbling by name, seems to have been eradicated. For quarterback, Mulford must not be overlooked, as Corson is not any too sure of his position, especially after his aerial ascension in the Columbia game.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 27.—(Special.)—Cornell's second day of secret practice before the Princeton game did not furnish the coaches a bit of encouragement. The scrub had been taught the Princeton formation, and the varsity was pushed 60 yards down the field before the advance was checked. Finally the varsity braced and scored several times, but the work was ragged and full of blunders.

GENEROUS TO A FOE.

Young Corbett Shows That There Is a Sense of Honor in the Prize Ring.

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—For ten rounds and a minute and a half in the eleventh Hughey Murphy of New York stood up against Young Corbett tonight, putting up a clever defense and landing many blows on the featherweight champion. Then came three blows in quick succession, and, although Murphy came up before the count, he was in no shape, and Corbett refused to continue the fight. He was awarded the decision.

Although Murphy besides landing many of Corbett's blows, landed frequently, his punches did little effective belief, though said Corbett seriously noticed them. Through the first five or six rounds there was practically no difference in the skill displayed by the competitors. In the tenth round Murphy had the better of it.

In the eleventh round Corbett started in to get the decision and rushed the battle from the start. At the end of a minute he landed a solar plexus blow on Murphy and followed it up with a left on the chin, sending the New Yorker to the floor until the referee counted nine.

Murphy arose to continue the battle, but was groggy. Corbett landed another left on the chin. Murphy went across the ropes and lay there for another count of nine. He got up before being counted out, but Corbett, noticing his condition, refused to continue the fight, and the decision was given to the Denver lad.

Murphy then fell into Corbett's arms, and Corbett picked him up and carried him to his corner.

DEWEY RECOMMENDS FOURTEEN NEW SHIPS

Ambitious Naval Program Outlined for Congress by the General Board.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Four first-class battleships, two armored cruisers, four torpedo boat destroyers, four fast and large scoutships. This is the program which the general naval board, of which Admiral Dewey is president, suggests as this year's addition to the American navy.

Secretary Moody will have to make recommendations to congress for new ships this year and had asked the general naval board for its opinion, which is above expressed. According to this program the navy would have nearly double its present strength in first-class battleships by 1907. In 1908 Germany proposes to have a total of 38 first-class battleships. In 1907 the United States would have 50 first-class ships and 29 in 1908. It is significant also that Admiral Dewey's board recommends an annual increase of four torpedo boat destroyers. It is understood the above recommendation is coupled with the suggestion that in case congress in any year fails to make a sufficient appropriation for all of these ships the two armored cruisers and four torpedo boat destroyers can best be eliminated from the program.

Burglary and Hold-Up.

An attempt at burglary was made on the home of Thomas Shaefer, No. 254 Boquet street, Monday midnight. Patrick and Robert Shaefer, two of Mr. Shaefer's sons, made an investigation of the premises and were set upon by a man with a billy. He escaped. William Wolfrom of Aloxaire street was stopped at Craig street and Fifth avenue early yesterday morning by two men. They demanded car fare and Wolfrom said he had no money. One struck him. They also escaped.

DECIDES AGAINST DREYFUSS.

McIntyre and Terry Awarded to Detroit by Baseball Commission.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 27.—(Special.)—Player Loudenslager of Syracuse, in dispute between Detroit and Syracuse, was awarded to Brooklyn today by President Herrmann of the baseball commission. Loudenslager was the player two years ago and claimed he was simply loaned to the Detroit club. Mr. Herrmann declares he was released outright to them.

The baseball commission today also decided to rule against Dreyfuss' claim for Outfielder McIntyre and Pitcher Terry, from the Buffalo league. It was declared that the Detroits claim for the men was a trick to tie Buffalo keep them. It was shown that Detroit had arranged to trade Pitcher Kleinfelter, Catcher McAllister and Infielder Yeager for the men.

Hundreds Were Delayed.

By the bursting of a steam pipe in the Rankin plant of the Allegheny County Light Company shortly before 7 o'clock yesterday morning Charles Johnston, a water tender, was seriously scalded.

The plant was shut down, all street cars on the Monongahela division stopped for nearly an hour, and electric lights shut off throughout the Monongahela and Turtle Creek valleys, causing considerable inconvenience and delaying hundreds of workmen on their way to mills and workshops.

McKeesport Wires Go Underground.

Work was started yesterday by Contractor James Butler in McKeesport on putting all the wires belonging to the police and fire department under ground.

CHAMPION JENKINS SUSTAINED THIS TITLE

Had Little Trouble in Taking Two Falls from McLeod—Tame Wrestling.

Tom Jenkins of Cleveland, who holds the title of champion wrestler of the world, did not have to work very hard to sustain the title from the assaults of Dan McLeod champion of Canada and ex-champion of the world. The bout took place in Old City hall. Jenkins secured the first and third falls and the match.

About 800 were present, and it can hardly be said that they got their money's worth. There was little chance for enthusiasm and not much of it was displayed. It did not look to the experts as if either Jenkins or McLeod exerted himself, and accepted falls as a matter of course.

The men appeared at 9:30 with Joe Connelly of Newark, N. J., as referee, and M. J. Donnelly of this city timekeeper for McLeod, and Jack Davis of Cleveland timekeeper for Jenkins. Two men are to wrestle without limit of time, and after wrestling for an evening they went to the mat and McLeod secured a cross-hold which Jenkins soon wriggled out of. The men advanced in doing the aggressive work and after 15 minutes' hard work Jenkins secured the first fall on a half Nelson hold.

The second bout lasted only 5 minutes and 20 seconds, and was won by McLeon with a quarter Nelson. Jenkins objected, claiming that his head was off the mat when the fall was secured, but the referee allowed the fall. The third bout lasted 7 minutes and 53 seconds, and was won by Jenkins by a half Nelson hold which McLeod did not appear to try very hard to break.

The preliminary was a very tame affair between Sherman Coy of Rochester, N. Y., and Eddie Campbell of this city. It had been announced that Young Corbett would referee the big bout, but this like many more of the claims of the newspaper press agent was untrue, as the little fighter knows enough to give himself position of knocking out an opponent in Boston.

MRS. BLAIR MAKES READY FOR BATTLE

Wife of Accused Attorney Disposes of Magnificent Stable to Raise Funds.

BLAIR MAY NOW RECOVER

Investigation Into the Charges Against Him Is Being Pursued by the Grand Jury, but No New Witnesses Were Examined Yesterday.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27.—The physicians attending James L. Blair, who has been in a precarious condition since his fall down a flight of stone steps at his home last Saturday evening, as the result of a physical collapse, stated tonight for the first time since the accident that Mr. Blair has now an even chance for recovery.

During the early part of today the physicians had practically given up hope for their patient's recovery, but as the day progressed, he began showing signs of improvement. At 6 o'clock tonight his pulse, respiration and temperature were found to be normal, and Dr. Homan stated that Mr. Blair was able to receive food, retain and assimilate it.

The important features of the part that the police are playing in the investigation of the Blair story came to light today. One is the fact that James T. Roberts told his story to Chief of Detectives Desmond before he gave it to the grand jury last Friday. The other is that Chief Desmond has been trying for a month or more to locate Carey M. Blair, a younger brother of James L. Blair, and has not been successful.

President Francis, of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company, stated today that all relations between James L. Blair, former general counsel of the corporation and the exposition were at an end.

Mrs. Blair today commenced the sale of the magnificent horses and carriages, which made the Blairs' the finest in the vicinity of St. Louis.

Percy Blair tonight stated that his mother, who is president of the board of lady managers of the World's fair, had called a meeting of the board for November 11, at which she would state her position regarding the World's fair. This is regarded as signifying that Mrs. Blair will have something to say regarding her incumbency of office.

The Morning Choral club, which musical organization Mrs. Blair founded years ago, today re-elected her to the presidency by unanimous vote. The investigation into the charges made against Mr. Blair is being pursued by the grand jury, but no new witnesses were examined today.

Mrs. James L. Blair.

GREAT TASK COMPLETED.

November 20, President Harriman Will Ride Across Salt Lake on 60-Mile Cut-Off.

SALT LAKE, UTAH, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—E. H. Harriman's great cut-off across Salt Lake was completed today and on November 20 the Southern Pacific president and a party of officials will ride across the Dead sea on a special train. This party will be the first to cross the lake by train. Mr. Harriman is now sending a work train across the 60 miles of bridge work to test the structure, but will ride across himself in a heavy train.

At noon today the last spike in this great engineering work was driven and the cut-off, which was the main cause of the fight between the Harriman and Keene interests, was completed. The cost of the work was $4,000,000. Two thousand workmen joyously celebrated the completion of the work.

Wants $3,000 for Son's Death.

GREENSBURG, PA., Oct. 27.—(Special.)—Mrs. Elizabeth Deibler of Allegheny will sue the Pittsburgh Coal Company for $3,000 damages for the death of her son, Roy Diebler, who died at the Mercy hospital in Pittsburgh from burns received in the explosion of rock powder in a wagon of the Federal Supply Company at West Newton. Deibler, with a number of other boys, was stealing a ride on the wagon, and it is claimed by the driver that the explosion was caused by sparks from cigarettes the boys were smoking.

Patrick Has Again Lost His Case.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 27.—The court of appeals today handed down a decision denying the appeal of Albert T. Patrick, in the matter of the probate of the will of William M. Rice, of whose murder he stands convicted. The court concurs in the judgment of the lower courts that the alleged will offered by Patrick is a forgery.

CARELESS WOMAN LEAVES $1,500 IN RAILROAD CAR

A telegram was sent to the conductor at Frankfort, but only the empty envelope in the seat was found.

BULLETS FLEW IN FIERCE FIGHT

Negro Shot James J. Carroll, a White Man, Twice in the Face.

LYNCHING WAS THREATENED

William H. Harris, colored, of No. 56 Chauncey street, shot James J. Carroll of No. 2840 Breckenridge street, at Wylie avenue and Chauncey street, shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Carroll received two bullets in the face and is now lying at the Passavant hospital with both jawbones shattered. Harris received a shot below the right elbow and was badly bruised about the head. He had a narrow escape from being lynched by Carroll's friends. Harris is now in the Center avenue police station.

The shooting was the outcome of a quarrel. Harris had been drinking for several days. He entered the saloon of Frank McTighe, at Wylie avenue and Duff street. Carroll with several companions was standing there. It is alleged that Carroll made a remark that angered the colored man. Harris left the saloon and returned with a stone. Carroll took this from him and put him out of the saloon.

Ten minutes later Carroll met Harris at Wylie avenue and Chauncey street. The colored man was flourishing a revolver at Carroll and his companions. Thinking the colored man was not serious in his threats, Carroll went at him. Harris shot Carroll under the right eye. The bullet took a downward course through his upper jaw and came out of his mouth. Carroll kept after Harris and received a second shot, which passed through the lower jaw.

Raymond Beck, who was with Carroll, closed on the negro and threw him to the ground. A crowd was attracted by the shooting, and when it was realized that Carroll was wounded, there was a cry of "Lynch the colored man." With this the crowd closed on Harris and beat and kicked him about the head and body. Harris was unconscious when George Hughes, a fireman connected with No. 25 engine house, went to his assistance.

Hughes took charge of Harris and sent in a riot call to the police station. In the meantime several policemen arrived and drove the crowd away. Both men were taken in a patrol wagon to the Passavant hospital. After Harris' wounds were dressed he was removed to the police station. Carroll's wounds may end seriously. Both jaws are badly shattered. Harris is superintendent of the city dump at Chauncey street and is 52 years old. Carroll is 25 years old.

EPWORTH LEAGUERS MET IN WILKINSBURG

Convention of Pittsburgh Conference Opens With Large and Enthusiastic Attendance.

The annual convention of the Epworth league of the Pittsburgh Methodist Episcopal conference, began yesterday afternoon in the South Avenue church in Wilkinsburg. A reception to the delegates was held, the registration of those present was completed and the junior league had an enthusiastic rally. It is expected that by noon today at least 300 delegates will be on hand.

The delegates began arriving in the morning and were met by the entertainment committee, and taken to the places where they are to be entertained during their stay.

The convention this year is expected to break the records, so far as the attendance of delegates and ministers is concerned. The two points of Epworth league work that are to be emphasized, Bible study and missions, are responsible for the increased interest. The department of "World Evangelism" is a new department added recently and it is to receive especial consideration.

The missionary exhibit made by Miss Bessie Brooks, of Beaver, received much attention. By means of charts Miss Brooks shows how much of the world has been christianized and how much has been sent for missions each year, comparing these conditions with those existing in the United States.

The Junior League meeting was in charge of Miss Agnes Mullen of Apollo. Papers were read by Miss Carrie Johnson of New Brighton; Miss Sydney Boyd of the Union church, Allegheny; the Rev. J. E. Wright of New Brighton; Mrs. M. H. Lichliter of Verona, and the Rev. H. N. Cameron of California, Pa.

The evening session was presided over by the Rev. T. N. Eaton, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. Latshaw McGuire. The Rev. H. S. Piper of Arnold led the vesper service and the Rev. Charles B. Mitchell of Cleveland, former pastor of the Smithfield street church here, spoke on "The Loyal Leaguer."

MOTHER TESTIFIES AGAINST HER SON

Cumberland Woman Says Defendant Wounded Her and Her Husband.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CUMBERLAND, MD., Oct. 27.—Several sensations were developed today at the trial of Henry Betz, charged with the attempted murder of his mother and Thomas Rohan, whom, Mrs. Betz stated today, she married last April.

Mrs. Rohan, when testifying, grew very angry when addressed as Mrs. Betz by the attorney for the defense. She described how Henry came to her house, loaded his shotgun in her presence, and fired one load at Rohan, tearing his arm off, and the other load was sent into her neck and shoulder.

She said Henry had sent her word that a turnkey at the jail would allow him to escape if paid $100. Then she went to see the man, but he told her to give the money to a lawyer to defend Henry. During the trial it developed that she gave her own money to pay his attorney.

The attorneys for the defense stated that Rohan and Mrs. Betz were living together unlawfully; that Rohan had secured no divorce from his wife; that Henry had tried unsuccessfully to have his mother leave Rohan; that his mother's actions worried him until, he stated, that in his dreams his dead father called upon him to avenge the disgrace brought upon his name. Rohan's wife, from Ohio, sat beside counsel for the defense today.

LORAIN STEEL PLANT IS BEING OVERHAULED

Men Affected by the Shut-Down Are Employed in Making Repairs.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

LORAIN, O., Oct. 27.—An order has been posted in the Lorain Steel Company's plant to the effect that the works will close for 30 days which affects 2,000 men. Some of the men laid off are to be put to work on repairs and large gangs will be used on the construction of the tube mills. The furnace men will all be needed to repair the furnaces.

An evidence of the improbability of an extended shut down of the plant was shown last night when a crew of men worked all night, placing electric lights in the blast furnace, which was blown out and which will be relined. The object was to have the work done as soon as possible so as to permit of no delay in commencing the work.

WANTS HUSBAND ENJOINED FROM OCCUPYING HER HOME

The wife accuses Mabel Simons of Youngstown of alienating her husband's affections. Judge Wallace granted a preliminary injunction and will hear the evidence next Monday.

At the station house Bryan was searched and a watch and chain was found in his possession which Sammansky declared were his.

MINISTERS REFUSED TO ENTER CAMPAIGN

Altoona Pulpits Will Not Be Used in Interest of Candidacy of H. A. Davis.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ALTOONA, PA., Oct. 27.—The effort to secure local ministers to deliver temperance sermons from pulpits next Sunday and thereby be a party to the candidacy of H. A. Davis, an independent aspirant for judge, has met with failure. Davis announces, if elected, it is his intention to shut off liquor licenses.

Ministers contend that Davis has not the least chance to win and by lending him support it would only be strengthening chances of the Democratic candidate, A. V. Dively, who is accredited with being an avowed opponent to local option. It is also known that most church members are favorably inclined to the election of Judge Bell, and to drag the judiciary campaign into the pulpit, would cause a division among members that it would take years to heal.

CONDUIT FRANCHISE REJECTED BY COUNCILS

OIL CITY, PA., Oct. 27.—(Special.)—Councils have refused the application of the Central District & Printing Telegraph Company to install a conduit system in this city. ARREST IS CAUSED BY SUICIDE AT YOUNGSTOWN

Man Who Tried to Prevent Leap from Bridge Is in the Custody of Police.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 27.—After struggling for 20 minutes with the men and boys who would have saved him, had they been able, Howard Moody last night jumped from the Market street viaduct, 90 feet, to his death. Moody was going home with Charles Morgan. He told him that he was going to commit suicide, and Morgan tried to stop him. Four times Moody climbed to the top of the railing and tried to jump off. He was finally successful in his struggle with the crowd that gathered, and an hour after his jump he died in the hospital. He was 18 years old.

A short time afterward Morgan was arrested. His story was heard by Mayor Gilbert this morning and it was decided to hold him for a further hearing. Morgan is alleged to have said finally:

"Oh, well, if you want to jump off, do it," and hurled Moody's hat over the railing. Then, according to the claims of the spectators, he threatened to shoot anyone who interfered with Moody. Moody's suicide was caused on account of trouble between his father and mother, which resulted in a divorce.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH.

Washington County Man Lured Into West Virginia and Badly Wounded.

WASHINGTON, PA., Oct. 27.—(Special.)—An attempt was made on the life of James Hogan of West Alexander last night. Hogan was lured to a lonely spot by a fake telegram and then shot in the head. He whipped up his horse and escaped. The wound is not serious.

Yesterday he received a telegram from Cameron, W. Va., stating that his sweetheart was dangerously ill and asking him to come at once. As he rode rapidly along a lonely road across the West Virginia line a mask shot him from ambush. When he hurried on several shots were fired at him. When Hogan reached the home of his sweetheart he found she was not ill, and that no telegram had been sent to him. Officers are working on the case.

JOHNS M'CLEAVE WILL EXPLAIN

Will Tell Twenty-Third Ward Residents Why B. & O. Ordinances Were Held Up.

BIG MEETING THIS EVENING

Member of McTighe's "Scotland Yard Force" Quits the Service—Bigelow Machine Bluffing About Number of Old Soldiers on County Payroll.

There will be a gathering of residents of the Twenty-third ward at the Hazelwood schoolhouse this evening. The principal speaker will be Johns McCleave, law partner of David T. Watson.

The meeting is being held to protest against the action of the select council combine, aided by the Citizens party bosses, in holding up the Baltimore & Ohio ordinances. Had these bills been passed the company would have at once started to build additional shops at Glenwood. It was the intention to spend $1,200,000 in the improvements. The new shops would have given employment to 1,200 additional mechanics.

This loss is a severe blow to the people of the Twenty-third ward and they have decided to make known their feelings in the matter. Mr. McCleave, as the legal representative of the Baltimore & Ohio in Pittsburgh, will tell why the ordinances have been held up. The meeting promises to be exceedingly interesting.

Bosses Are Scared.

The Bigelow machine bosses are scared about the situation in the Thirty-second ward and are dumping money into the ward in the hope of carrying it. The residents are nearly all property holders and attempts to purchase their support tends to increase their anger.

The attacks on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad legislation for the Glenwood shops and for the new downtown station has caused a great deal of indignation all over the city, as it was an attempt to retard public improvements. The recent statement of General Agent Robert Finney, showing that Murry A. Verner, county chairman of the Citizens party, had much to do with blocking the ordinances, has convinced many persons that it is dangerous to give more power to the Bigelow machine. The best evidence of this is in the fact that the bosses of this machine are very much excited about the effect that the Finney statement has had. They are also much excited about the Twenty-third ward meeting tonight and will doubtless try to secure control of the gathering. The man who attempts in the Twenty-third ward to uphold the crowd that prevented the building of the Glenwood shops will receive an unpleasant reception.

Tired of McTighe's Promises.

There is a vacancy on McTighe's "Scotland Yard force." Convinced that the Bigelow machine promises are of no value, Aaron B. Abromowitz last night resigned as a member of the secret service of the police bureau.

"I have been on the force since April 17," said he last night, "and when I was appointed it was with the understanding that I was to get something better. Supt. McTighe was to get me a place in the detective bureau. He repeatedly promised to secure the position. I have finally decided that one has to be a resident of St. Louis, Mo., Canton, O., or Allegheny to secure a berth in the Pittsburgh detective bureau.

"I have been with the Citizens in every fight and have suffered hardships for the party. I am now through with the whole crowd and will return to the Republican party. I live in the Fourth district of the Seventh ward. The division was carried by the Citizens in the other paths, but if you find any man who wants to, but that will not return a majority for the Republicans next Tuesday send him to me."

Old Soldiers at Court House.

The Bigelow machine is claiming that it has 13 soldiers of the civil war on the payroll. It would be interesting to have the Citizens bosses print a list of the names of veterans that they have placed in county positions. There are about 40 on the payroll, but the Bigelow machine cannot make claim to the appointment of more than two or three of the number. The others were put there by the Republicans.

An enormous attendance is assured at the Garfield school house, Nineteenth ward, this evening. Excellent music has been secured, and addresses will be full of fire and patriotism. This will be one of the most important meetings of the campaign, and arrangements have been made to care for a record-breaking attendance.

Other meetings scheduled for tonight are: Mannerchor hall, Thirty-second ward; speakers, J. McF. Carpenter, A. B. May, E. E. Cotton. Kean's auditorium; speakers, J. M. Shields, James F. Burke, John W. Morehead and the Rev. A. W. Pullert. Tentonia hall, Pike and Chestnut streets, Allegheny; speakers, Chris Saam, Daniel Ashworth, James F. Burke, A. S. Miller, John F. Cox. Fifth Avenue Opera house, Homestead; speakers, Dr. A. J. Barchfeld, John A. Reed, Charles A. O'Brien and John W. Moreland.

INSPECTED NEW ROADS.

Pennsylvania Traffic and Operating Officials Visit New Line in "The Klondike."

Much satisfaction is expressed by Pennsylvania railroad officials who spent the past two days in an inspection of the Monongahela railroad and the Pennsylvania lines, to which this joint road will deliver tonnage. The party was composed of both traffic and operating officials. In a special car they traveled over the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston on Monday, spent Monday night at Uniontown and then visited the new Monongahela railroad. Yesterday they went over the Southwest branch to Greensburg, made a trip over the Alexandria branch and then over the main line to South York. They spent last night at Creseon. Today they will go over the Cambria & Clearfield and the Pennsylvania & Northwestern, both Pennsylvania lines, and on Thursday will return to Philadelphia and other headquarters.

Those in the party were John B. Thayer, Jr., fifth vice president in charge of traffic; Edwin F. Bates, general freight agent; J. G. Searles, general coal freight agent; Michael Trump, general superintendent of transportation; R. M. Patterson, superintendent of freight transportation; A. C. Schand, engineer of maintenance of way; General Superintendent C. W. Creighton, General Agent H. A. Jaggard, Superintendent G. Monahan of the Monongahela division, Superintendent S. C. Long, Pittsburgh division; Assistant Superintendent R. T. Morrow, Jr., in charge of the Southwest branch; C. F. Perkins, coal freight agent of the lines west; S. L. Seymour, division freight agent P. R. R., Pittsburgh; G. D. Ogden, division freight agent B. & A. V., Pittsburgh.

GOOD CHOICE CAN BE HAD.

The afternoon season ticket subscription sale ends today. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday a fine choice of the three grades of afternoon seats will be offered direct from a plan of the hall.

Plans for the orchestra season were prepared months ago, and are the most extensive and undoubtedly will be the best in the history of the organization.

Child Teeth Taken Out.

The 2-year-old son of William S. Custer of Marguerite avenue, Wilmerding, had 12 teeth extracted by a Wilmerding dentist yesterday. The dentist said the case was a peculiar one, as he could not ascertain what caused the boy's teeth to decay. It is said he will be toothless for four or five years, when the second set will start to grow.

BARCLAY PLEADS FOR PEACE TREATY

Says United States and England Should Conclude One Without Delay.

HE PRAISES OUR STATESMEN

Member of Alfred Mosely Commission Says It Is Due to Americans That There Exists International Law—Bloodshed Should Be Relegated to History.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Oct. 27.—"It should be a matter of only a few months before there is a permanent treaty of peace concluded between the United States and England," said Sir Thomas Barclay. He was one of the commission which drafted the treaty between France and England. He is here with the Alfred Mosely commission. He said:

"If there is at this minute a real international law it is due to the intelligence and perseverance of United States statesmen. They approach the question without being fettered by any stock options of diplomacy. The European statesman is generally raised in a school and he is never face to face with the realities of international diplomacy. He sees them as through a camera. We have none in our country who can compare with Kent, Wheaton and Woolsey of Yale in international law.

"How are we to bring about a treaty? We can adopt The Hague tribunal as to minor questions. That has just been done between Great Britain and France. No nation has yet been found which is in favor of submitting questions of national honor to The Hague tribunal.

"What is proposed in the new treaty is not the millenium. Practical men want peace at any price, as Englishmen say. It is not thinking that the millenium has arrived to think that these two great nations can settle their differences without bloodshed.

"Time should not be lost in starting the agitation in favor of the treaty. I hope that the time will come before long when bloodshed between nations will be looked upon as we look upon dueling, as a matter of history.

"The Fashoda incident between England and France cost us $60,000,000 simply because we had no other alternative than war. Everybody who remembers that incident is in favor of peace.

"To nations ruled by democratic government war is hateful. They have nothing to gain and everything to lose by it."

OFFICIAL SUSPENDED.

Receiver of Public Money of Land Office Is Charged With Bribery.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Secretary Hitchcock, who has been ill with a cold, was at his desk today for the first time since the middle of last week. His first act was to order the suspension of Asa B. Thompson, receiver of public moneys at the public land office, at La Grande, Ore., who was indicted yesterday on the charge of bribery. "And there will be others," he said, "whenever similar circumstances are discovered in connection with them."

He also said that proceedings had been instituted against a Miss Ware, who is a commissioner of deeds and is charged with issuing certificates in 300 cases of fraudulent land entries.

TWO ITALIANS ARRESTED.

Secret Service Men Charge Monongahela Miners With Fraud.

Rosario Villella and Basilio Villella, two Italian miners from Monongahela, were arrested and lodged in jail yesterday while applying for citizenship papers in the United States commissioner's office in the government building. One was a witness for the other and used an assumed name.

Capt. Walsh of the secret service secured the information in advance that the men were about to present themselves and attempt to secure papers fraudulently. They will be given a hearing Monday.

Will Use Airships in Case of War.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—A French military commission today inspected Santos-Dumont's No. 10, dirigible balloon. This and other balloons are to be placed at the disposal of France in case of war.

CUT IT OUT.

Quit White Bread and Coffee and Get Well.

A tale that sounds like magic yet is but a simple evidence of what proper food can do in the place of improper food:

A lady of Quincy, Ill., says: "It seems impossible that I could have gone through what I did and be alive and well today. I was most of my life troubled with a weak stomach and severe headaches and as I grew older I slowly got worse. One physician treated me five years for dyspepsia without any help and I went to another physician who said I had a tumor and I believed him. I was unable to bear even the loosest clothing and could scarcely lift my head, finally becoming entirely bed-ridden.

"Then I changed to another doctor who said I had chronic catarrh of the stomach and advised a change of climate, telling me I would get well if I would winter in California. He might as well have advised a trip to the moon in my case. Then I tried a change of diet. It seemed I could not live on crackers and tea nor could I find anything else to agree with me and it began to look as though I was doomed to die. So I made up my mind to eat everything that I craved and determined to die happy at least in the thought of not starving to death.

"Now that I look back at it I don't see how it is possible for a human being to live through such misery as I did. Of course my stomach trouble grew worse and my head grew worse. I had all my hair cut off, but it did not help me and when one of my headaches was on I was really and truly crazy and did not even recognize my husband. The doctor would give me morphine tablets to stop my crying.

"Then a friend who knew what she was talking about advised me to give up white bread and tea and coffee and try the predigested food Grape-Nuts and Postum Coffee in place. I did so and I have had grand results. The improvement began immediately. I had fallen from 128 pounds to 92 pounds in my sickness and with my hair cut off and gray, too, I was a fright.

"In a few days after I started Grape-Nuts I could eat a little beef and crackers without the least discomfort, my face began to fill out and the awful distress in my stomach soon ceased. Then my headaches began to grow less frequent and the sick dizzy spells have gone from me altogether and I have reached and passed my former weight and am now comparatively well and strong. I am certainly happy and I never touch coffee now for I am certain that coffee and the white bread and biscuits caused all my trouble. As soon as my body got the proper food it did not take it long to put me right both in body and mind. All the credit is due to Grape-Nuts and Postum in place of white bread and coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

STORY OF INDEBTEDNESS TOLD BY PITTSBURGHER

Treasurer of Standard Car Co. Tells Southern Concern's Creditors of Big Notes Issued.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Oct. 27.—The creditors of the Southern Car and Foundry Company today continued their investigation in the United States court into the affairs of the concern. L. G. Woods of Pittsburgh, Pa., treasurer of the Standard Steel Car Company, testified that his company indorsed notes for the Southern Car and Foundry Company to the amount of $200,000 and advanced to the company $525,000 for which notes were taken. These were discounted and the Standard Steel Car Company has paid $150,000 of the amount and paid $125,000 more today. Of the whole amount $200,000 is outstanding and will soon fall due.

Mr. Woods states he negotiated these transactions before he became an officer of the Standard company. He was asked about a certain $500,000 transaction referred to by Mr. Brockway in his testimony at a former meeting and replied that he never heard of it until Mr. Brockway gave his testimony.

The notes for $200,000 were made payable to the Standard Steel Car Company and indorsed by that corporation, while the notes for $325,000 were made payable to the Industrial Security Company and indorsed by the Standard Steel Car Company. No individual names appeared upon them. As an outcome of these transactions the Standard Steel Car Company acquired a controlling interest in the stock of the Southern Car and Foundry Company, the amount being 51 per cent. Mr. Woods stated that he knows nothing about the Industrial Securities Company, nor the history of its organization.

The officers of the Southern Car and Foundry Company, especially Mr. Brockway, continually tried to get more money from the Standard company. Mr. Woods said, and stated several times that they would be driven to failure if they did not succeed. Witness, however, refused to advance any more money.

The Mellon National bank discounted the notes given by the Standard company, and the vice president of that bank, one of the Mellons, was largely interested in the Standard Steel Car Company. The creditors adjourned after instructing the receivers to bring suit against former President Elliott of the Southern Car and Foundry Company for all moneys he is alleged to have received by way of preference in violation of bankruptcy laws. An adjournment was taken until December 15 in order to allow testimony to be taken in New York.

President John R. O'Brien Says They Will All Be Unionized Within a Year.

John R. O'Brien, president of the Retail Clerks' Protective association, yesterday outlined his plan for organizing the clerks in this district. He claims that within one year every clerk that stands behind a counter will be affiliated with his organization. His plan, if successful, will give Pittsburgh the best retail clerks' organization in the country.

Several locals are to be organized. One local will contain drug clerks, another grocery clerks, another gent's furnishings, shoe clerks, furniture, meat, etc. When these separate locals are formed a district council will be instituted, to be made up of two delegates from each local.

The district council will settle disputes, ratify all wage agreements and conditions. It will employ a business agent to see that only union clerks are employed in the stores and to look after any other interest of the organization.

BILLS WERE BURNED UP.

Italian Family Loses Home and $4,000 in Good Money.

The two-story frame dwelling at Walnut and Fifth streets, Oakmont, owned by W. A. Diamond and occupied by the Italian family of John Mabetta, was destroyed by fire at 5 o'clock last night, and the family lost $4,000 in cash. After the fire, Mabetta said that he had that amount in bills in the house. Hale's store, next to the burned dwelling, was damaged by fire and water, and the loss at that place will be several hundred dollars.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Chief Executive Receives Many Remembrances on Passing 45th Milestone.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Today was President Roosevelt's 45th birthday, and he was the recipient of congratulations from many people. Letters and telegrams from all parts of the country brought messages of good wishes. Miss Alice Roosevelt, who is visiting in Chicago, sent her father a telegram, and the two boys, who are in school at Groton, Mass., Theodore, Jr., and Kermit, wrote to him. Col. Symons, superintendent of public buildings and grounds, sent a magnificent basket of chrysanthemums from the propagating gardens.

Every year upon the president's birthday the Hungarian Republican club of New York sends a delegation to pay its respects to Mr. Roosevelt, who is an honorary member of the organization. The delegation came today as usual, the committee consisting of Marcus Braun, William Blau, Anthony S. Ambrose, Max Grab, Dr. Andrew von Grlum, Thomas Rothman and Dr. Maurice Baumfeld.

Another caller to see the president was Thomas Dendis, the armless veteran of the navy who was a doorkeeper in the navy department when the president was assistant secretary of the navy. This was Dennis' birthday also, he was 52 years old. Dendis took a station in the navy in 1867. On board a United States vessel at Gibraltar in that year he was engaged in firing a salute to a fleet of Russian vessels. A premature discharge of a gun blew both his arms off near the shoulder and knocked him into the sea. He was rescued and his arms amputated. With improved arms he has gone through life since and his dexterity with his artificial limbs has always been surprising.

Edward Lee Harris of Pittsburgh was a caller at the White House today. Mr. Kearns was a member of Troop M, Rough Riders, and merely called to pay his respects to the president, who received him cordially. L. W. STRAYER.

MULTITUDES OF SINNERS MUST AWAIT LATER RESURRECTION

SAINTS OF THIS GOSPEL AGE WILL BE THE FIRST CALLED TO TASTE JOYS OF HEAVEN

Pastor C. T. Russell Argues in Favor of This Proposition, While the Rev. Dr. E. L. Eaton Opposes It.

LARGE AUDIENCE IS INTERESTED

Every seat was occupied and the overflow packed all the aisles and the open space at the entrance of the Allegheny Carnegie hall last evening when the discussion of the fourth proposition in the joint debate between the Rev. Dr. E. L. Eaton, pastor of the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, and Pastor C. T. Russell of the Bible House congregation opened.

The subject last evening was, "The Scriptures clearly teach that only the 'saints' of this gospel age will share in the 'first resurrection,' but that vast multitudes will be saved in and by the subsequent resurrection."

Pastor Russell had the affirmative in this discussion and, under the rules, opened with an address lasting 30 minutes. Dr. Eaton followed with an address of similar length, and then each was given 10 minutes for a reply to the arguments the other brought forward.

The Rev. John Jayne, pastor of the Observatory Hill Christian church, was chairman of last evening's meeting. Devotional exercises lasting 15 minutes preceded the opening at 8 o'clock.

The large audience was very attentive throughout the evening. The interest in the debate seems to grow with the discussion. The next discussion will take place tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock and the last one on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Congregational Singing a Feature.

The congregational singing has been a feature of the debates which appear to have been untried and enjoyed. Prof. H. Wallace of the Bible House congregation is the organist and L. F. Russell is the precentor.

Pastor Russell, in affirming the proposition for the evening's debate, said:

I feel, dear friends, that the topic of the resurrection of the dead is one of the most important doctrines in the word of God, a doctrine which, it seems to me, has not been granted its due place of importance in recent years, a doctrine, however, which we find is very prominent indeed in the word of God. From our standpoint, therefore, we feel that we understand the Scriptures to teach that the dead are really dead; that they are not alive in any sense of the word, except in the sense that our heavenly Father has promised a resurrection of the dead, predetermined a Redeemer to accomplish this matter through a redemption which would pay the ransom price for our Father Adam's sin, and thus restore to all his posterity who failed in him and who came under death conditions, an opportunity for return to life, as the apostle says: "By one man sin entered into the world, and death as the result of sin, and thus death passed upon all men."

In God's due time He sent forth His Son, that He might redeem us, that He might purchase us with His own precious blood. This promise upon the race was death, extinction; but in view of this intention on the part of our heavenly Father, death is always spoken of in the past, preceding our Lord's coming, as a sleep. The Lord expresses it thus to His people, and intimates in this way His intention of bringing back all mankind from death to touch, and all those who believed God expressed their confidence in the Almighty, in His promises, and in His power, when they passed into death, as falling asleep. We read you various tets of Scripture on a previous occasion, showing what this word "sleep" is generally applied throughout the Scriptures, not only to the dead also to the living, that they all are said to have fallen asleep: "They slept with their father."

The Penalty for Sin.

We would like to have you notice that the Scriptures teach that the penalty for sin is death of the soul: "The soul that sinneth it shall die." And so it was because the soul was under condemnation, that our Lord is said to have "poured out His soul unto death." We do not mean by soul any abstruse or obscure thing; we mean sentient being, that which the Scriptures everywhere represent the soul to be. The Scriptures represent that all souls are under sin, under the sentence of death. You are a soul, I am a soul; every other member of the human family is a soul; each one of us shares in Father Adam's sin and each soul of us is under condemnation of death. Who can redeem his soul from the power of the grave? Who can give to God a ransom for his brother or even himself? No one. So we are all helpless, except as the heavenly Father provides the great Redeemer, and the Redeemer pays the full price, and it was paid.

As it was your life and my life that was forfeited, your soul and my soul that was condemned, so our Lord Jesus poured out His soul unto death. "He made His soul an offering for sin." It was not merely our Lord's body, you see, but the Lord's soul; and so Peter, in speaking of our Lord's resurrection, does not speak merely of the resurrection of the body, but quoting the prophet David, declares: "His soul was not left in hades, neither did God suffer His Holy One to see corruption."

You will have to have you notice that the resurrection we preach, which the Scriptures teach, is the resurrection of the soul, the being. The coming again of those beings that now go down to death. To preach the resurrection of the body would imply, we think, an absurdity. If the Scriptures taught it we would be ready to accept even an absurdity, but the Scriptures do not teach it; the Scriptures do not teach that the same body which goes down is to be resurrected. Your body may be left return to the dust as it was, it will have no preference, and the atoms which compose your and my bodies are not necessary to our heavenly Father in restoring the individuality of being. There are plenty of atoms of matter, if he wished to create us again of the earth earthy, without using the ones which composed the body at death.

Awakening Not Resurrection.

Let me call your attention to the fact that our Lord Jesus was the first one to rise from the dead—the first one to experience resurrection. I know that we sometimes hear people speak of those as Elijah and Elisha who brought back to life again and refer to these as resurrections, but not so the Scriptures. We sometimes speak of the resurrection of Lazarus, or the son of the widow of Nain, or Jairus' daughter, but the Scriptures never do. They merely describe awakening. The word "resurrection" has in it something more than that. The Greek word rendered "resurrection" in the English is "anastasis," and anastasis signifies to bring up again. Lazarus was brought to life again; he was brought up to a measure of life; but the measure of life he had when he died was only a mere drop of life, as it were.

You remember how the Lord spoke of the condition in which all mankind is, when he said: "Let the dead bury their dead." All mankind under condemnation, under the sentence, and their condition of existence is not full life.

When the Lord called Lazarus forth from the tomb He did not call him from heaven, because he was not in heaven; and He did not call him up from some place of Paradise, because he did not go to Paradise. Lazarus was dead; or to use the illustration so frequently employed, he was asleep. Jesus said: I go that I may awake him out of sleep—a sleep that otherwise would have lasted until the dawn of the millennial day when the general resurrection would be due, but a sleep that was interrupted temporarily, and Lazarus came back to a measure of life such as he had previously. But he was still dead as far as he could be counted alive by faith in Jesus Christ.

Let me quote some of the Scriptures which prove that our Lord Jesus was the first to rise from the dead. If I establish that point, that our Lord was the first to rise from the dead, it proves what I contend for, that these others were not resurrections, but merely temporary awakenings.

Acts 26:23, "That Christ should suffer, and that He should be the first which should rise from the dead." 1 Cor. 15: 22, 23: "For as in Adam all die, even so all in Christ shall be made alive, every man in his own order: Christ the first fruits; afterward they that are Christ's at His coming." Col. 1:10: "He is the head of the body, the church, which is the beginning, the first born from the dead—that in all things He might have the pre-eminence." Heb. 6:19, 20: "Which hope we have as an anchor to the soul, both sure and stedfast, and which entereth into that within the vail, whither the forerunner is for us entered"—He is the forerunner, the first one to arrive, and we follow Him, but do not precede Him. Rev. 1:5: "And from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful witness, and the first-begotten from the dead."

Jesus First to Arise.

These Scriptures clearly establish the fact that our Lord was the first to rise from the dead; consequently these others were merely temporary awakenings.

Coming back to Lazarus, we remind you of the words of the Lord in His comfort to Martha and Mary, and I am sure His words have comforted many others since in sorrow. Jesus said, not Thy brother is in paradise, nor in heaven, what did He say? "Thy brother shall rise again." He points them to the real hope. Mary and Martha were well instructed in the matter, and they said, "We know that he shall rise again in the last day." Their hope was in the resurrection. Jesus assured them that He was the resurrection, that is to say, that resurrection power was in Him; He was the one Through whom the dead should have their life, and that they might have something in the present time. He proceeded to the awakening of Lazarus as an illustration of His power, to be exercised in full at His second advent. If Lazarus was at this time in paradise or heaven, or any good, desirable place, do you think the Lord would have brought him back again, and repented that He was conferring a favor upon Lazarus and the sisters? I tell you nay!

I remind you of the teaching of the apostles, that wherever they went their preaching was, as it is recorded in the Acts: "they went preaching Jesus and the resurrection." That was the hope—Jesus and His sacrifice, as the basis for all the hope for the future life. Without Jesus and the ransom sacrifice there could be no hope of a resurrection. The dead were all under the legal sentence; the Great Judge had sentenced Father Adam and all his posterity to death. They could not have life, could not be restored to life, until first of all a ransom had been paid, and therefore Jesus, as the great Redeemer, who gave Himself as the ransom for all, who died that we might live, came upon the scene. He suffered and died, and following this was His resurrection. The resurrection to mankind, as a result of this glorious work, will be the fulfilment of this great plan of God; the fulfilment will be the salvation.

Awaiting the Resurrection.

There is no salvation, as we pointed out on a previous occasion, in the present time, except by faith, and so the apostle says to you and me who believe, and in proportion as we believe, "We are saved in hope." You have a good hope toward God; you believe that Christ died for our sins; therefore hoping in Him as the Redeemer, you hope that there is future provision in favor of the world in general, to share in the resurrection which God has provided through Jesus. You have only the hope now. You are waiting for the resurrection, waiting for the time when salvation shall be brought unto you at the revelation of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ," as the apostle expresses it.

Mark the words of the apostle when he was on trial before some of his enemies; he said: "For the hope of the resurrection of the dead I am called in question"—it is because I believe in the resurrection of the dead that I am here a prisoner. At very many get into trouble now because they believe in the resurrection, because the doctrine has been crowded out by unscriptural ones to the effect that when a man dies he has got more alive than he ever was before. We see the great importance of the doctrine of the resurrection of the dead when we learn that the death of a man really dies is really dead. Again he says: "We have a hope toward that there shall be a resurrection, both of the just and the unjust." Acts xxiv. 15. A hope toward God! We see where there is a hope for the just, that they shall get a blessing through the resurrection; but where will there be one for the unjust? We will see when we come to it that the resurrection of the unjust is the great blessing that God has in store for mankind in general in the millennium.

We call your attention also to the Scriptures which speak of mankind as being prisoners in the great prison house, the tomb, waiting for Emmanuel, to take to Himself His great power and open the prison doors, as its himself applied the prophecy of Isaiah, saying, of Himself, "The spirit of the Lord God hath anointed me . . . to open the prison doors and set at liberty the prisoners, and them that are bound"—in the great spiritual age He would say to the prisoners of death, Show yourselves. (Isaiah xxxxii.:6-10.) This is a pictorial way of stating the resurrection of the dead.

Doctrine of the Resurrection.

Now we come to the one chapter in all the Bible which more than any other sets forth this doctrine of the resurrection, the 15th chapter of I. Corinthians. Begin at the 12th verse. "Now if Christ be preached that He was risen from the dead, how say some amongst you that there is no resurrection of the dead." I know of a good many who have been led to the conclusion that even in view of this doctrine of the resurrection, because they could see no reason nor use in it. Their argument is that resurrection would mean a return to mortal bodies, and therefore, they will not be glad to shuffle off this mortal coil, and shall we be glad to get it back again? But we answer that they are wrong in supposing that death had brought life more abundant to them. The resurrection is what will bring life, the life-giver is the Redeemer, who at His second advent will give life, as at the first advent He purchased the right to do so with His own precious blood.

"If Christ be not raised ye are yet in your sins." How much stress our Lord lays on this matter of the Lord's resurrection! If our Lord had not risen, if He had remained still the dead, we have no Savior. When He arose from the dead, that is the assurance that He is now able to deliver those that trust in Him and who wait for His time of deliverance.

"Then they which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." Perished! if they are gone to Paradise, or gone to heaven, could there be any question about perishing? They are in the tomb, and if Christ has not been raised, if He has not redeemed us and if He is not risen from the tomb, how could He ever possibly get the great deliverance which is to be carried out in due time, according to the Scriptures? So the apostle says, if Christ is not raised we are still in our sins; He has made no atonement acceptable to God, and additionally all who fell asleep trusting in Jesus are perished.

But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first-fruits of them that slept." You never have a first-fruits unless you expect after fruits, and just so surely as he declares that Christ is a first-fruits so surely there is to be the after fruitage, and our means the after resurrection. "For a man came death, and by a man came the resurrection of the dead." Adam brought the death penalty by disobedience under the divine law. The Lord brought the blessed opportunity of resurrection by His obedience, by giving His life a ransom for Father Adam, and thus purchasing the whole race of Adam, who were redeemed by the precious blood of Christ.

How Are the Dead Raised?

The apostle then discusses the matter of the body, and says, "Some men will say, How are the dead raised? With what body do they come. He is not speaking of how are bodies raised up, but "How are the dead raised up." He is speaking of the soul, the being, not speaking of the body; what kind of bodies will they have when they are resurrected, this answer is, "O foolish person, that which thou sowest is not quickened except it die." He is now applying this to nature; if you plant corn you do not expect to see the same grain of corn come up; but you will expect to find other grains of the same kind. In death you bury the human being; but you are not to expect the same body which you put down. The same body which goes into the grave will not come out, but the being, the entity, will be the same—God has promised it in his own power, and He will clothe it with a body in due time.

The apostle proceeds to note what God's good pleasure is concerning the various features of the resurrection. "All flesh is not the same flesh, but there is one flesh of fish, another of fish, another of beasts, and another of birds. There are bodies celestial and bodies terrestrial, but the glory of the celestial is one, and the glory of the terrestrial is another." Here we suggest that in God's plan there are two classes of beings which our dear brother mentioned the other evening as dichotomy and trichotomy? The dichotomy are those who have merely the animal nature, the trichotomy are those who have been begotten of the spirit "from above," and who therefore have the start of the new nature, and who, according to the apostle, are classed as new creatures in Christ. These new creatures are spiritual and spiritual promises apply to them and belong to them. But God has a special blessing also for the dichotomy; not a blessing with the church, for only those begotten of the spirit shall attain spiritual blessings; they will not share in the first resurrection, because in the latter only the kings and priests of this gospel age shall have any share (Rev. 20) but there is a glory of the terrestrial, earthly nature, which is to be attained by the natural man in the later resurrection. The apostle here wishes to show that two kinds of seed are sown, and two kinds of bodies as a result—God will give to each kind of seed his own kind of body; to the natural man will be the natural body, similar to the one he has now and to give new creature will be the spiritual body, the heavenly body, like unto Christ the glorious head.

SEND IN YOUR ARTICLE ON SYSTEM IN HOUSEKEEPING

You May Win One of The Gazette's $25 Cash Prizes

Competition Closes Next Saturday

The Pittsburgh Gazette

invites the contribution of articles not to exceed 300 words, describing with as much detail as possible the best system of household management, including the division of work, the schedule for the various days of the week, privileges accorded to help, etc.

MISTRESS AND MAID

The Gazette believes that the secret of a smooth-running household lies not so much in any special good fortune in securing unusually competent help, as in the capable direction of affairs by the mistress, a proper division and schedule of work for each day in the week, and in treating help with consideration.

In order to promote practical and thorough discussion, not of the "Servant Problem," but of the systematizing of housework and the administration of the "business" of keeping house,

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE

WILL GIVE CASH PRIZES, AS FOLLOWS:

For the best article on the Management of a House in which one maid is employed..... $25

For the best article on the Management of a House in which two or more maids are employed..... $25

Articles to be eligible for this competition must be received at The Gazette office not later than October 31.

The Articles Will Be Published Anonymously in the HOME JOURNAL SECTION OF THE SUNDAY GAZETTE

The result of the competition will be decided by vote of the readers of The Sunday Gazette by means of coupons, which will be printed in the Home Journal section.

Further details as to publication of the articles and award of prizes will be published later in this paper.

MAYOR W. B. HAYS IS TO BE RETRIED

Jury Failed to Agree in Suit Against City Executive for Violating Law.

ONE JUROR WAS STUBBORN

George E. Welsh on Trial for Misdemeanor—Prosecutrix Attempted Suicide—Sensational Case Involving a Number of Suits.

Mayor William B. Hays, who was charged with a misdemeanor in refusing to obey an act of assembly providing for the retention of old soldiers in office, unless misconduct or physical disability rendered them unfit to perform their duties, will have to be retried on the charge brought against him by Samuel Moore. The jury failed to agree, some alleging it stood 11 to 1 for conviction, and others claiming it was the other way. It is not probable that the case will be retried before election.

Jury Asks to Be Discharged.

When court convened yesterday morning a note was sent to Judge Shafer asking that the jurors be discharged, as they could not reach an agreement. One man was there to stay until Gabriel blew his trumpet unless his idea of the case prevailed, and the others saw it was useless to remain locked up. The jury was sent for and Judge Shafer stated he was sorry an agreement on the facts could not be reached, as the question of law involved was an important one and decides whether or not this law is constitutional.

The members had been up all night and were discharged until 10:30 to permit them to get breakfast. George E. Welsh, a Butler county farmer, was on trial charged with a misdemeanor by Mrs. Caroline Connell. The criminal procedure is the first to be heard in the courts of a sensational line of litigation that has been instituted against Welsh, and which resulted from the discovery of a letter by the woman's husband, which she had written, he is alleged, to be read after her death, as she contemplated killing Welsh and then committing suicide. Since the litigation began she attempted suicide, firing a bullet into her breast, and when she appeared in court yesterday to incriminate the man she charges with ruining her life, she bore the pallor of the hospital from which she had recently been discharged. Several times she faltered while giving her testimony and once when she was given a glass of water her hand trembled so violently against the rim that it was perceptible throughout the court room.

Divorce Suit Pending.

Mrs. Connell appeared as prosecutrix against Welsh, giving the case a peculiar aspect, as at present a libel for divorce is pending against her, in which Welsh is named as co-respondent.

Mrs. Connell testified to instances of intimacy between her and Welsh. She first met Welsh on his wedding day, 13 years ago, she said, and their relations continued until the death of his wife.

She said she had written the letter that revealed the matter to her husband last summer, because after she was dead, she believed it would mitigate the censure that would be accorded her. Eva Hicks, a sister of the prosecutrix, corroborated Mrs. Connell's testimony in part.

For the defense Welsh went on the stand in his own behalf and, while admitting he had known Mrs. Connell, she having been a resident of Butler county before moving to Allegheny, denied most emphatically having been intimate with her. The defense also called a number of character witnesses to prove Welsh's reputation. A number of his neighbors in Jackson township were among the character witnesses.

Testimony in Rebuttal.

The prosecution in rebuttal offered Eva Hicks' testimony and she said Welsh's reputation was not good. On cross-examination she said she left Butler county when 12 years old, but she added she had since testified there. The case will be resumed this morning.

In addition to the divorce proceedings Cornelius Connell, the woman's husband, entered a suit for damages against Welsh for the alleged loss of his wife's affections.

A. H. Jahn, charged with false pretenses by J. S. Lenhart, was found guilty. The prosecutor alleged that he bought a pool room and barber shop from Jahn situated in Vanceburgh, and that he was told the place was paying and free from debt. This he said was untrue.

STILL IN LITIGATION.

Four Cases Argued in Supreme Court Concerning Bank Closed Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Four cases concerning a bank that closed its doors 25 years ago were argued in the supreme court yesterday. The cases were J. T. Stockdale, trustee, vs. Michael Maginn et al., the First National bank of Pittsburgh, appellant, in which the bank excepts to an auditor's report and distribution of funds; J. T. Stockdale, trustee, vs. Michael Maginn et al., W. R. Hamilton, appellant, a similar action; J. T. Stockdale, trustee, vs. Michael Maginn et al., George W. Guthrie, trustee, appellant, an action to decide how the residue in the hands of the received should be distributed, and to settle the question of a reasonable fee for the auditor; J. T. Stockdale, trustee, vs. Michael Maginn et al., S. F. Murphy, administrator of G. W. Murphy, deceased, appellant, a similar action to recover the salary of G. W. Murphy, while acting as cashier during the period of liquidation.

The case of John Jacob vs. P. S. Weisser, appellants, a dispute as to the amount made by the contractor in erecting a house.

The appeal of Robert A. Lee, trustee, in the estate of A. J. Lee, deceased, raises a question of the construction of a trust. Under the will of A. J. Lee one-fifth of the residuary estate was devised to Robert A. Lee and Annie E. Blackmore. The income was to go to Mrs. Blackmore during life, with power in the trustees to pay her the principal as she might determine. Should her husband, Jacob Blackmore, die before she did, the trust was to cease; should he death precede his, any unexpended balance was to go to her children. On April 4, 1900, a decree divorcing Mrs. Blackmore was entered in common pleas court No. 1. Mrs. Blackmore then claimed that this put an end to the trust. The orphans' court found for her saying that the single purpose was to protect the testator's bounty from his daughter's husband and adding: "It is obviously immaterial whether the need of protection was ended by death or divorce." From this finding the appeal was taken.

Bolden to Be Tried.

William Bolden, colored, is to be tried in criminal court today for the murder of John Markoff at Bridgeville, for which crime "Bert" Saunders, also colored, is now under sentence of death.

LEGAL BRIEFS.

The Otis Elevator Company sued William Miller & Sons for $12,278.15 alleged to be due on a contract.

A decree in divorce has been made in the suit of Lydia Machesney against George Machesney on the grounds of desertion.

A demurrer to the defendant's answer was filed in the mandamus proceedings of C. L. McDonald, late, vs. Joseph Denniston against Treasurer A. L. Robinson of Allegheny.

John Bothorst has instituted equity proceedings against John Kohler and others to have the name "Casper Fogler" on a deed conveying certain property in Shaler township to the plaintiff changed to "Casper Vogel" in order to clear a cloud on the title.

Martin Payne of McKeesport Victim of Two Similar Accidents.

Martin Payne, of McKeesport, is threatened with total blindness as the result of two similar accidents. Payne worked in the National tube mills. Just six weeks ago he was struck in his right eye with a bit of red hot iron. The injured eye was treated for some time before it was discovered that the sight was totally destroyed. Payne returned to his work, but had been out but a few days when the sight of his left eye was almost ruined by another spark of iron. It is feared the sight will be destroyed.

U. S. GLASS CO. CAPITAL IS REDUCED $1,800,000

Stockholders Vote in Favor of Plan to Bring the Fixed Charges Down to $55,000.

Stockholders of the United States Glass Company yesterday voted in favor of a proposition to reduce the capital stock of the company from $5,000,000, authorized, to $3,200,000. Of the authorized capital, $1,000,000 is in 8 per cent cumulative preferred stock. In addition $800,000 of the common stock is retired. The common stock to be retired is already nearly all in the treasury of the company. Not all of the authorized preferred stock is outstanding. What there is of this stock is retired by the issuance of 20-year 5 per cent bonds at the rate of $110 in bonds for $100 of preferred stock.

In addition to this the plan provides for the payment to the holders of the bonds the seven unpaid dividends on the preferred stock. Two per cent in cash is paid at the transfer. To the $500,000 bonds issued are attached 18 coupons entitling the holder to 3 per cent semi-annually for nine years, in addition to 5 per cent absorbed on the bonds proper. The fixed charges on this account will, therefore, be reduced to $55,000, and it is believed that the company will be able to meet these charges without difficulty. It is said that the outlook for the coming year is the brightest of any since the company was formed.

FREE TO EVERYONE.

Read and Learn How You May Procure It.

The question of why one man succeeds and another fails, is a problem that has puzzled philosophers for centuries. One man attains riches and position, while his neighbor who started with seemingly the same, and better opportunities, exists in poverty and obscurity. No man can win success who is suffering from an irritating and nerve racking disease and the man who has the qualities of success within him, would be quick to recognize this fact and seize the best remedy to eradicate the trouble.

A person afflicted with a serious case of hemorrhoids or piles is handicapped in the race for power and advancement. It is impossible to concentrate the mental energies when this dreadful trouble is sapping the vital forces. To show how easily this success destroying trouble can be overcome, we publish the following letter from a prominent Indiana man:

"When I received the former letter and booklet on Piles, their nature, cause and cure, I was in a critical condition. Ulcers to the number of seven had formed on the inside of the rectum culminating in a large tumor on the outside resembling listula. I suffered the most excruciating pain, could get no rest day or night. After reading the booklet I wrote to my druggist what happened to be out of Pyramid Pile Cure just at that time. However, I obtained a part of a box from my brother-in-law and began their use. Five pyramids completely cured me. I procured a box later, but have had occasion to use them. I have been waiting to see that the cure was permanent, before writing you of its success. I believe Pyramid Pile Cure to be the greatest and best pile cure on the market, and ask you to please accept of my grateful thanks for this invaluable remedy. I take great pleasure in recommending its use to any sufferer along this line. You may use my name if you wish for reference to any one afflicted with this disease." J. O. Littell, Arthur, Ind.

You can obtain a free sample of this wonderful remedy, also the booklet described above by writing your name and address plainly on a postal card and mailing it to the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich.

BETTER TONE LOCALLY AND MIXED IN NEW YORK

Crucible Steel, Pittsburgh Coal and Westinghouse Electric Strong Features—Selling Movement Started in East Checks Bulls.

Strength was the feature of all stock markets at the opening yesterday. London helped to start the movement, being above parity on Americans when the New ork exchange opened and began helping the upward tend. Pittsburgh came into the concert particularly strong and was disposed to lead the advance. Rumors affecting a St. Louis trust company created a scare toward the middle of the day, and though positive denials were forthcoming there was more than an hour of decided weakness in New York, with strong selling said to be for Chicago account. This was followed by another rally and that in turn by a decline, the average closing on the New York list being only fractionally above or even with the close of Monday. Pittsburgh stocks closed with decided gains and a bullish feeling on the part of the crowd. In fact Pittsburgh was buoyant on account of the lifting of a weight of apprehension that has hung over it for a week.

There was more trading in New York than some days, the morning market becoming animated at times. Amalgamated copper responded to further lifting and the leaders of the various railroad groups showed good vitality, including Pennsylvania, Union and Southern Pacific and others. Some of the smaller issues made more decisive advances, notably Evansville & Terre Haute which gained 5¼ points and American Express 5. Pan Handle was advanced 2¾ and Railway Spring the same amount. Copper, however, closed barely above the opening, and nearly a point below the close on Monday. Pennsylvania closed lower, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific fractionally higher. Throughout the list the opening was above the previous evening's close in the most instances the close was at fractional gains over Monday. There were exceptions in which the changes were the other way. Lackawanna and Delaware & Hudson made net gains of 1⅜ and 1⅜ respectively and Republic Iron and Steel preferred closed a round point above Monday's last price.

United States Steel common closed at 13⅞ as compared with 14 the day before, but sold as high as 14½. The preferred closed at 53¼ a net gain of ½ and an even point below the highest price of the day.

The New York market is considered almost wholly professional, the room traders bulling and bearing it alternately upon rumors and reports as they fly. There is not enough floating stock to make any deep impression and not enough force to the demand to prevent prompt recession when the realizing of bull profits begins, or when an ugly rumor comes along.

On the Pittsburgh board the tone was strong at the opening and the market would have gone higher but for the change in New York. There was a better feeling apparent even to the most casual observer and this is likely to continue. At the same time it should surprise no one if advancing figures should bring out a pretty good line of stock. There is bound to be realizing of profits on advances, but the market appears to be broadening so it may be able to take care of all offerings. It is one of the vagaries of human nature to buy on an advancing market, though this is modified soon after great declines by the desire to get the goods at the lowest record quotations. Thus brokers now have many orders to buy "if the stock goes again to—," the figures named being pretty nearly the lowest known. If prices should recede to the low record levels, however, a large portion of those orders would be withdrawn.

Pittsburgh Coal common was dealt in moderately at advanced prices ranging up to 20½ and closing with a sale of 100 shares at 20. The preferred was much more active selling at 64½ in the early hours declining to 63½ and closing with a sale of 100 shares at 63⅝. The closing bid on the common was 20⅜ and on the preferred 63½ with more offered below 64⅛.

Crucible Steel was remarkable strong. The common rulled at 4½, with one lot of 5 shares sold at 4¾. The preferred was more active, starting at 81, selling up to 83 and reacting to 82½ with sales at that price and 83. The stock held firm in the face of the decline in the New York market and in the gossip is better thought of than when official statements were issued. The soreness is not all gone, but investors and holders have had time to analyze the conditions represented and are more disposed to concede that the annual meeting turned the worst side out for public inspection.

Westinghouse Electrics, seconds preferred, came next to Coal and Crucible in the trading and made the high mark of recent trading at 70. For weeks we have been having "new low records" in stocks. It will be sometime before we have any actual high records again, but it is only fair to wipe off the slate and begin a series of "new high" levels if the course of the market will permit. In Westinghouse Electric it did so yesterday. The New York market was high on this stock, but Pittsburgh prices were higher for the second time within a week. Evidently there are persons here who have faith in Westinghouse Electric earnings despite depressed conditions and are backing their judgment in that direction. The close showed the New York influence, however, being at 68¾.

Locally the opinion has become general that the markets have touched bottom and reacted. For the remainder it is a matter of individual judgment as to the extent of the reaction, or its rapidity. The market will not go steadily in one direction, of course, for at such times profit-taking is attempted frequently. The best news locally is that banks and brokers alike have recovered their nerves and that there is no longer apprehension of further evil consequences from the severe liquidation. That should make for gradual improvement in values, providing, of course, for inevitable reactionary fluctuation.

Foreign Money Market.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Money, 2½@3 per cent. The rate of discount for short bills is 2⅝@3⅛ per cent. The rate of discount for three months' bills is 3 11-16@3⅝ per cent. Consols for money, 88⅝; consols for account, 88⅝. Money is quite wanted in the market today. Discounts were firm. Business on the stock exchange was more cheerful, owing to the favorable eastern news.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—Stocks in most departments on the bourse today were weaker. Government securities were dull.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The news received here regarding the Russo-Japanese negotiations, indicating an amicable solution of the crisis, caused a strong tone on the bourse today. Rio Tintos at first were firm, but during the afternoon they lost 1 franc.

Guardian Trust Has Good First Day.

The Guardian Trust Company of Pittsburgh opened its doors for business yesterday morning at No. 411 Wood street. Its officers express themselves as being very much pleased with the results of its day's work. It will clear through the Third National bank.

FEATURES OF THE DAY

IN PITTSBURGH.

Total sales on the stock exchange were 7,382 shares.

Bank exchanges were $7,328,932.39, a decrease of $847,006.44.

Market opened strong and ruled higher during the day.

Pittsburgh Coal and Crucible issues gave impetus to the trading by their advances.

Local market led New York market by a slight margin in the rise.

IN WALL STREET.

Total sales 721,500 shares of stock.

There was a good absorption of bonds. Total sales $4,716,000, par value.

Yesterday saw wide movement in special stocks, notably a rise of 19¼ in Evansville & Terre Haute.

Another feature in specials was a drop of 14 points in Keokuk & Des Moines, which remains unexplained.

Amalgamated Copper closed at a net loss of nearly a point.

The day's outgo of currency was a factor of reaction in the market.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is reported that Denver Southwestern cannot pay the December coupon on its general 5s and that it will reorganize.

A 5 per cent dividend is expected on American Refiners and Smelters early in December.

New York has been busy casting up figures and concludes there are now more than 100,000 stockholders in United States Steel. This is a pretty wide diffusion of securities and it seems right to satisfy even Judge Grosscup of Chicago that the "peoplemising" of wealth may be accomplished in corporate forms.

The annual report of "Frisco" shows earnings equal to 7 per cent on the common stock.

There has been lately some discussion of the possible effect of the increase in the oil market duty, or shall have upon the stocks of oil and gas companies that are largely held here. The most prominent of these are the Philadelphia Company, Manufacturers Light and Heat, Pittsburgh Gas and Ohio Fuel. All of these have some oil production, though in great part the oil strikes of the gas companies are promptly conveyed to the big oil producing companies. It is noted that Standard Oil stock has advanced smartly and many think the companies named and others of interest to Pittsburgh should show a similar tendency.

Making calculations, however, the fact should not be overlooked that in addition to about one-half of the production of the country, the Standard Oil owns practically all of the subsidiary pipe lines gathering the oil. Further, if the other companies have large or increasing production they should be worth more. If they have declining production in sympathy with the general fall, the advance in value should neutralize the loss in quantity. Moreover, in figuring on the prospective "oil famine," so much discussed, it is well to remember the production of the upper fields is of low grade and seven-eighths of one barrel or less —and that it does not decrease rapidly, especially not on an advancing market while nitroglycerin is cheap.

Of the stocks which figured in the dealings on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday two closed unchanged from the close of the preceding day. One stock, Brewing common, was advanced seven points, and one, Fire Brick Airbrake, of which 205 shares were sold at 131 and 131½, was marked as closing 2 points lower. The fact is that the stock was from a point to a point and a half higher, the mark of 131 having been made for a single share transaction on the day before, the trading being in considerable lots, then at 130. All the other stocks were higher at the close by from a fraction to 3 points. The advances were made early in the day and were generally well held, although the close was not at the high points.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

Superintendent Henley at the Valley mine is arranging for another shipment to the United States Zinc Company at Canon City, Colo. A shipment of 70 tons was made some days ago, and this second shipment shows that Mr. Henley is pushing work ahead as rapidly as possible. He is drifting on the ore and is also upraising in the workings above the 350-foot level, says the Leadville Herald-Democrat.

Although the much talked of gold fever that active developments were inaugurated by the purchasers of the Keystone group of mines at Cripple Creek, Manager Peter Porter, says he will have a carload of ore at the furnace for the American Smelting and Refining Company by November 1. Of the new strike in the tunnel Mr. Porter says that four feet of ore 400 feet in width is an average of 3 per cent copper, 26 ounces silver and 19 per cent lead.

One of the most important strikes yet made in the La Sal country, Utah, was made last week in the Mineral Mountain tunnel. At a depth of 310 feet a five-foot vein of brown oxidized quartz was opened up that has the appearance of being just what the property owners of Mineral mountain have been wanting to see discovered for a long time.

Controls on the output of the Daly West of Park City during the past month says President Bamberger, show a clear gain during that period of 10 ounces silver, or as much as $8 a ton, this one the crude ore or first class that goes unhandled to the furnaces, and of which the company is producing nearly 5,000 tons a month.

As the ores of ore-bearing channels that have characterized the campaign of development at the Horn Silver, Utah, was opened up last week added the tenth—each of the astonishing cluster distinct from the other. What the dimensions of this latest channel in the Stockton proposition are has not been determined, but it presents all the general characteristics of those that have preceded, while the ores thus far are identical with those in the neighboring channels.

The Metal Market.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—There was a sharp break in the London tin market, spot losing £1 and closing at £117 10s, while futures declined £1 2s 6d to £117 17s 6d. Locally, tin was very easier in tone, but unchanged at $28.25@28.50. Copper unaltered. Pittsburg of about 10a in the English market, spot closing at 159 and futures at £63 12s 6d, but remained steady here, though business was not active. Lake is quoted at $13 00@13 25 nominal at $13.75 and casting at $13.50. Lead was 2s 6d higher at £11 6s 2½ in London, but was unchanged here at $4.50. Spelter was steady at £25 12½, in the local market also was unchanged at £20 15s in London. Iron closed at 49s in Glasgow and at 48s in Middlesboro. Locally, iron was quiet; No. 1 foundry nothern is quoted at $16 00@16 50; No. 2 foundry northern at $15 00@15 50; No. 1 foundry southern and No. 1 foundry southern, soft, at $14 75@15 25.

PROFESSIONALS CREATE ACTIVE STOCK MARKET

Reaction Follows Sharp Advance and Active Issues Close at Bottom.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Oct. 28.

The Herald this (Wednesday) morning says: The stock market was highly irregular yesterday, reacting sharply in the late trading, after a strong opening and violent forenoon advance. Some portion of the improvement throughout the general list was retained to the last, but for the most part active stocks suffered an extensive check, running off from 1 to 2 points, and in instances closing for slight net declines. The market was unsettled and heavy in the final dealing. The business throughout the day was of a highly professional character, bold on the recovery and reaction, but the increased total dealings and the rather wider distribution of operations, was taken by many as an indication that a speculative following was work into the market.

The absence of selling orders made possible the sharp, easy advances and really created the market in which traders sold later on. The influence exerted by the St. Louis rumor was a matter of dispute among professionals, some of them pointing out that the market had developed a pronounced reactionary tendency before the rumors became current. However, force was lent to reported troubles by the confidence of heavy currency shipments of $1,150,000 to the interior, of which $800,000 was transferred to St. Louis.

The first day after London settlement passed without developing anything of an adverse nature abroad, and this, together with more satisfactory reports of the Russian-Japanese situation, encouraged the foreign markets. The settlement disclosed a short account in Americans and influence foreign buying to the extent of about 20,000 shares.

PITTSBURGHER HELPS.

Sends Contribution to New York Fusion Cause Together With a Letter.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(Special.)—The Evening Post has received a check of $10 from "Pittsburgher" for the fusion cause. He writes:

In such a brave fight for decent, honest, non-partisan government as your Citizens union is now making, it is a pity that its efforts should be crippled for the want of a few dollars. Some 30 years ago I heard Wendell Phillips say in New York that the government of large cities was the problem of the day to solve. The reports of graft and inefficiency which came from nearly every large city in the country, show how alarmingly serious that problem has become today.

The fight for honest, non-partisan government in New York is a great moral lesson for all the cities in the country, if successful, it will be a great stimulus for reform in every city. We are watching your contest with prayerful solicitude.

When the avelon arrives here on the present trip from Memphis, she will be hauled out on the ways for repairs. The Douglass Hall came down from Point Pleasant today as far as Manchester where she took charge of the tow of empties which were left there by the Florence Marmet. LOW WATER GIVES TROUBLE.

Packets Will Probably Suspend Operations in the Upper Ohio River.

The present outlook on the rivers is for a suspension of operations, even for the lightest packets. The water was about stationary yesterday and there are no immediate prospects of a raise. The Kanawha left yesterday noon so as to be able to get beyond the trap before dark. The Greenwood is coming up the Ohio and will make her way as near Pittsburgh as possible, but she will not be able to reach the harbor. Samuel Patterson, agent for several down-river packet lines, said yesterday that there would probably be no more packets for some time.

The Monongahela river packets, after a tieup of one day, will resume operations at schedule time this afternoon. It is expected that the repairs to Lock No. 3 will be completed by noon today. The Edgar Cherry of this line was taken off the Elizabeth marine ways last evening. She has been overhauled and is once more in excellent condition. The Cherry is one of the fastest packets coming into Pittsburgh.

News of the Rivers.

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 3.5 feet and the river was stationary.

Capt. Joe Price of the Fred Wilson arrived home yesterday after tying up his boat at Manchester. Capt. J. C. Wood, pilot of the Ed. Roberts, also arrived home.

Capt. Robert Demaine, commander of the Columbia, is one of the oldest pilots on the Monongahela river. Capt. Demaine made his first trip as a pilot in 1860, and has followed the business ever since.

A number of pilots will leave the foot of Wood street this morning to make an inspection of the river between here and Rochester. They will go on the little Gazette, under command of Capt. Billy Blackstock.

Work has been started to raise the Florence Marmet, which sank at her landing last week for Cincinnati. A bulkhead is being built about the hooker's place in the steamer and it will require about 10 days more to raise her.

Bids were opened in the United States engineer's office yesterday for the erection of a lock keeper's residence at Lock No. 3 in the Allegheny river. The lowest bidder was the New Kensington Lumber Company of New Kensington.

B. & O. Issues a Map Giving Valuable Information to Officials

Pittsburgh officials of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad have issued a map which contains more data than any map ever issued by a railroad. It is about five feet square and shows every point of interest on the Baltimore & Ohio system. The map shows every mile of line, gives the name of the stations, the population of the town, the name of every coal mine and the company operating it, the locations and number of coke ovens, the name of the company and the number of men employed. All bridges, culverts, tunnels and cutthroughs are also given, together with the grade of the line.

A map is to be placed in all the important offices of the company. At a glance the officials will be able to locate any coal mine or coke works, industrial establishment, with the number of sidings and switches running into the works. The officials in the Pittsburgh office have been working on the map for over two years. The blue prints originally drawn have been revised several times in order to get more data on the map, until now it is as complete as is possible to make it.

Motive Power Scarce.

A report has just been compiled which shows that the railroads have plenty of cars, but not of motive power. Nearly nine-tenths of the railroad equipment is loaded and 60 per cent is awaiting shipment. This condition of affairs, happening just before the holidays, indicate that a congestion is inevitable. There is a shortage of cars in some places, particularly in coal cars, side tracks being full of loaded cars, consignees not having facilities to handle their consignments. During the week the Columbus division of the Pennsylvania handled 2,145 cars and the Cleveland division of the Big Four handled 2,980. The total number of cars handled by roads which lead into Pittsburgh is 29,827.

Meeting of Passenger Official.

B. N. Austin, general passenger agent of the B. & O. E. W., passed through the city yesterday. He goes to New York to attend a meeting of the joint passenger committee. The principal subject under consideration is the matter of division with the Chicago-St. Paul roads on the cut rates that the latter made last summer.

The C. H. & D. has made application for membership, and at today's meeting the admission of the road will be decided upon. The joint passenger committee is made up principally of lines running from New York to Chicago and St. Louis. Small lines are not admitted unless they are a part of a New York-Chicago line. Mr. Austin said that the passenger business so far this season was equal to that of last, and on some parts of the system greater. He predicts a heavy traffic next year on account of the St. Louis fair.

Inspection Ends Today.

The annual inspection of the Pennsylvania railroad under the supervision of General Manager W. W. Atterbury will be ended today. Yesterday was spent inspecting the Southwest branch. All the damage done to the road during the flood was viewed with great interest. Today the officials, with the exception of Mr. Atterbury and Superintendent S. C. Long, will inspect the Portage cut-off.

Left for Convention.

A number of railroad officials left yesterday for Richmond, Va., to attend the annual meeting of the American Railway association. Among them were W. W. Atterbury, general manager, and S. C. Long, superintendent of the P. R. R. They were in the inspection party, but left last night for the convention.

Railroad Notes.

George M. Schryver, assistant to President L. F. Loree of the B. & O., spent yesterday in Pittsburgh.

Colonel J. M. Schoonmaker, vice president and general manager of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, is expected home in a few days from a southern trip.

It was announced in the general offices of the Pennsylvania lines yesterday that the bridge crossing the Monongahela river would be completed by December 1.

Plans are being drawn up in the engineering department of the Pennsylvania lines for widening a number of bridges along the main line between Crestline and Toledo.

It has been announced that the Pennsylvania lines will order 35 passenger, baggage and mail cars for delivery next year. They will be completed in time to be used in the world's fair travel.

The annual report of the relief department of the Pennsylvania lines for the year ending June has just been issued. It shows that there are 26,250 members. The average number disabled per day was 97.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 5 points and in spite of rather unsatisfactory cables ruled very firm during a good part of the session, with prices at one time showing a net gain of 5@10 points on active support by bullish interests, who promptly absorbed all offerings. Buying was encouraged by the continued small Santos receipts and expectations of further crop damage reports, but toward the close realizing became heavier and there was a disposition on the part of the room contingent to go for the reaction after the recent gains. This eased the market off and the close was weak net 5 to 15

CONOMY LAND TO BE MARKETED

S Acres of Economite Holdings Will Be Sold About November 15.

00 HOUSES INCLUDED IN SALE

ecent Example of Loss by Holding Really at Fancy Figures—Good Building Contracts Being Figured—Twenty-fifth Ward House Brings $11,000.

Old Economy, the famous little town down the Ohio river, is to be parceled off at public sale about November 15. The decision to put the acres of the Economite holdings on the market this fall was reached this week by the Liberty Land Company, which bought the entire tract of 5,000 acres last spring. The public sale will be conducted by the Real Estate Trust Company, which has had charge of the property since the change of ownership, and without doubt it will be the most interesting event of its kind ever held around Pittsburgh. From a historic standpoint the final disposal of the 600 or more lots in the plan to be marketed will be of much more than ordinary interest, and to home seekers it will mean an opportunity to get many improved properties as well as fine residence sites near the great works of the American Bridge Company at Ambridge and close to the string of industrial plants which are being located a little farther down the river.

200 Houses Included in Sale.

The property to be sold includes about half of the village of Economy and that part of the Economite possessions known as French Point, lying between the Ohio river and the new industrial district which the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railroad will shortly build to accommodate new plants. There are nearly 200 houses on the plot. Some of these are frame dwellings, but most are brick houses of six rooms, built after the German style with a view to their lasting for a century. Many of the houses were built over 40 years ago, and have been the homes of Economites for a generation. Others are modern dwellings and were built shortly before the Liberty Land Company bought the property. The improved properties are worth on an average from $2,500 to $5,000 each. The French Point property is covered with orchard, and comprises the most beautiful home sites in the district. It is reached by a street car line from $20 to $30 a foot, lots on the business streets being held at the latter figure. At present every house to be sold is rented to its fullest capacity, and the

DOCTORS DISCUSS HEALTH MEASURES

Conference of Experts on Sanitation Is Being Held at Washington.

PRECAUTIONS ARE IGNORED

Public Officials and Railroads Charged With Carelessness Which Results in Spreading of Disease—Tuberculosis Kills 150,000 Persons Every Year.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The first regular session of the 31st annual meeting of the American Public Health association was held here today, prominent bacteriologists and students of sanitation from the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba being present. Gen. George M. Sternberg, surgeon general, U. S. A., retired, spoke of the efforts to stamp out disease and to guard against epidemics. The great prosperity of some of the southern states during recent years, he said, had been due to their protection from yellow fever, which formerly operated as a serious barrier to commercial progress.

He digressed from his paper to remark that since it was written the present attack of yellow fever in Texas had developed, and declared he would not have believed it possible with the association's knowledge that yellow fever would have been allowed to obtain a foothold there.

"Somebody is responsible," he said. "Although cholera, yellow fever and bubonic plague," he continued, "are no longer feared by the sanitarians, we have not yet conquered our endemic filth disease, typhoid fever, and tuberculosis still claims 150,000 victims annually in the United States. Until these and other widely prevalent infectious diseases are practically stamped out," he said, "our self-imposed task will not be complete."

Tuberculosis Infection.

The report of the committee on animal diseases and food, having reference to the phase of tuberculosis which relates to its transmission from the animal to human beings, was presented by Dr. D. E. Salmon of the bureau of animal industry. Clinical evidence, statistics and experimental tests, he declared, all favor the conclusion that bovine tuberculosis was a factor in human tuberculosis. The source of the milk supply, he urged, should be carefully attended to. It will require much work, he continued, to decide with even approximate accuracy the proportion of human tuberculosis caused by animal infection, but the fact that 25 per cent of the cases in children investigated by the German commission and 50 per cent of similar cases investigated by Dr. Schweinitz of Washington, showed animal infection, is sufficient to prove the necessity for measures to guard against infection through milk.

Dr. Juan Guiteras of Havana, the yellow fever expert, said that although in typhoid the infantile form is due to bad milk, he believed the infantile tuberculosis in Cuban children is as frequent as anywhere else.

Transportation Question.

The committee on car sanitation reported, through Dr. J. H. Hurty of Indianapolis. There is unanimity of opinion, he said, regarding the transportation by common carrier of persons sick with smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, leprosy, yellow fever and typhoid fever. Leprosy, he declared, is not as easily transmitted as tuberculosis and, compared to the latter in its destructiveness of human life, it amounts to nothing at all. Yet, he said, a riot would follow the introduction of a leper into a railway car.

Doctors Juan Brena of Mexico and Granville P. Conn of Concord, N. H., urged the adoption of measures controlling the proper building, ventilating and cleaning of sewers.

The consensus of opinion was that the air in sleeping cars becomes vitiated and that they are fruitful sources of disease. The delegates were outspoken in condemnation of the alleged lack of attention to the matter of cleaning blankets and furnishings in sleeping cars. Dr. J. H. McCormick of the state board of health of Kentucky, declared that blankets were cleaned only once every six months. The C. E. Dudley of Altoona, Pa., chemist for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, demanded the delegates furnish him with the data on which they based their statements.

Willing to Adopt Health Measures.

It was not fair, he said, to require railroads to spend large sums of money in this direction until they knew where they stood. The cleaning of cars in transit he characterized as one of the most annoying things railroads have to contend with. In addition, he said that his company had tried various schemes for sterilizing the drinking water in cars and had resorted to the expedient of formaldehyde for disinfecting them. He assured the delegates that the railroads are ready to take hold of the matter and utilize any practical system that will contribute to the general public health.

The feature of tonight's session was the annual address of President Wyman, surgeon general of the United States public health and marine hospital service. Dr. Wyman said in part:

"I believe that the sanitary condition of our cities presents a condition parallel to that of the political corruption. Municipal betterment would proceed faster if too much at one time is not attempted. By seizing upon one highly important element of municipal reform and for the time being concentrating all energies upon it good citizens would achieve success."

Moral reform, Dr. Wyman thought, would more easily follow better sanitation. Large cities here and abroad, he said, have shown the effect on health and commercial prosperity of purely sanitary measures. Dr. Wyman spoke of the growth in number and power of the state boards of health, but added that many of our states are backward in sanitary legislation.

Dr. Wyman expressed the opinion that popular interest in sanitary reform might be enlisted through the agency of labor unions, which already have manifested interest in sanitation and are nearer to the great voting public than any other organized bodies in cities. "To awaken the interest of the poor in measures for their own betterment," he said, "is preferable to seeking the aid of philanthropic millionaires."

WOMEN TO JOIN UNION.

Branch of the International Union Label League to Be Originated Here.

Mrs. Julia F. Llewellyn, president of the Women's International Union Label league, is expected in Pittsburgh in a few days to form a branch of that organization. The organizers of the American Federation of Labor have been working to have a local union formed in Pittsburgh and they have succeeded in getting over 100 signatures to a petition to have the president visit Pittsburgh and institute the local.

The annual convention of the league was held in Rochester, N. Y., on Tuesday, October 13, and glowing reports were made by the delegates. The membership of the league is made up of the wives and daughters of union men. No woman is admitted unless her husband carries a union card. The object of the league is to insist that all goods manufactured bear the union label and sold by union clerks.

The league expects to compel all dealers to handle only union-made goods, bearing labels, and to recognize union workmen throughout.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Dr. W. H. Tolman, who has recently returned from abroad, where he made a close study of the plans for the improvement of Dunfermline, Andrew Carnegie's birthplace, talked today with The Gazette correspondent about the place. After a description of Dunfermline and its surroundings, Dr. Tolman said:

"Almost within a stone's throw of Pittenscrief glen stands a tiny cottage. You could hardly imagine anything more humble, with its one upper room serving as bedroom and living room. It was in this house that Andrew Carnegie was born. He, with the playmates of his childhood, never had more than a peep into the glen, and it was while gazing longingly through the bars of the entrance gate that was always locked that his boyish soul filled with indignation at being shut out of this paradise. It was then that the ever-recurring thought became a fixed determination that if he ever became a man with money he would buy that glen. In August of this year he gave the glen, with an additional gift of $2,500,000, to the people of his native town."

Dr. Tolman then told of the royal palace that overlooks the glen; how, as early as 1304, the original palace and monastery were wrecked by the storms of war; how the palace was rebuilt later and became the residence of Bruce.

"This same palace," he said, "saw the birth of David II., was the residence of Robert III., and the birthplace of James I. At this period Dunfermline seems to have been the storm center for royalty, who were finally compelled to make Edinburgh the general residence of the Scottish kings. Later the city grew in royal favor, and it was in this palace that Charles I. was born. Although the history, the legend, the romance of his native town was always strong upon Mr. Carnegie, it was the people, especially the working people, to whom his mind always turned. That he has always cherished tender memories of them is evidenced by his many beneficiations—a library, a splendidly-equipped building for manual and technical training, a public bath and a gymnasium. The new social trust has been placed in the hands of 25 trustees, among whom are bankers, miners, lawyers, manufacturers, a clergyman and a miners' secretary."

J. O. BROWN INQUEST POSTPONED UNTIL TODAY

Once More an Attorney's Absence Causes Delay in Long Drawn-Out Hearings.

The expected ending of the inquest into the death of Joseph O. Brown, former city recorder, did not come yesterday. The inquest was set for 10 a. m., but was again adjourned, making the eleventh time that it has been postponed from the various dates set for it. At times the hearing was postponed on account of the absence of witnesses, again because attorneys concerned in the case could not be on hand, and yesterday it was again adjourned because J. Scott Ferguson, the attorney representing some of the relatives of Joseph O. Brown, was busy in the supreme court.

At 10 a. m. Miss Nattie and Miss Susan McLean, at whose mother's house Joseph O. Brown died, took seats in the rear of the court room in the morgue, and while they were waiting James R. P. Brown, the dead man's brother, and Coroner McGeary were in an inner room. Presently Deputy Coroner Huchel left the morgue and returned in 10 minutes, then Coroner McGeary went away himself. Presently the coroner returned and announced that the inquest would be postponed until 2 p. m. today.

The coroner explained afterward that Attorney J. Scott Ferguson, who with Attorney T. C. Campbell of New York and Cincinnati, has been appearing at the inquest hearings, representing James R. P. Brown, was busy in the supreme court room and could not be present. Mr. Campbell is sick in New York, and as his physicians have ordered him south, he will probably not appear in the case again.

The inquest was begun on April 25, and has dragged along ever since. Whether today's session will be the last is not known, as neither the coroner nor Mr. Brown would say, when questioned.

The methods followed in this inquest have developed a new mode of procedure. Formerly, when attorneys appeared at inquests tending to show suicide or murder, any questions they desired to ask had to be written and submitted to the coroner, who thereupon asked the question of witnesses himself. For the first time in coroners procedure in this county attorneys in the Brown inquest have been allowed to question witnesses directly, and of course, with this precedent, it is asserted, the coroner will have to allow other attorneys the same privilege in future inquests.

REMOTE CHANCE FOR CARDINALS

Little Likelihood of Another Red Hat Coming to America in Near Feature.

MISAPPREHENSION EXPLAINED

General Use of the Term "America" in Rome Applies to the Whole of the Western Continent—Many Aspirants for the Purple.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ROME, Oct. 27.—Some time after the recent conclave the vatican was surprised at a recent report from the United States that a high prelate of the church there had spoken repeatedly of the possibility of several Americans being nominated cardinals. As the good faith of the prelate in question could not be doubted, it was supposed that he was laboring under a misapprehension. His apparent mistake can be easily explained. Europeans generally, and Italians in particular, use the term "American" as applying to Canadians, citizens of the United States and South Americans equally.

According to this custom, therefore, even if the pope, who does not speak English, mentioned his intention to create several American cardinals, he did not mean that they should come exclusively from the United States.

The argument has been made that the United States, considering its 12,000,000 Catholic inhabitants, has not a sufficient representation in the sacred college; that Canada has been without a cardinal since the death of Cardinal Taschereau in 1888, and that the whole of Central and South America, with a Catholic population of over 50,000,000, never had one. Brazil, the largest of the Latin-American countries, repeatedly asked for a cardinal, not only through its clergy but directly through the government. This the United States has always refused to do. It is probable that the archbishop of Rio Janerio will be the first South American prelate to be raised to the purple, but if this is done it will then be difficult to refuse the same favor to Mexico, Buenos Ayres, Argentina, or Chile.

It has been suggested, in order to make room for new cardinals, to reduce the cardinals in those countries which do not seem to be sufficiently appreciative of the privilege, as for instance, France, which normally has seven cardinals.

In the United States there are several archbishops whose claims entitle them to enter the sacred college. Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia, is considered first among these, but the situation is such that not only the personality of the man to be selected must be considered, but also the importance of the geographical situation of the archdiocese.

The pope, especially in the matter of nominating cardinals, can make an unexpected decision at any moment; but, according to opinion prevailing at the vatican, it is not likely that in the next consistory or in the one following, will a red hat be sent to the United States.

Threaten to Sue City.

The manager of the Second Brigade band called upon City Clerk E. W. Hassler yesterday and notified him that he would bring suit against the city unless councils soon paid the band for its services at the annual police review last Thanksgiving day, almost a year ago. The bill is for $97. A resolution to pay the bill is pending in the "rump" public safety committee of select council.

ONLY A SUGGESTION.

But It Has Proven of Interest and Value to Thousands.

Common sense would suggest that if one wishes to become fleshy and plump it can only result from the food we eat and digest, and that food should be albuminous or flesh forming food, like eggs, beefsteak and cereals, in other words the kinds of food that make flesh are the foods which form the greater part of our daily bills of fare.

But the trouble is that while we eat enough and generally too much, the stomach, from abuse and overwork, does not properly digest and assimilate it, which is the reason so many people are main thin and underweight; the digestive organs do not completely digest the food forming beefsteak and eggs and similar wholesome food.

There are thousands of such who are really confirmed dyspeptics, although they may have no particular pain or inconvenience from their stomachs.

If such persons would lay their prejudices aside and make a regular practice of taking after each meal one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the food would be quickly and thoroughly digested, because these tablets contain the natural peptones and diastase which every healthy stomach is provided by supplying this want the stomach is soon enabled to reach its natural tone and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets digest every form of flesh forming food, meat, eggs, beef, cereals, vegetables and milk in the same way so quickly build up, strengthen and invigorate thin, dyspeptic men, women and children.

Invalids and children, even the most delicate, find them with marked benefit, as they contain no strong, irritating drugs, no cathartic nor any harmful ingredient.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the most successful and most widely known of any remedy for stomach troubles because it is the most reasonable and scientific of modern medicines.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by druggists in the United States and Canada as well as in Great Britain, at 85 cents for complete treatment.

Nothing further is required to cure any stomach trouble or to make thin, nervous dyspeptic people, strong, plump and well.

MINK—A beautiful fur, in a rich brown color, with alternating dark and light parallel stripes. It is one of the most enduring furs—never entirely out of fashion and much in favor now for neckwear. (See cuts.)

RIVER MINK—This is a very handsome yet inexpensive fur, similar in appearance to the real mink and a little darker than its natural color. (See cuts.)

STONE MARTEN—Tan-colored fur shading into alternating lighter and darker stripes — exquisitely fluffy. (See cuts.)

ALASKA BEAR—This is really a raccoon fur, dyed to a darker shade. It is similar to the real Cub Bear and very popular. (See cuts.)

RUSSIAN MARTEN—The opossum furnishes this fur. It is dyed to a cocoa or cinnamon hue and is an excellent fur at a small cost. (See cuts.)

BROWN MARTEN—This beautiful brown, fluffy fur comes from the great American skunk. The two white stripes so familiar in this little animal are cut out; hence recognition is not easy. (See cuts.)

BLACK FOX—One of the most beautiful and popular furs in use. The skins of the Arctic or Polar Fox in their natural state are pure white, but are dyed to a brilliant jet black. (See cuts.)

LYNX—The winter coat of this animal in its natural state is either gray, blue or dark brown. The hair is long, fluffy and silky and very fine. (See cuts.)

CHINCHILLA—This is one of the softest of furs and deemed a valuable addition to a stylish outfit. (See cuts.)

SIBERIAN GRAY SQUIRREL—These agile little animals are uniformly gray in color with white bellies. Their pelts make a soft, light-weight and pliable fur which is much in favor at this time. (See cuts.)

We are showing a splendid line of scarfs, boas, collarettes, "rosettes" and muffs in the above furs, all bought from the most trustworthy wholesale furriers and guaranteed by them to us. We take pleasure in extending their guarantee to you.
